FIRM FACES CHARGES OVER BRIDGE COLLAPSE

OTTAWA (CP) — Two charges by the city of Ottawa were sworn today against O. J. Gaffney Ltd. of Stratford, Ont., in connection with the Heron Road bridge collapse that took nine lives. Charges were: Failing to brace the structure in a safe manner to withstand all loads likely to be applied to it; and not supplying sufficient bracing and supports to ensure that the project or any part would safely support all loads.

Workers Flock to Peking, Bring Fear of New Clashes

Posters Hail Return of Mao

TOKYO (AP) — A Japanese correspondent reported from Peking today that Chinese workers, including both supporters and opponents of Mao Tse-tung, are pouring into the capital, raising the possibility of violence there.

A correspondent for the newspaper Yomiuri telephoned his paper that more than 1,000,000 workers already had arrived in Peking and more are coming in daily.

"The situation in Peking is fluid and the centre of the storm appears to have shifted from the militant Red Guards to these workers," he said.

"It is certain that the situation in Peking required Mao's return. There is a possibility that the violence which hit Shanghai and other cities will spread to Peking and other cities throughout mainland China."

Japanese newspaper men reported that wall posters in Peking said Mao had returned to Peking to take personal command in his struggle against the faction headed by President Liu Shao-chi.

STRENGTHEN POLICE
The Peking correspondent for the Kyodo news agency said one poster announced that the central committee of the Chinese Communist party had decided to strengthen the powers of the security police.

This report said few measures included arrest for anyone hindering Mao's continuing purge or of hampering production, and the arrest of anyone ridiculing Mao or Defence Minister Lin Biao, Mao's heir apparent and chief associate in the purge.

A correspondent for the newspaper Asahi said he saw angry workers demonstrating in front of the security ministry and calling for the ouster of Security Minister Hsieh Fu-chih.

Obviously Liu's followers were arousing the labor movement, which had been his stronghold. An editorial in People's Daily and the party theoretical journal Red Flag denounced "economism" — the search for higher wages and better working conditions — as "a new aspect of the big counter-attack launched by the bourgeois reactionary line on the proletarian revolutionary line."

It added that reactionary elements were inciting workers to stop work.

REMOVE CHIEF
The Yugoslav news agency Tanjug reported from Peking that Tao Chu has been removed as propaganda chief, according to a list of new leaders of the Communist central committee's.

CONTROL COMMISSION PLANS TALKS

NEW DELHI (AFP) — An Indian government spokesman said today the three members of the International Control Commission have agreed to hold talks and diplomatic sources said these might lead to a new peace initiative on Vietnam.

The spokesman said the ICC members—Canada, India and Poland—agreed to meet "at an appropriate level and suitable place" at a "mutually acceptable and convenient time."

Reliable unofficial sources said the talks would be held here.

WINNIPEG (CP) — Two veterans of the Dieppe raid are in favor of permitting German war veterans to participate in a 25th anniversary ceremony.

It was reported today that the Canadian government has been asked to give its opinion whether 100 German veterans should be permitted to take part in the Aug. 19 ceremony. (See earlier story Page 3.)

It will take place in the Canadian cemetery at Dieppe and will include hundreds of Canadian veterans of the assault by 5,000 men of the Canadian 2nd Division.

Alec Graham, pipe major of the Queens Own Cameron Highlanders, said in an interview he thought the hatchets had been buried long ago.

"All that happened during the old order of Hitler and the Nazis, I thought we got rid of them... we should act accordingly."

Hugh Comack, who was a signaller for the highlanders at Dieppe, said it is time past differences were forgotten.

"We should be big enough to look back and forget. They have people buried there too," he said.

OFFICER'S VIEW ON UNITY TO DETERMINE PROMOTION

By DAVE MCINTOSH

OTTAWA (CP) — Canadian Forces headquarters has issued orders which indicate that an officer's views on service unification may play a part in his appointments and promotions.

Confidential reports are made annually on each officer in the services by a superior officer. This has long been a standard practice, as in the business world.

These "performance evaluation reports" are written on a standard form known as CF255. Last September an order went out from headquarters amending CF255. Part of this order reads:

"You will appreciate the need to assess the tri-service potential of all officers. Accordingly a sub-para C has been added to para 18 entitled employment—suitability for employment outside of their normal service environment—in which the assessor will record his opinion of the assessee's potential for employment in integrated position."

FAST PROMOTION COVERED

Another order, dealt with the new provision for fast promotion of officers of exceptional ability.

The order says in part:

"All recommendations in this category must be accompanied by a covering letter setting out in complete detail the reasons why the individual is considered to deserve such rapid and extraordinary promotion and why it is in the interest of the unified force to do so."

A bill to unify the armed forces into a single service has not yet cleared second reading approval in principle—in the Commons.

The latter order also says: "Because officers promoted in this category must have truly exceptional qualities, the most extreme care possible will be taken in selection procedures."

The unit commander, base commander, area or formation commander, chief of personnel, and finally the chief of defence staff must all agree and the chief of the defence staff personally will be the final approving authority.

"This policy will apply only to those officers who have clearly demonstrated truly exceptional intelligence, ability and potential."

"Statistical evidence indicates that personnel in this exceptional category constitute less than one per cent of any group."

CHAIRMAN STALKS OUT OF COMMISSION MEETING

Campbell Refused Police Report

VANCOUVER (CP) — Mayor Tom Campbell walked out of a Vancouver police commission meeting Thursday when he was refused a copy of a controversial police report covering alleged criminal activities by members of the police department.

The report was made in June, 1965, by Vancouver lawyer George Murray at the request of former mayor William Rathie. It followed a $1,200,000 money robbery at a downtown warehouse and a string of bank robberies in which police officers were believed to have been involved.

One constable thought to have been involved in the criminal activities, Leonard Hogue, died in an apparent murder-suicide that also claimed the lives of his wife and six children.

Mayor Campbell's actions Thursday were the latest development in his 18-month fight to have Mr. Murray's report released to the public.

As an alderman on city council last year, he urged Mayor Rathie and Attorney General Bonner to make the report a part of the public record.

Mr. Murray urged him not to, and claimed the report could be damaging to police force morale and possibly libelous to some members of the force. The lawyer said he did not prepare the report for public consumption.

'Bombing Must Stop'

ROME (Reuters) — Three West German clergymen who returned here from Hanoi said today that President Ho Chi Minh of North Vietnam continued to insist that U.S. bombing of North Vietnam must stop before peace talks could begin.

The mission, which flew from Hong Kong, included Pastor Martin Niemoller, First World War U-boat commander who became world famous for his opposition to Hitler.

As things get straightened out in China the situation'll just be confused, instead of hopelessly muddled.

Fire Destroys 20 N.Y. Homes

NEW YORK (AP) — A 10-alarm fire punctuated by gas explosions roared through an eight-block residential area of Jamaica, Queens, today, destroying 20 homes and lighting the pre-dawn sky with brilliant yellow and orange flames for miles around.

Authorities at the scene said there were no reports of injuries.

Quick precautionary action by firemen and police, who responded to reports of a gas odor in the area and evacuated residents before the fire roared out of control, apparently saved many lives.

Two pieces of fire equipment—a ladder truck and an engine—were reported destroyed in homes.

the fire when they stalled and firemen had to abandon them. The destroyed buildings were mainly one and two-family wooden frame homes.

SMOKE ENDS

By 8 a.m., the dense, black smoke that had shot hundreds of feet into the air was gone. Flames spurring out of the gas main shot about 200 feet into the air.

"If we did extinguish the flames now we would have free flowing gas in the area," said Fire Commissioner Robert O. Lowery. "We're just wetting buildings down to prevent the spread of the fire."

Police estimated that they got 100 persons safely out of their homes.

Nationalist Chinese Claim Two Red Fighters Shot Down

TAIPEI, Formosa (Reuters)

The Nationalist Chinese Air Force today claimed to have shot down two Chinese Communist MIG-19s in a dogfight off Quemoy Island in the Formosa Strait.

The defence ministry said Nationalist jet fighters involved in a dogfight with 12 MIG-19s suffered no loss and returned to base safely.

The air battle was the first reported clash between Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek's forces on Formosa and the Communists since the current leadership struggle in Peking began.

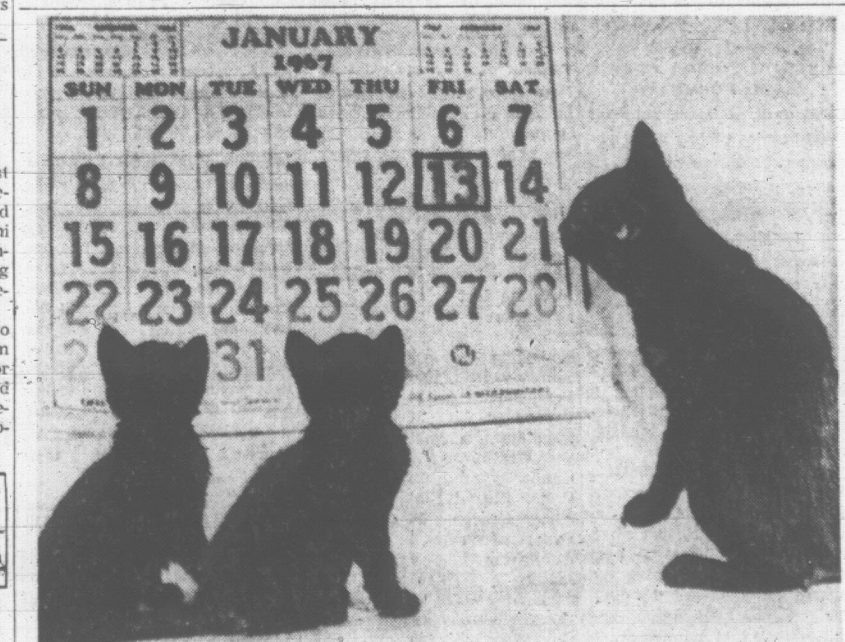

The defence ministry said four Nationalist aircraft were on routine patrol in the Formosa Strait northeast of the Nationalist-held island of Quemoy when they were attacked by 12 MIG-19s.

In the ensuing battle, the out-

downed two of the Communist MIGs and the remaining 10 MIGs fled towards the mainland, it said.

The defence ministry's announcement did not disclose the type of Nationalist planes involved in the battle.

Since the Nationalists fled from the mainland in 1949 sporadic air and sea clashes have been reported in the Formosa Strait.

BENNETT MAY HAVE STARTED SOMETHING

Are We on the Road To 3½-Day Work Week?

By JOHN MIKA
Times Legislative Reporter

From where I sit, the overtime ban may yet develop into one of the most significant social measures of our time.

It may prove to be the real breakthrough — after all the theories expounded about it — into the economy of abundance.

The provincial government's policy may seem to be in a little trouble now but even the crisis that produced the one-month interim period for construction projects in the bush has brought two positive results:

It has confirmed, by creating a specific exception, that a policy exists to limit the work week to 44 hours for most of the labor force.

And it has forced unions to face the issue squarely of whether they want a shortened week or whether they want the same work week with a special bonus for working the final hours...

...or even a longer work week to increase the bonus.

Faced with the reality and not just a hypothesis, they, by and large, chose the shorter week and for this, prophets like Richard J. Needham and lazy louts like myself surely must be thankful.

(As I understand it, the Globe and Mail columnist recently in our midst feels that we are slaves to possessions purchased at the cost of working so hard and so long we have no time for life itself.)

On a parallel but somewhat different track, I've always felt that overtime for the sake of adding a few dollars to my purse subtracts too many hours from the short enough time I have to experience life.)

Spread Jobs

The decision, following creation of a 37-hour standard work week in the construction industry, to cut out overtime inevitably will force spreading of jobs — I think in a more dramatic fashion than most anticipate.

For years now we've been swiftly erecting a huge dam of working capital, technological innovations and automation to generate abundance but into the reservoir, we've poured millions of wistful words about the coming leisure that would free a man's soul without achieving as much as the wise Hindus and Coast Salish Indians enjoyed before we came to these shores.

(In fact, for those like myself who have worked in major foundries and on frenzied assembly lines, it seemed for a while as though we were determined to make Chaplin's hilarious Modern Times a universal and sober reflection of our lives.)

Astute Timing

Now, it seems, Premier Bennett's customarily arrogant decree "there shall be no more overtime" may demonstrate against his customarily astute political timing.

Those few words, added to all the millions that have gone before it, could begin spinning the turbines to give some — which is to say all, eventually — a 3½-day work week.

Because of today's high-cost capital plant and machinery (made even higher by tight money interest rates) industry must keep the machines working as long as they can to make them pay even at the cost of overtime wage rates for the employees.

Prevented from working men overtime at any price, industry will have to devise a non-overtime method of keeping production going (necessity is the mother of invention, etc.).

There's not much difference between 37 hours and 35 — said he couldn't continue as chairman if information was being kept from him. The refusal to provide the report came from commissioners David R. Blair, John I. Bird and J. W. Hudson, all appointed by Attorney-General Bonner.

"Who's running this city, the mayor and council or the attorney-general?" Mayor Campbell added.

"They are afraid I might rock the boat. Now I'm going to do it."

"This is an insult to the mayor and council and to the citizens of Vancouver."

TELLS THEIR VIEW

Mr. Campbell said he was told by the commissioners that it would not be in the best interests of the police department to make the report public without the approval of the whole commission.

He said that all available copies of the report were sent to the attorney-general's office in Victoria recently. The mayor added he hasn't seen the report since he took office Jan. 1 and doesn't know what it contains.

"Anyone who conceals the report should be thrown out on his ear," he said. "It is up to me as mayor to study the report and decide if it is or isn't in the best interests of the city to release it."

Attorney-General Bonner said in Victoria Thursday night that if Mayor Campbell wants a copy of the Murray report, all he has to do is ask for it.

Mr. Bonner said the mayor should study it, then make his own decision on whether or not to release it.

Slander Suit Decision Reserved

VANCOUVER (CP) — Mr. Justice J. G. Ruttan of the British Columbia Supreme Court reserved decision Thursday in the slander action brought by George E. P. Jones, former chairman of the B.C. Purchasing Commission, against Premier Bennett.

Lawyer Thomas Berger, representing Mr. Jones, said in his final submission that his client was a victim of rumor and speculation. He earlier had asked for substantial damages.

The slander action stemmed from remarks by the premier at a Victoria Social Credit meeting in March, 1965, after Mr. Jones had been fired by a special act of the legislature.

The premier is alleged to have said:

"I am not going to talk about the Jones boy, but I could. I want to assure you that the position the government has taken is the right one."

Mr. Jones claimed his dismissal was a result of some misconduct and that the premier's remarks left this inference in the minds of the public.

He testified that he had applied unsuccessfully for more than 100 jobs since his dismissal.

Scout Leaders Meeting

B.C.'s 16 professional scout leaders are holding their annual conference for the first time here starting today.

The scout executives, nine of them from the Vancouver area, are holding "a frank discussion of the real problems in scouting," said Jack Scrivener, one of two executives from the Greater Victoria region.

"This means manpower both at the local level and in the superstructure, the scout commissioners," said Mr. Scrivener.

Provincial commissioner C. W. Nash will be a speaker Sunday.

The province's scout executives (an executive holds a salaried, full-time position), have been meeting every year since 1948.

The conference is being held at CFB Esquimalt.

Hit By Own Fire

SAIGON (AP) — Supporting artillery fire hit a unit of the U.S. First Infantry Division by mistake today, killing eight American soldiers and wounding 34, an American spokesman reported.

A spokesman said the unit was a company of the division's Third Brigade taking part in Operation Cedar Falls in the Iron Triangle about 30 miles north of Saigon.

"Preliminary investigation indicates error in plotting the firing data," the spokesman said.

propaganda department announced today.

The report said the new propaganda leaders are Wang Li, who apparently became first secretary of the Peking Communist party committee after Li Hsueh-fang disappeared; Tang Ping-chu, an editor and member of the new group formed to lead the purge in the army, and Hu Chi, also a member of the army group.

Tanjug said another leader who "fell off the wagon" of Mao's cultural revolution was Liu Chi-chien, who had been the No. 2 man for ideological matters in the army.

Travellers arriving in Hong Kong from Canton reported that thousands of Red Guards are moving into Canton for a huge "struggle" against enemies of Mao.

CITY PACKED

Every hotel and boarding house is packed with pro-Mao Red Guards, the travellers said, and thousands more are bedding down in storage sheds converted to temporary barracks.

They said the city was plastered with posters and handbills promising that Mao's wife, Chiang Ching, would go to Canton to lead the demonstration personally.

A European who just left Canton said the opposing groups had run out of wall space for posters and handbills and had to spread them on the streets, weighing them down with rocks.

In Hong Kong, railway car statistics showed that China's food exports to this British colony had been slashed almost two-thirds — apparently the result of rail tie-ups on the mainland.

Arrivals from Canton said many rail workers in that city and on the line between Canton and Shanghai had gone on strike. They said the rail workers blamed Mrs. Mao for cutting their wages — an apparent reference to reports that she had personally ordered dissolution of the All-China Trade Union Federation two weeks ago.

Hal Dornan Stricken

OTTAWA (CP) — Hal Dornan, 48, press secretary to Prime Minister Pearson, was reported in fair condition after being admitted to Civic Hospital with a mild stroke Sunday. A former editorial writer with the Vancouver Sun, he has worked in Mr. Pearson's office since 1963.

LEGION OFFICIAL PROTESTS GERMAN REQUEST

'Dancing With Your Killer'

TORONTO (CP)—A Royal Canadian Legion official said Thursday night participation by German veterans in ceremonies marking the 25th anniversary of the battle of Dieppe "would be like dancing with your killers."

Harry Lister, president of the Legion's General Wingate Branch here, was commenting on a report in The Globe and Mail that the Germans want to join in paying tribute to the memory of Canadians who died in the 1942 landing on the French coast.

The Globe and Mail story, by Alan Harvey, quoted a French informant, as saying the German request is being considered by the French ministry of the interior. The story said the Paris decision will probably hinge on Canadian approval.

"I would not want anything to do with ceremonies that included the German troops who were at Dieppe," Mr. Lister said. Governments seem willing to consort with former enemies, but the men who fought there can't think that way.

"I think it would be terribly out of place. The idea is almost humorous."

R. R. Labatt of Hamilton, a lieutenant-colonel with the Royal Hamilton Light Infantry at Dieppe, said the presence of Germans at the ceremonies would be asking for trouble.

"Personally, I wouldn't mind having a chat with some of the Germans who were there. They treated us very well after the show was over. But many of the people who will attend the ceremonies will not be those who were at Dieppe."

Sandy Shusterman, a Toronto cab driver who is organizing a re-union this summer of Canadians who were captured at Dieppe, said the German request "comes as quite a blow to me."

"I don't think the men will like that and I can speak for most of them. These ceremonies are to honor our dead, that they killed."

Civil Servants Now Masters?

Major Parties Agree on Need For Type of Watchdog Committee

OTTAWA (CP)—Members of the three political parties in the Commons agreed Thursday that perhaps too much power is being placed in the hands of government boards, agencies and Crown corporations.

As the result of the immense growth of governmental activity, one can ask whether expert public servants, are becoming the masters of the people, was the way it was put by Gerald Baldwin (PC—Peace River).

The growth of uncontrolled power in the civil service cropped up as the Commons continued to whittle away at a massive government bill which establishes a 15-member board to control land, sea and air transport coming under federal jurisdiction.

Debate on the bill continues today.

Mr. Baldwin won support from his own party, the Liberals and the NDP in calling for a committee to watch over activities of the so-called "super board."

Its powers would include the spending of about $480,000,000 over the next eight years and the right to impose penalties for those disobeying its regulations. It also would assume the authority of board of transport commissioners and other federal boards it will displace.

GAIN POWER

"Never before have so few unelected people being given so much power in relation to this economic characteristics of this country and the right to deal with all aspects of transportation," said the Alberta lawyer.

Transport Minister Pickers-gill said he agreed with the idea of a watchdog committee. But he objected to Mr. Baldwin's proposal to have the committee established by statute rather than by a rule of the Commons. He said the Commons transport committee could do the job.

Mr. Baldwin's amendment put aside for debate later when it was hoped the differences on how the committee will be established would be overcome.

Mr. Baldwin kicked off the debate by saying there was too much apathy and indifference in Canada by the way Parliament was giving the public service "the almost uncontrolled power to regulate and deal with various aspects of our social and economic life."

Alvin Hamilton (PC—Qu'Appelle) said Parliament has accepted that it must delegate the wide powers to the board. But rights of Parliament to maintain some say in the board's doings had to be preserved.

Establishing the committee by statute meant that it could meet at the start of each session of Parliament without waiting for the government to take action. Too often governments delayed setting up committees for political advantage, Mr. Hamilton said.

COMMONS WATCHES

Herb Gray (L—Essex West) said there was no question that all MPs agreed in the principle that the super board should come under the continuing surveillance of the Commons.

But the way to do it was to develop specialist committees backed by professional and permanent staff.

H. W. Herridge (NDP—Kootenay West) favored a committee of the Commons to watch over the board. He called Mr. Baldwin's amendment an attempt "to change the constitution by the side door by providing for the establishment of committees on a statutory basis." This was most unsound.

Earlier, the Commons approved an amendment by Robert Andras (L—Port Arthur) giving the new board the power to look into takeovers of one type of transportation by another.

Under this amendment, the board must be assured the takeover is in the public interest before allowing it.

BYELECTIONS

PM Told To Name Vote Date

OTTAWA (CP)—Federal by-elections must be called in Sudbury and Hull, Que., by July 12 under legal action taken Thursday by Commons Speaker Lucien Lamoureux at the request of Conservative MPs.

The Conservatives invoked a section of the House of Commons Act requiring the prime minister to announce by-elections within six months after House seats are officially declared vacant.

The by-elections will not have to be held before July 12, but Prime Minister Pearson has until then to announce the voting date. Both ridings formerly were held by Liberals.

Conservative House Leader Michael Starr gave formal notice in the Commons that the Sudbury seat is vacant following the death of Rodger Mitchell earlier this month.

Theodore Ricard (PC—St. Hyacinthe-Bagot) gave a similar notice regarding Hull, whose veteran MP Alexis Caron died last August.

Children Responsible, Says Owner

A man who said children on their way to school let his dog off its chain was fined $5 Thursday when he pleaded guilty to owning an animal running at large.

Magistrate Ostler said in central court he sympathized with the problem of Frank Kitto, 5158 Del Monte Ave., but Saanich "literally bristles with dog running out of control" and making a nuisance of themselves.

Mr. Kitto had been warned on two earlier occasions, court was told.

CHARGE that the U.S. National Guard "neither trains nor guards" has brought a sharp reply from the guard association. Sen. Edward Kennedy made the remark Thursday in Washington saying the guard allows professional athletes and others to join guard units to escape draft. The association labelled the charge inaccurate, uninformed and insulting.

Incest Law Change Urged In Sweden

STOCKHOLM (Reuters)—A Swedish member of Parliament said Thursday he will try to force a change in the country's incest laws so that brothers and sisters may marry.

Liberal member Sten Sjöholm said he plans to force a debate on the subject.

His move followed a decision Wednesday by a court in Karlskoga, central Sweden, that a 34-year-old man and his 25-year-old sister could continue to live together as a married couple.

The couple admitted in court that they broke the law and said they were prepared to accept the maximum penalty of one year in prison. A medical expert testified that their eight-year-old child, who was given out for adoption, grew up normally.

The court found them guilty but ruled they could continue to live together.

He Has a Gold-Lined Well But All He Owns Is Water

PRINCE GEORGE (CP)—The taps in Gerald Ridler's home are chrome-plated, and the well in his back yard is lined with gold.

But only the water is his. After gold was discovered in his well, others beat him to the claims office in Quesnel, 60 miles south of this B.C. central interior city.

Mineral rights to his property now belong to Tabor Lake Gold Mines Ltd., a two-month-old Prince George company that has staked 98 claims and four leases around Mr. Ridler's home, six miles east of Prince George.

"Even though I don't have any part of the company, it's still sort of a nice thing," he said Thursday. "I think we'll come to some sort of an agreement."

Mr. Ridler's gold strike occurred shortly after he moved here from Winnipeg with his wife and two sons about a year ago. He found that the well in his back yard wasn't producing enough water so he called a drilling company.

"I had a driller come in to sink a second well but he hit hard rock after only a few inches," he said. The driller pulled out the drill bit and found the end as bald as a baseball bat.

"I can remember saying jokingly, 'Maybe there's gold down there' and the next thing he did was pry some yellow stuff out of the bit with his finger."

"We both said 'that looks like gold,'" he said. And it was.

SUSPICIONS CONFIRMED

The driller, Floyd Forester of Prince George, sent for welder Ben Dimler to sharpen his drill bit. Mr. Dimler sent a sample to a Vancouver engineering company, and soon had his suspicions confirmed.

"All the kids in the neighborhood came running when we heard the result," said Mr. Ridler. "They were picking the gold right out of the sludge."

"We've been bathing in water coming right out of a gold well. It's sort of a nice situation even though I don't own it."

The Tabor Lakes company was formed by several Prince George businessmen after word of the strike got around.

Company Secretary Howard Cossman said the plans call for drilling to start next week.

FIRM ACTION TIGHTENING UP
British Columbia's securities regulation has been promised by Attorney-General Bonner and if the legislation to be introduced is as good as it sounds in the broad terms given by Mr. Bonner this is exceptionally good news. The general outline is in accord with what has been long recommended by this newspaper, and the government is doing well in preparing to make the moves necessary to improve the climate for investment in this province.

Particularly gratifying is Mr. Bonner's promise that the administration of securities regulations is to be improved, with more funds for additional staff to handle the heavy work load. The attorney-general is quite right when he says that laws are only as good as their enforcement. It has been apparent for a considerable time that the work overload imposed on Securities Commissioner William Irwin and his small staff by the mining and industrial boom of recent years precluded the possibility of the thorough job of investigation and regulation which was needed.

The most important facet of any new legislation in this field must be the strengthening of full-disclosure rules in order that investors will get the best possible chance to exercise their independent judgments. A provision to force disclosure of "insider trading," that is, trading by company officers, directors or major shareholders on the basis of information not available to the general public, is also a must in any sound securities legislation. This should also be coupled with a means of recovering for all shareholders any profits realized by "insiders" as a result of their taking advantage of their positions to act in the market prior to public release of information which would affect the price of the company's shares.

Mr. Bonner speaks hopefully of the possibility of greater co-operation between the provinces in securities regulation and it is to be hoped that this comes about soon. The proposed co-operation with the federal government on deposit insurance for provincially-licensed trust and loan companies is another good step toward better protection for investors since it will also force better disclosure of company operations for the benefit of shareholders and note holders.

It was noted quite rightly by the attorney-general that the purpose of the new regulations would not be to stifle business enterprise in the province. And for honest firms run by honest men the proposals outlined so far should not be any hindrance. As for the other firms, and the other men, the province could well do without them.

National Property in Space

WITH SPACE-TRANSMITTED communications a new dimension has been added to natural resources. The struggles and controversies that marked the early days of the international allocation of radio frequencies may find a parallel in the growing urge of countries to stake a claim in space for the satellites which will carry — on an increasingly important scale — the television and microwave communications of the future.

Already the United States' Telstar and other experimental communications satellites have proved their worth in globe-encircling broadcasts. The new technique of establishing a wave-reflecting body some 22,000 miles out in space, travelling at a speed which will hold it in an apparently stationary position over any chosen spot on the earth's surface, will become an essential part of the communications of the future. But Canadians are now being told that they must act quickly to reserve their positions in the heavens if they are not to lose them to other countries.

A recent brief to the federal government by private interests hoping to establish a nation-wide color television network employing originating stations, satellite relays, ground reception stations and eventual local broadcasts to almost every part of Canada, urges immediate action. It says that Canada could claim four stations in space for communications satellites, but that the situation will alter rapidly as more and more international attention is paid to this development.

Sky space, in fact, should be considered just as valuable a resource as water power, and be just as carefully preserved for our nation's future needs. In November the federal government commissioned an expert study of the potential use of satellite communications systems, to be completed next June. It is clear that this new concept of communications, little understood by the general public, constitutes a vital and essential field for Canadian development. We should lose no time in staking out our rights in space and assuming a leading role in world communications.

Confusing the Issue

THE ACTION OF THE HOUSE of Representatives in depriving Mr. A. C. Powell, first of his chairmanship of the House education and labor committee and then, temporarily, of his seat in Congress, will no doubt trigger many cries of racial discrimination.

But it will be unfortunate for the Negro-rights cause if Mr. Powell's setback is widely interpreted in this light, for the record of his doings over the past few years — his questionable junkets at public expense, his feuding with the New York courts, and other highly publicized activities — have done little to enhance his picture as a commendable example of the Negro in public office.

Mr. Powell has, however, retained a great degree of popularity among his many followers and there can be little doubt that they will make the most of the present situation. The fact remains that, whether or not many of Mr. Powell's activities as a Congressman have been duplicated by white-skinned colleagues, he has not encouraged the cause of Negro political participation in the country at large. It is hardly fair to charge racial discrimination where there are so many other valid reasons for Congressional disfavor.

Eggs in Different Baskets

AS MR. WINTERS NOTED IN the Commons on Monday, Canada's trade with Korea is small. His announcement of a most-favored-nation agreement with the Asiatic republic nevertheless gave him an opportunity to underscore Canada's current trading philosophy.

The accord marks a further expansion of Canada's trading and economic relations with countries across the Pacific and parallels Canadian support of Korea's accession to GATT. It brings formal ratification of trade agreements made by this country to a total of 104.

Canada, in other words, is out to make formal export-import arrangements with whatever countries it can "formulate such pacts without violating commitments already in existence. It is not Canadian government policy to enter restrictive regional arrangements that could place too great a dependence on one big market or one big supplier. The eggs will be spread around in different baskets.

CONTRADICTIONARY PROMISES

By BRUCE HUTCHISON

The Big Gamble on Walter Gordon

EXCEPT for one fatal fallacy, it is easy to understand Mr. Pearson's motives in rescuing Mr. Gordon from the wilderness. The motive of friendship and the motive of fear, the theory that Mr. Gordon would do more harm to the government outside than inside it, the need to assure the public that the government was not turning rightwards or soft on American penetration — all these things are quite understandable.

Hutchison

In short, the prime minister was trying to make his cabinet the broadest possible spectrum of conflicting Canadian opinion and let it fight out its disagreement on fundamentals in secret, transferring the debate from Parliament to the Privy Council chamber. But the fallacy (to use a charitable term) remains and cannot be kept secret.

Mr. Gordon represents a double promise. On the one hand, he promises to raise Canada's living standard and vastly expand its social services which depend absolutely on its economic growth, since nothing else can pay the bill. On the other, he promises to curb American investment. Both goals may be desirable but they are contradictory. We can't reach both at once as Mr. Gordon argues and may even believe. We must make a choice.

Benefits of U.S. Capital

The spectacular business development of Canada in the last two decades, and the second highest living standard in the world, are based very largely on American capital. Without it our growth would have been much slower, and our welfare services much lower, than they are.

If the capital inflow fell significantly our living standard would fall, too, unemployment would rise and all welfare cheques would shrink in real value. Moreover, as we learned in the exchange crisis and currency devaluation of 1962, even a minor withdrawal of American money can push us to the edge of bankruptcy overnight because we need this money, in high volume, not only for industrial expansion but to cover our current trade deficit. This is a difficult, delicate and dangerous situation, not of Mr. Gordon's making, but it is our situation and he intends to change it.

If he were to say that our living standard should be reduced for reasons more important than economics, one could praise his candor. If he were to say that, without American money, we cannot presently finance much larger social services, one might admire his courage. That would be a logical, workable and patriotic policy, if the public accepted it. But he says precisely the opposite.

He says that we can have a higher living standard, more state welfare and less American money at the same time, which is mathematical nonsense, as he must know if he had read the Economic Council's reports.

The glaring paradox in Mr. Gordon's mind, or at least on his lips, is well known to his colleagues. It was one of the most powerful men in the government who first pointed it out to me, and rejoices, therefore, at Mr. Gordon's departure. Nevertheless, having removed the paradox by removing Mr. Gordon, the prime minister now re-introduced both and plants a time bomb in his cabinet for later explosion.

Even as a cold-blooded political calculation — apart altogether from policy — Mr. Gordon's return is a dubious gamble. It has appalled a large sector of the cabinet and outraged a large sector of the Liberal party, as Mr. Ray Perrault, the party leader in British Columbia, has courageously told Mr. Pearson in a public statement.

As against that obvious risk, the prime minister decided that the risk of antagonizing Mr. Gordon was still greater. The loose cannon on the deck had to be tied down somehow, lest it puncture and sink the ship. An outsider may doubt that it is tied down even now but in any case the prime minister's gamble is one of the most daring in the history of our politics.

Whether it will pay off in the end neither Mr. Pearson or anyone else can foresee but everyone can foresee how Mr. Gordon will play the high cards dealt to him by his friends.

All those inside and outside the Liberal party who favor foreign investment to build a strong economy and, with it, a durable independent nation, will be denounced for planning to sell Canada out to the United States; also for opposing the welfare state and the interests of the poor.

This comical caricature will be painted in gaudy colors to hide the fallacy while Mr. Pearson, a skilled equestrian, attempts to ride the two horses champing in his stable.

The question of basic policy now looming like a deep canyon between Mr. Sharp and Mr. Gordon is clear enough, the free trader and internationalist on one side and the protectionist and nationalist on the other. It is not surprising to find them in disagreement, when honest men have disagreed about these old issues from the nation's beginning, but it is surprising to find them in the same cabinet.

Mentor's Methods

No doubt Mr. Pearson will contrive some means of bridging the gulf between them, if anybody can. As a pupil of Mackenzie King he learned his mentor's methods in youth and has refined them by his own. Since the Liberal party, in solemn convention, has opposed any restriction on American investment, the government's policy may be described as not necessarily restriction but restriction if necessary.

Any citizen who expects a greater clarity in Canadian government must be very naive, or very ignorant of our history. As usual, the issue of investment, the tariff and the rest will be settled by vague and changing compromise, by a daily measurement of practical pressures, not by abstract principles.

Policy, in such a disparate nation, will never be black or white, always tattle-tale grey from the suds and detergents of the great washing machine on Parliament Hill. But even a master laundryman like Mr. Pearson cannot quite remove the indelible mark of the Gordon fallacy.

FROM WASHINGTON

LBJ Speech—Calm, Courageous, Resistant

THE President's message on the State of the Union was very good news, for two quite different though linked reasons. It was good news, first of all, because of the indications the speech so clearly gave of the state of the President himself. Here is a man who has gone, in less than two years, from a daily diet of intoxication and excessive adulation to a daily diet of shrill and excessive vilification. Most men would be a bit rattled, to put it mildly, by this kind of change of surface fortune.

Alsop

This speech showed that the President is anything but rattled. No doubt he is more withdrawn and, more likely to behave like a bear with a sore paw about minor matters. But this speech, the most candid and least phony-pious he has ever delivered, was the utterance of a man with the calmness and courage needed to follow through on all those courses he holds to be wise and needful.

It is reassuring that the President has not let himself be rattled. And it is reassuring, too, that he has refused to be pressured into changing his course, either on Vietnam or the Great Society. He had to resist very powerful pressures indeed.

On Vietnam, an immense campaign was mounted to persuade the President to announce another bombing pause. The United Nations lobby inside the administration, the UN secretary general, U Thant, various foreign governments, and the whole silly-solemn segment of American intellectual life, joined together in this effort.

It was conducted on many levels, in public and in private. It was aided by this administration's ludicrous image-consciousness, currently more inflamed by the strange decision of a great newspaper to allow a reporter to visit an enemy capital, when the enemy's invitation was proffered with the sole purpose of using the reporter to transmit enemy propaganda.

None the less, this effort to get the President to do a foolish thing for public relations purposes was firmly resisted. With equal firmness, the President also resisted the even more formidable pressure, mainly from key Democratic members of the House and Senate, to bring his Great Society programs to a screeching halt by deep cuts in their appropriations.

The motive for the proposed six per cent surtax on incomes and corporate profits was not to pay for the war in Vietnam; it was, rather, to conserve the Great Society programs. Because of the existing slow-down in the economy, there are plenty of presidential advisers who hold that we can safely afford the kind

So Handicapped Can See

The Confederation Train now standing at Victoria is a fine concept, imaginatively executed. Wednesday morning, through the courtesy of the train officials, a party of 45 handicapped workers from Goodwill Enterprises for the Handicapped were, by prior arrangement, able to board and view the train without waiting in line.

All were much impressed. However, because of the stepped boarding arrangements and narrow exits, those of our handicapped using wheelchairs or crutches had to be excluded from the party.

This is not the fault of the very helpful train staff but rather an unfortunate oversight in this project's planning. Little can be done about it during the train's remaining days in Victoria — but cannot the appropriate authorities organize some changes for the train's other trans-Canada stopping places where other handicapped people live? — Samuel R. Rea, Executive Director.

Hospitals Before Museum

Recently there appeared a statement that the province had awarded a $3,385,000 contract for the completion of the new Museum and Archives Building.

It seems strange that, considering the desperate need for hospitals, the province should be spending millions on the building at this time.

Such a building should most certainly not have priority over hospital needs.

Before it is too late the province should give serious consideration to converting the present skeleton into a hospital or perhaps a convalescent hospital. — Joseph Watts.

Boons Low Income Students

I do feel, and have felt for a long time, that there should be compulsory high school education, and to enable this to come to pass there would necessarily be a bonus of $100 a month per student by the government to lower income brackets. A means test could be avoided by scrutiny of income tax returns.

The only way to raise money for this magnificent venture to a happier life is by the increase of tax on private income of people of means. No assessment in any way should be made on those of lower income. — Helen M. Weir, 1331 May.

Let The Young Handle It

Every once in a while someone gets a bee in his bonnet about juvenile delinquency. The typical solution to this problem is to "get tough" or "crack down" on the young offenders. The typical result is publicity galore but little action of a profound nature.

Why? Because nobody ever seems to think of the most logical solution of all. Those who could do more than anyone else to reduce the delinquency rate are the young people themselves!

Ask them to set up an advisory board of their own to study each case and make their recommendations to the magistrates as to the punishment befitting the crime.

A teen-age advisory board is an idea which has been used with great success in some southern cities and the only criticism that judges seem to have of the board is that they tend to be too harsh in their recommendations.

Less than 5 per cent of the juvenile population gets into trouble which leads to court, but the more than 95 per cent who are decent, law-abiding junior citizens find themselves unjustly grouped with the minority who are doing their worst to give everyone the idea that all teenagers are lawbreakers. — C. Looking Back

From The Times of Jan. 13, 1966:

In a recent letter to the department of trade and commerce at Ottawa, A. W. Donly, Canadian trade agent in Mexico, says that, while the United States still holds the majority of the trade with that country, Canada is making headway and, "if Canadian manufacturers are not too apathetic," they will develop a large market in the republic.

There is a good chance for some one else to step in and collar a great deal of the trade which is dropping out of the Englishman's hands.

Noted Roman Catholic Theologian Quits the Church

A Revolt Against 'Fossilized Feudalism'

By CHARLES DAVIS

LONDON—On Sunday three weeks before Christmas, I got up from my desk and went to the chapel. I knew that the end of my struggle had come. I intended to leave the Roman Catholic Church.

I had been working on a theological paper for a meeting between Anglicans and Roman Catholics, arranged for January, at the Italian village of Gazzada. My reading for it did not tell me anything I did not know before, but it forced me to examine the state of my own convictions on the papacy and on the Roman Catholic Church as an institution.

I found that I no longer believed in the papal claims as defined in Vatican I and repeated in Vatican II and that my general understanding of the Christian Church put me outside Roman Catholicism.

I recognized that I had not seriously held the Roman claims for some time, though I had never admitted this to myself. My mind had been so twisted and inhibited during the past few years that, while trying desperately to be honest, I had been running away from my own deepest thoughts.

My intellectual rejection of the papacy emerges now as the result of many years of study and thought. Deep down, I had long been aware that the usual arguments are unconvincing, and the objections to them have lain submerged in my mind as irritants.

The more I have studied the Bible, the less likely the Roman claims have become. Before I began the Gazzada paper I had been doing some work in New Testament criticism. This again raised a strong antecedent probability in my mind against the Roman Church.

In regard to institutional Christianity, there is simply no firm enough biblical basis on which to erect so massive a structure as the Roman Catholic claim requires. In discussing the Roman Catholic Church as an institution, the political and social factors of its historical development are much more to the point than any biblical data.

There Are Limits To Elasticity

Like other theologians, I had warded off the implications of the lack of biblical data by appealing to doctrinal and institutional development. There are, however, limits to the elasticity of this concept and the credibility of its application. Unless one presupposes faith, supported from elsewhere, in the papal primacy and infallibility, the more likely explanation of the evidence is not the untwisting of a revealed dogma, but the misguided absolutizing of a transitory structure.

Moreover, the two papal

dogmas concerning Mary, the Immaculate Conception and the Assumption, have rendered the notion of development suspect. No satisfactory account of dogmatic development has yet been found to explain how these can be part of Christian revelation. I myself have tried as valiantly as anyone to find such an account.

There is now the further difficulty that new thinking on original sin, death and resurrection is making it more difficult to give the two dogmas a permanently valid meaning. The imposition of these two points as matters of Christian faith renders the papal system theologically incoherent and creates a barrier against explaining the papacy itself as an irreversible development.

This is a highly personal account of the reasons why one well-known Roman Catholic theologian decided six weeks ago to leave the Church—a decision which shocked both clergy and laity.

Mr. Davis makes it clear to any sympathetic reader that his quarrel is not with Christianity but with the institutional church and its government—a problem which is troubling not only many Roman Catholics but adherents to other Christian communions as well. In other words, this is not solely a Roman Catholic difficulty, the reconciling of Jesus Christ with the manner in which many organized churches respond to the challenges of today is a widespread area of conflict among Christians.

Charles Davis, 43, long regarded as one of Britain's leading Roman Catholic theologians and priests, has been professor of theology at Heythrop, the Jesuit college near Oxford, since 1965. He taught for 16 years at St. Edmund's College at Ware and has edited the Clergy Review since 1960.

One of his best-known books was Liturgy and Doctrine, and his latest book, God's Grace in History, was published just three weeks ago with the Church's imprimatur. It was written before he made the decision to leave the Church. Mr. Davis' future wife, Florence Henderson, was also a Roman Catholic.

The Western Church was led in the course of its history to build an elaborate institutional set-up. Unhappily, the Roman Church has made this structure an absolute. But that Church is now internally torn by tension and incoherence, since its institutional faith is, in truth, incompatible with biblical criticism and modern theology.

If anyone wishes to get the feel of what I am saying, let him read the first three chapters of the Constitution on the Church of the Second Vatican Council.

Moves Into A New World

The first two chapters—though I should now make some reservations—present a biblical vision of the Church. With the third, the document moves into a new world, remote from the New Testament, dominated by an excessive stress on institutional arrangements of relative value and split even at that level by an obsessive concern to preserve papal power intact.

That world of juridical functions owes, I suggest, more to fossilized feudalism than to Gospel message.

I should take more kindly to this constant anxiety over the institution, were it not true that the Church in recent history has again and again compromised its mission to save its institutional existence or privilege. The glaring instance is the Church in Nazi Germany, but this does not stand alone. When, in fact, has the Church ever entered into conflict with established authority to bear witness, even at the cost of its institutional position?

The Church as an institution is tuned in upon itself and more concerned with its own authority and prestige than with the Gospel message. I cannot accept its claim upon my faith.

However, I do not think I should ever have confronted my hidden intellectual doubts and denials about the Roman claims, were it not for other factors. The veil covering them was eventually rent by a revelation from the Church as experienced in the concrete. I speak here of a cumulative experience built up over many years, but it reached a climax of disillusion with the callous dishonesty of Pope Paul's postponement in October of a decision on birth control.

Perhaps the following remark is harsh in view of the probable personal bewilderment of the Pope, but the point must be sharply made: one who claims to be the moral leader of mankind should not tell lies. To say, as the Pope did, that the teaching authority of the Church was not in a state of doubt on the issue of birth control was to deny a plain fact.

Church's Failure Meant Suffering

A dishonest evasion of truth is not excused by the desire to save the authority of the Holy See. And to declare without qualification that the existing prohibition of contraception still applies until further notice shows a bureaucratic insensitivity to people and their suffering, an insensitivity all the more inexcusable when one considers how much of that suffering has been caused by the failure of the official Church as a moral guide, due to its authoritarian structure and suppression of free communication and discussion.

But that was only the climactic incident. My experience of the Church has gradually overwhelmed me with its lack of concern for truth and its lack of concern for people.

Few ecclesiastics seem aware that a desire for complete openness and fidelity to truth can consume like a burning passion. I do not consider myself unusual as a thinker, but I have suffered agonies as a theologian in the Roman Catholic Church. I find no attention to truth for its own sake. Reasons of expediency, above all the preservation of authority, seem always to dominate. I look in vain at the official level for a joyful sense of the value and power of truth as truth.

Intervention 'Disreputable'

Indeed, I must confess that the workings of papal authority have for me become increasingly disreputable. I cannot even yet stomach the manner of the papal interventions in the late Council.

As for papal documents, I sometimes think there is need for a new science of Vaticanology, in order to discover which pressure groups have succeeded in getting their way and to interpret in the light of the current Roman background the more cryptic references to opinions vaguely reprobated. And what is issued is so often out of touch with theological thought in the Church at large.

The encyclical Mysterium Fidei on the Eucharist is a notorious example. It not only failed to understand what the recent discussions on transubstantiation were about, but also adopted a general approach to the Eucharist long abandoned by most theologians. I should not have accepted the document as a piece from a student.

Far from experiencing the papal authority as a living doctrinal centre focusing, representing and sanctioning the mind of the Church, I am compelled to the admission that the Pope is enmeshed in an antiquated court system, where truth is handled politically, free discussion always suspect and doctrinal declarations won by manoeuvring. But I was never much interested in palace politics; my life dedication is to faith and theology.

Not Against Papacy Alone

I do not wish to give the impression that I am rebelling against the papacy alone. The lack of concern for truth, the subordination of truth to authority and to the preservation of the system, pervades the institution.

I recognize that the strength of my own reaction against this is due to my personal make-up. An imperative urge within me to think creatively has been blocked and stifled beyond endurance by conformity to a rigidly dogmatic Church. The external demands of the system upon me have been intensified by an internal need for consistency and order in my thinking.

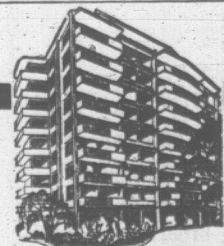

I have struggled to conform. I have had the impression in recent years that I have had to remove a mountain of ecclesiastical rubble in order to produce a few tiny plants of creative thought.

The effort to confine my thinking within the rigid framework of present orthodoxy might, in any case, have proved too great for me. It became impossible once the ecclesiastical authorities had lost my respect by prostituting truth.

Narrow System of Authority

I have no desire to think in proud isolation as a solitary individual; I want to think in community, to share in a communal enterprise, to subordinate my thought to the mind of the Church. But the official Church no longer for me represents a common thought; it has become a narrow system imposed by authority often against the genuine advance of thought within the Church itself.

While the ecclesiastical indifference to truth has afflicted my life as a theologian, with a consequent intolerance and lack of love. And what frustrates any effort at remedy is the perpetual dominance of the system over the person. The system always comes first, and this priority of the impersonal is destructive of the human personality.

Even good people in a position of authority become victims of the system and cease to act toward others in a normally human way, and only too many under authority are kept immature or become frustrated, sadly eccentric or neurotic. What I am saying may seem baseless accusation, but I write confident that only too many in the Church know what I am referring to and can confirm it from their own experience.

Credibility Killed By Experience

My experience has removed the credibility for me of the official Church as the mode of Christian presence in the world.

The Church of Christ is essentially the visibility of grace, namely, the visible model and witness of that interpersonal communion amongst men which is the gift of salvation. By essence the Christian Church has to be the model of human relationships and human community.

When I see the official Church in its structure and activity as destructive of genuine human relationships, I can no longer accept it as the embodiment of grace. Hence I now look for the Church in the more informal groupings of Christians, both within and without the institutional Church, where I find a witness that is credibly Christian.

I cannot end without discussing my intention to marry and the part this played in my personal crisis. To judge from immediate reactions, many will understand my leaving the Church who cannot understand or forgive my marrying. Clearly, it is as difficult for others as for myself to be objective about such a matter. I can only ask that they make the same effort as I myself to be so.

Leading Up To a Breakdown

What would have happened to my difficulties of faith had I not met someone with whom I knew I could share my life in deep personal love? I can only guess at what might have been, but I think that most probably I should have had a mental breakdown within a few years.

I doubt whether it would have been psychologically possible for me to break out of the Roman Catholic system, in which I have been enveloped all my life and the emotional grip of which is immensely strong, without being able to turn to love and marriage for the building of a new life.

I am not marrying an abstraction nor an ideal, but a very individual and lovable person, who will bring her own qualities of mind and heart to enrich our future partnership. All the same, however unique in its concrete reality a mutual personal love may be, there is always in it that which transcends the immediate relationship, so that the union of the two persons exists for each as a symbol and expression of a wider desire and a deeper reality.

Looking at the marriage in that way, I know that, had I left the priesthood to marry, but remained within the Church, the marriage itself would not have been the marriage I wanted. What I needed and wanted from the depths of my being was to be freed from the Roman Catholic system, which was oppressing and tormenting me. I thank God that He sent me someone through whose love I was able to find my liberation.

Mind and Spirit Cleansed, Free

Now that the 'break with the Church' has been achieved, I feel mentally and spiritually cleansed and free, with a peace and joy I have not known for years. But like all happiness in this life, my own is shot through with suffering. My criticism of the Church as an institution cannot make me forget the Church as those people I know and love.

I am hurting so much by what I am doing. There are those who do not understand and numbly feel betrayed; others whose own position has been made difficult by my decision.

But I could not avoid inflicting these wounds. Whatever I have been able to do for others in the past has been inseparably linked to my own striving for integrity and sincerity.

I could not continue to help others at the cost of living a lie; I had to follow my sincere conviction about the truth. I hope the opportunity will still be given of working for and with others, however much some may disagree with me.

I have acted from a conviction that I could only find Christ and God and lead others to do so, if I were willing to find myself and be true to myself. That I could not have done, had I remained a Roman Catholic.

Curious Lack of Action On the Sheppard Report

By DOUGLAS FISHER and HARRY S. CROWE

(Mr. Crowe is associate professor of history at Atkinson College, York University. Mr. Fisher, a former NDP MP, lectures in Canadian government at Carleton University.)

The cast of the Sheppard Report on federal cultural activities has forced up our eyebrows quizzically. A story given one-day prominence by one daily that was either ignored or buried by other papers, the wire services, and the broadcast media.

The politician most concerned, that trusty news-maker Judy LaMarsh, was challenged in Parliament on the leak of this "confidential" report. Her replies were rather staggering but again... no response, no stories. A host of government agencies have figuratively "dumbed their nose" to the minister in connection with the Sheppard Report and it is not news.

Gordon Sheppard is a youngish ex-Torontonian with an "O.K." formal education who is presently film-making in Montreal after an interlude of several years working for the secretary of state in Ottawa. In mid-June, 1965, he was contracted by the then secretary, Maurice Lamontagne, to survey all the federal agencies engaged in "cultural" work.

By May, 1966, Sheppard was finished and some 200 copies of the four mimeographed volumes of his report were available to the minister, now Judy LaMarsh, and her deputy or "under secretary," G. G. E. Steele. Mr. Steele says the report, if published in standard book form, would run to 300 pages or so. That is, it is substantial but not overwhelming.

We gather from Mr. Steele that the Sheppard Report is a compendium, gathering the first time in an account of the origin, history, and present work of each federal agency engaged in "culture." Woven through this data are opinions on the performance of these agencies and suggestions for improvement, all leading to recommendations which could stake out a general "culture" policy for the government.

Sheppard was not commissioned by Parliament. His was not a public investigation. In our tradition such reports are usually unknown or unnoted. It isn't considered cricket to expose officials' and their work publicly through revelations of internal criticism.

So it was not unusual when Miss LaMarsh refused to let out the Sheppard Report last October when Tory MP, Lewis Brand, asked for it. A month before that Miss LaMarsh had distributed copies to all the agencies, along with a ministerial letter asking for comments on the report's analysis and suggestions for each agency.

Then on Dec. 17, a Toronto newspaper gave almost two full pages to a synopsis of the Sheppard Report and introduced it with a front-page spread by its entertainment editor. The latter article was jejune and ambivalent, as though the writer was more put out with Sheppard for being young and unusual than he was interested in the report. The synopsis is fairly accurate according to both Messrs. Steele and Sheppard, but each says separately that it is incomplete and stresses the contentious.

Two days after the spurge a miffed Lewis Brand tackled Miss LaMarsh. Couldn't MP see the report now that it was published? Miss LaMarsh replied that it was confidential. Hon. Members would just have to buy the newspaper.

Mr. Brand thought the story was a breach of House privileges. Miss LaMarsh agreed but asserted that her office hadn't let the report out. Bob Prittle of the NDP thought the entire report would be useful to the House committee on broadcasting as it considered the White Paper on Broadcasting.

Miss LaMarsh pointed out: "This report concerns cultural affairs in the government generally. It has been sent to all agencies for consideration, but no response has been received from them as yet." Then she reiterated the confidential nature of the report and the intention not to release it, at least before "the government has had full opportunity to consider the report."

Now the minister is not the direct boss of many of the agencies, for example, the CBC or the Canada Council. But over three months and no replies to a direct, ministerial request. Obviously these officials are either slow and lazy or else they are contemptuous of the minister.

Mr. Steele, the under secretary, tells us that the Sheppard Report is actively being studied by all cultural agencies and the ministry. It would seem that "none will take the initiative on the report's suggestions. Of course, it is the department which must give the lead."

Mr. Sheppard is rather testy from Montreal: He says he did not leak a copy of the report. He would like MPs to have the report as an aid to questioning as they investigate the spending programs of the cultural agencies (over $200 million a year). He assumes the report is dead since the agencies have all ignored the minister on it and the minister hasn't found that remarkable.

We'd like to read the whole report. That prospect seems bleak. Neither Miss LaMarsh nor the officials seem to take it very seriously,

9,000 Strike Que. Schools

MONTREAL (CP) — A strike of 9,000 teachers today closed 500 schools in the Montreal area, affecting the education of 217,000 students in elementary and high school classes.

The walkout, involving teachers employed by the Montreal Catholic school commission, officially began at 8 a.m. EST when classes normally start in most of the schools.

A union spokesman said there was no possibility of any of the teachers showing up for classes today. No plans had been made to set up picket lines.

Last-minute negotiations had continued for most of the night but the full negotiating teams representing the two unions concerned and the school commission were not present.

"There was little we could do without everyone present," said a spokesman for a union representing 7,500 French-speaking teachers. "Anyway, we are far from a settlement."

RALLIES SET

The teachers were scheduled to attend two mass rallies today: one for the French-speaking section and another for their English-speaking counterparts. Union officials said they will discuss strike activities and arrangements with the school commission.

Many of the students, particularly the older group, were sent home Thursday afternoon with all their books and detailed instructions on a course of study for the next week or two.

Union officials said a settlement in time for a resumption of classes Monday was possible. Some teachers, however, said they were told to prepare for a strike lasting at least a week.

A Catholic school for handicapped children and another for orphans and deprived children remained open under a special agreement with the Montreal Catholic school commission.

"These kids have a hard enough time as it is without their teachers walking out," said a union spokesman.

THEY'RE AVAILABLE

Both unions involved said their organizations are constantly available for the same intense kind of settlement efforts.

"We are prepared to continue negotiations all day Friday and throughout the weekend," said Philip Shore, a spokesman for the 1,500 English-speaking Catholic teachers.

Bus, Train Crash Ruled Accidental

DORION, Que. (CP) — Jules Fortier, general counsel for the Board of Transport Commissioners, said today he estimates the board spends 25 per cent of its annual $15,000,000 budget for maintaining and improving level crossings in Quebec compared with 40 per cent in Ontario.

"The reason for this is that Quebec does not ask for more," he said.

Mr. Fortier was speaking during a special session of a coroner's inquest a day after the five-man jury found that the Oct. 7 bus-train collision that claimed 20 young lives was accidental.

The jury will present recommendations in about 10 days. Judge Marc-Andre Blain, who presided, said he will make the recommendations public at a press conference at that time.

DREW UP PLAN

Mr. Fortier gave his estimate after civil engineer Paul-Andre Hotte, 44, testified that during a study of road problems in the Dorion area made for the provincial transport department two years ago, he drew up a preliminary plan for underpasses at two Dorion level crossings.

The proposed underpasses would eliminate level crossings at the CNR and CPR tracks which cut east-west across Dorion's St. Charles St. about 50 yards apart.

Mr. Hotte had not submitted his suggestions for the level crossings to the Quebec transport department.

As lawyers and jury members crowded around a model of the Dorion area showing the proposed underpasses, Mr. Fortier said in cases where such underpasses are requested the cost of construction usually is based on a ratio of 80 per cent by the board, 15 per cent by the municipality and five per cent by the railways concerned.

Mr. Hotte said he estimated the cost of the two crossings at about $1,000,000.

FREIGHT TO ISLAND

City, Esquimalt Support Saanich on Rate Protest

Victoria and Esquimalt will support Reeve Curtis in his fight to keep freight rates to the Island at a reasonable level.

In a letter to other municipal leaders in the Greater Victoria area Reeve Curtis has called for a united protest to the Public Utilities Commission on proposed rate increases which could boost Island food prices as much as 12 per cent.

Reeve Curtis wrote the letter following a meeting in his office between MLAs Alan Macfarlane and John Tisdale and Saanich Councillors Digby Kier and Ed Lum.

In addition to the proposed freight rate boost the group discussed the possibility of the B.C. Ferry Authority refusing to carry trailer trucks this summer.

"These two proposed changes will have an effect on every resident in the Greater Victoria community," Reeve Curtis stated in his letter. "In view of this I believe the component municipalities in this area should play a leading role in seeking a delay of this (PUC) hearing and in preparing a complete and well-documented brief for presentation to the commission."

Mayor Hugh Stephen said the city would support the protest as fully as possible.

"We have to decide to what depth our presentation will go," the mayor said.

"There wouldn't be much point in going to the PUC hearing and just waving our arms. What we need has been suggested by Reeve Curtis. We need to employ people who can contest the proposed increases at the technical level—and then it becomes a matter of cost."

Mayor Stephen said as representatives of the consumers in the city, council would certainly fully support any protests.

"We are fully in accord with Reeve Curtis," he said. "There is no doubt that any increases will be passed on to the consumer and it is our duty to protest on their behalf."

Esquimalt Reeve Ray Bryant agreed.

"Our approach will have to be cautious as to cost," he said. "But Esquimalt will fully support any move to protest the proposed freight rate increases. We feel it is the duty of all municipalities to protest and we shall lend our support to the Reeve Curtis proposal."

In addition to making a protest Reeve Curtis has suggested that the PUC extend its deadline for the presentation of briefs.

The deadline at present is Jan. 23, but Reeve Curtis says more time is required, if the municipal protest is to be adequate.

He said he felt that between 30 and 60 days delay would give municipal authorities time to prepare their case.

Hanoi Raids Termed Obstacle to Peace

MOSCOW (AP) — Leonid I. Brezhnev, the Soviet Communist party leader, charged today that the United States had placed new obstacles in the way of a Vietnam peace.

He also charged that American forces had raided residential quarters of Hanoi and thereby discredited Washington's professions of a desire for peace in Vietnam.

Brezhnev spoke in Gorky, an industrial city on the Volga River. Excerpts from his remarks were carried by Tass, the official Soviet news agency.

It was not immediately clear that Brezhnev meant by new obstacles to a Vietnam peace. This appeared to refer to Communist charges of U.S. bombing raids on Hanoi residential districts.

Tass quoted Brezhnev as saying the United States "has shown its true face once more" by raiding what Tass described as Hanoi residential quarters.

It said Brezhnev then asked who would believe Washington's calls for peace in Vietnam "if these calls are accompanied by provocative actions which aggravate the situation and create new obstacles on the way to settlement of the conflict."

HOME GARDEN

Beginner Should Consider Advantages

By HILDA BEASTALL

A beginning gardener with his first garden ahead of him will be faced with the problem of deciding whether to plant annuals or perennials.

Hilda

First let us straighten the record as to the difference between these two classes of plants.

Annuals are broadly speaking, the group of plants known as spring bedding plants, grown from seed sown in early spring, producing masses of blooms all summer after which they die down and do not grow again from the same roots.

Examples are petunias, lobelias, red salvias and marigolds. Snapdragons are also best treated as annuals, though in our milder winters many of the plants will live over winter and produce fine early spikes of flowers.

In contrast, flowering perennials (correctly termed herbaceous perennials) are plants with soft or semi-soft stems, which will flower in their season (spring, summer or fall) then die down to more or less ground level, but renewing their growth from the same roots each spring for many years.

From these descriptions it can be seen that each group has its advantages.

In summer there is nothing to equal the masses of bright color from well grouped bedding annuals, but the work of planting and removal must be repeated each year to obtain the desired effect.

The flowering periods of perennials vary with the kind. Some flower in spring, others in summer or fall, and a select few cover the whole period from late May to October.

The plants will increase in beauty over a period of from two to five years, again according to the kinds selected, and will then need dividing and replanting.

Consider the advantages of each kind and make the decision to suit your own conditions.

Tenders Eyed For First BCT Sub-Exchange

Victoria city's first sub-telephone exchange will be located on Foul Bay Road between Fort and Bouchier.

The property, on the west or city side of Foul Bay Road, has been secured by B.C. Telephone Co. and the construction project is expected to go to tender in April.

A company spokesman said construction may be under way in May.

The exchange will serve a densely populated part of the Greater Victoria region, including much of Oak Bay and southeastern Victoria city.

Youth Off Road For One Year

A youth whose car sped through two school zones at speeds estimated to 60 miles an hour was fined $150 for dangerous driving Thursday.

Randall McEwan, 18, of 1006 Newport, was also barred from driving for a year.

His car was chased by police for over a mile Dec. 2 after it was spotted driving on the wrong side of the road.

In other traffic court cases, Alfred Zacek, 244 Sims Avenue, and David Stibbey, 548 Dallas Road, were each fined $40 for careless driving.

PARKSVILLE MILESTONE

Stories of 'Hall' Good for Chuckles

By ELIZABETH FORBES

A neat booklet with a gold-toned cover showing three lighted candles came to me during the holiday season.

First candle, with a red maple leaf at its base, marks Canada's 100th birthday, the second with a dogwood, pinpoints British Columbia's centennial in 1966 and the third with the words "Island Hall Hotel" in a neat shield, tells you that this well-loved place at Parksville is now celebrating a 50th birthday.

The booklet itself records the history of "The Hall" from its beginning in 1917 right up to the present.

Forbes

This story is written in a warm and friendly way. Pictures of former and present owners, staff members and guests, add much interest. Several pages of "incidents along the way" are good for chuckles—especially amongst those who have known the hotel in the past as well as the present.

It starts with Joan Foster and Winnifred Philpott who came to Victoria from the Far East and then travelled to Cameron Lake by stage to start a poultry business.

When this proved a failure they decided to use Miss Foster's remaining funds to build "an old English, country-type inn which would entice guests and inspire in the hearts of their visitors memories of the dewy, flower-scented lands of England."

Timbers were hewn and construction well started when someone advised them that a place on the sea and on the Island's main highway would be a much better project. So they abandoned the Cameron Lake location and started again in a wooded site on the little Parksville bay.

The story records the opening "on Good Friday, 1917, when a bride drive was held and the first of a "score of halls" the following Monday. "Fixed, inclusive and only terms" at the hotel then, were $2.75 a day.

Included in the booklet is the anecdote of the curtains, known to everyone who visited "The Hall" in earlier days.

At the end of the first season blankets that had been folded away in a linen cupboard—were found to be riddled with moth holes. The two resourceful owners decided that something must be done to save them. So they got staff and guest busy embroidering colorful spots over the holes and used them for curtains.

For more than 35 years these curtains were a conversation piece and it's only a short time ago that they fell to pieces and had to be replaced.

There were a number of owners between the original two and Mary Sutherland who since 1963 has been sole proprietor.

Prominent among them were Mr. and Mrs. Robert Newman who ran the hotel from 1934 to 1944. Mrs. Newman has several pages of reminiscences in the booklet that records midnight oyster feeds on the beach, picnics, sing-songs, bridge games, beach bonfires and drives to scenic places.

After them came the Creightons who changed the name to Crayhaven Inn. Then the Greenhorns, and finally, in 1947, the indefatigable team of Aileen Allwood and Mary Sutherland, who immediately went back to the name "Island Hall."

With these energetic women came Mary's husband, "Doctor Tom," who, in his off hours, started a vegetable garden down on Englishman's River, that developed into an hotel "stand-by" and Aileen's mother, "Ganny Young," who was a "personality" at the Hall until she was 96 years of age.

Trials and tribulations that Mary and Aileen went through in those early days of ownership are written into this booklet in a way that brings laughter and, at the same time, a few nostalgic tears.

'Discipline' Vetoed

OTTAWA (CP)—Prime Minister Pearson has rejected any possibility that B. G. Ben Sivertz, retiring commissioner of the Northwest Territories, would be disciplined for his criticism of the federal northern development department. Mr. Pearson told the Commons that such a question "doesn't arise at all."

TELMAC UNDERSELLS THEM ALL

HER 'GROOM' TURNED OUT ANOTHER GIRL

MONTREAL (UPI)—A young Montreal dressmaker was given a hasty annulment of her April marriage Thursday—her mate "Michael" turned out to be a girl, too.

The 18-year-old housewife told Justice Benjamin Robinson she had not discovered the deception during a month-long period of married life following the April 23 wedding.

The truth came out during a routine medical examination which followed her "groom's" incarceration at the Montreal jail for theft.

"Michael" was hastily removed to the women's wing at Kingston Penitentiary, a local newspaper reports.

URANIUM SALE TO FRANCE HITS SNAG

OTTAWA (CP) — France will not buy uranium from Canada or any other country with strings attached, French Finance Minister Michel Debre said on Thursday.

His government has made it clear "no system of control will ever be acceptable," he told a news conference.

Canadian policy is to sell uranium only for peaceful uses.

U.S. Firms Boost Price Of Aluminum

WASHINGTON (AP) — The four major U.S. aluminum producers have posted price increases despite a government request that they defer the action "on grounds of the important national interest involved."

Gardner Ackley, chairman of President Johnson's council of economic advisers, criticized the price increases as "untimely and unnecessary in view of the industry's continually-improved earnings."

The increases announced Thursday by Olin Mathieson Chemical Corp., Reynolds Metals Co., Aluminum Corp. of America and Kaiser Aluminum and Chemical Corp. are effective Jan. 18. They are nearly identical to those posted by the same producers 14 months ago, then rolled back in the face of Johnson administration opposition.

There was no immediate indication the administration would seek to roll back the latest increases.

Judy's View, She's Stuck With It

OTTAWA (CP) — Conservative Leader Diefenbaker solemnly asked the government Thursday if statements by State Secretary LaMarsh on the return of Walter Gordon to the cabinet are government policy.

Mr. Diefenbaker said in the Commons Miss LaMarsh was quoted as saying the former finance minister was "the glue that made us a team" and the cabinet was "just a collection of individuals until he returned."

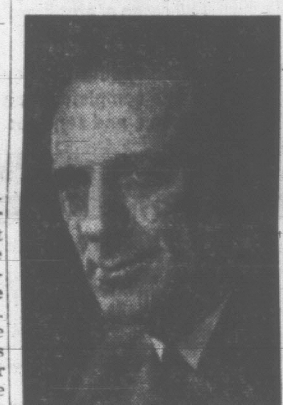

As laughter died down, Prime Minister Pearson said Miss LaMarsh can deal with that matter when she returns.

Mr. Diefenbaker had the last word. "It's a pretty sticky question," he said.

New Democrat, Stanley Knowles asked Mr. Pearson to outline Mr. Gordon's responsibilities.

"I have nothing to add to what I said Monday, which I believe was nothing," Mr. Pearson replied with a grin.

World Demand for Pulp Continues to Stay Firm

By AB KENT
Business Editor

B.C. pulp producers are still concerned about the possibility of oversupply in world markets. But though this fear was first expressed many months ago it has failed to materialize, even with mills producing pulp at 95 per cent of their rated capacity.

KENT

Latest figures from the Canadian Pulp and Paper Association and Dominion Bureau of Statistics show pulp sales in the first nine months of 1966 are up 16 per cent over the previous comparable period.

The association declares that world demand for pulp continues strong.

The local apprehension was based in part on new pulp producing capacity coming on line—five mills added to the 17 operating plants—which it was felt would glut the market.

On a long-run basis, the expansion of pulp-producing capacity was likely justified by the projected growth studies made by the industry.

But what appears to be happening is an accelerated rate of international demand, and even if there should be some oversupply it can be no more than a few months' duration.

The fact is that most of the B.C. pulp production is raw product rather than manufactured in the secondary process of paper-making.

And the result is that a cheap, high quality bulk pulp is available on the world market, a good deal going to the U.S.

Statistics show an estimated 12-month production in the B.C. industry last year at 3.625 million tons of chemical and groundwood pulp.

This compares with an actual 1965 production of 3.248 million tons, which is 12 per cent less.

Canada continues to bolster her position as a supplier of molybdenum to the metal-hungry world.

The country stands second to the U.S. as top world producer and seems destined to take over first place as more molybdenum prospects become developed.

According to Brenda Mines Ltd. vice-presidents M. M. Menzies and M. Davis, independent studies show an average annual increase in demand for molybdenum of 8 per cent.

They say there will be continuous excess of demand over supply, even taking new production into consideration.

A price increase in molybdenum concentrates corroborates the shortage. Noranda Sales Corp. Ltd. announced Thursday a rise from $1.55 to $1.62 per pound for molybdenum concentrate, for metal contained.

And for molybdenum oxide the price goes from $1.75 to $1.82 per pound for metal contained. Both prices are in U.S. terms, f.o.b. mine.

B.C. coal production for the month of November, 1966, was down from November, 1965, by nearly 10,000 short tons.

But the major coal producer in B.C. showed increased production of 6,299 tons for the month.

Figures show a total coal production in November, 1966, of 77,166 tons, of which 77,104 was from the Michel pits of Crow's Nest Pass Coal Co.

A year before the total output was 86,943 tons, 70,815 tons of it from Michel.

Meanwhile collieries being worked in other parts of the province have cut back production or closed down, among them the Tsuble River operation of Comox Coal.

Rothmans of Pall Mall Canada Ltd. are confident of an increase in snobbish smoking, perhaps to keep pace with the rise in value of their own shares in six years—from $10 to just over $25.

The company has just distributed a premium-priced cigarette with the impressive name Rembrandt, about three eighths of an inch longer than regular king size, and packed in green and gilt paper.

It takes its place in a stable already occupied by the exotic Dunhill and St. Moritz. But don't expect to buy any at the corner store.

President John H. Devlin said the new tag will be "available through a limited number of selected outlets across Canada"—like the Empress Hotel and Union Club.

Thomson Wins Union Battle

LONDON (C.P.)—Lord Thomson has agreed to revive his $6,000,000 plan to publish two new daily newspapers in suburban London after winning a major battle with Britain's printing unions.

His organization has disclosed plans to restore the Hemel Hempstead project in the north London outskirts which will publish The Evening Post in the Bedfordshire and northern Hertfordshire area and The Evening Echo to circulate in southwest Hertfordshire.

An official said that because of the long management-union dispute now ended, it will take more time to get the two web-offset newspapers ready. The original spring target date likely will be changed to later in the year.

However, steps will be taken to revise a personnel recruiting drive and to train those hired to produce the newspaper with the utmost economy.

The Thomson Organization decision followed agreement by two trade unions to reduce their manning demands so that only 19 of their union men will be required for the two Hemel Hempstead presses instead of 35 originally proposed.

Rangers Sniff Top Spot Again —Goalie Stars

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

It's one down and four to go for New York Rangers.

The Rangers, the biggest surprise of the National Hockey League season, have been ousted from Madison Square Garden because of an ice show.

... fifth shutout

That forced the club to play five straight on the road, starting with a game in Boston Thursday night.

Now the Rangers have only four games left on their road swing, and if they get the same solid netminding performance from Ed Giacomin they shouldn't have trouble keeping their current pace.

Giacomin, the lanky 27-year-old goalie, kicked out 21 shots to register his fifth shutout of the season as the Rangers downed the hapless Bruins 3-0.

Jim Neilson, Bob Nevin and Vic Hadfield scored for the Rangers.

WINGS BEAT HAWKS

In the other NHL game Thursday night, Detroit Red Wings downed Chicago Black Hawks 4-1. Paul Henderson paced Detroit with two goals and Dean Prentice and Bruce MacGregor added one each. Bobby Hull scored Chicago's only goal.

Giacomin's fifth shutout against the Bruins gave him the lead in that department. He was tied with Detroit's Roger Crozier before Thursday's game.

Giacomin made brilliant saves on Gilles Marotte, Bobby Orr and Pit Martin in the third period to preserve his shutout. Neilson gave the Rangers all the goals they needed when he scored on a 25-foot shot in the second period after the clubs battled through a scoreless first.

Nevin made it 2-0 at 1:09 of third period and Hadfield put the game out of reach just over six minutes later.

ALONE IN FIRST

The victory moved the Rangers back into sole possession of first place in the standings. They were tied for the top spot with Chicago going into the game.

There was hard hitting by both sides during the game but only one penalty was handed out. Boston's John McKenzie was sent off for elbowing in the first period.

The Wings came up with a 50-shot barrage at Chicago goalie Glenn Hall as they gained revenge for a 6-1 Wednesday night setback at the hands of the Black Hawks.

HULL SCORES 23RD

Prentice gave Detroit a 1-0 lead but Hull tied it at 7:43 of the second period with his 23rd of the season, tops in the NHL. Henderson put Detroit ahead 2-1 less than five minutes later and MacGregor increased the lead to 3-1 with his goal in the last minute of play in the second period while the Red Wings held a manpower advantage.

Henderson closed out the scoring with his second goal of the night early in the third period. The victory was Detroit's third against the Hawks this year in nine meetings. Last year, the Red Wings managed only one win and two ties in 14 games with Chicago.

LITTLE LEAGUE MEETING

A general meeting of the Central-North Saanich Little League will be held in the Central Saanich Firehall Tuesday at 8 p.m.

MACS IN ACTION

Chinooks Shoot For Double Win

The rebuilding Victoria Chinooks, working to the climax of a personally painful Inter-city Junior Men's Basketball League season, hope to take a double swing from the bottle of success this weekend.

In their final home appearance of the season — unless they make the playoffs — Chinooks host North Shore Mountaineers Saturday and Vancouver YMCA Sunday.

Both games will be played at Central Junior High, Saturday at 7:45 p.m., Sunday at 1:45 p.m.

They will be the first games of doubleheaders.

MACS MEET SPOTS

The second games, in both instances, will be played by Victoria Coffee Maccs and Vancouver White Spots of the Inter-city Senior Men's League. White Spots hold down second place; Maccs are last with a one-six won-lost mark. But five of their losses were by a total of 31 points.

Mountaineers still have a good chance of reaching the junior league playoffs. Chinooks would have to win both games here and two in Vancouver next week and hope for the best.

Former Victorian Keith Hart coaches Mountaineers. Their leading scorer is his younger brother John.

CURTIS AT HELM

Under freshman coach Moe Turner, Chinooks have gradually improved their floor play throughout the gruelling — for them — season. This week Turner concentrated on shooting drills, hitherto a weak link in Chinooks' offense.

Coffee Maccs will be coached for the first time by Elmer Curtis. He has taken over from Darrell Lorimer who will concentrate on floor play.

J. C. GIPSON RETURNS JAN. 25...

Trotting With Trotters Tops Touring With Tars

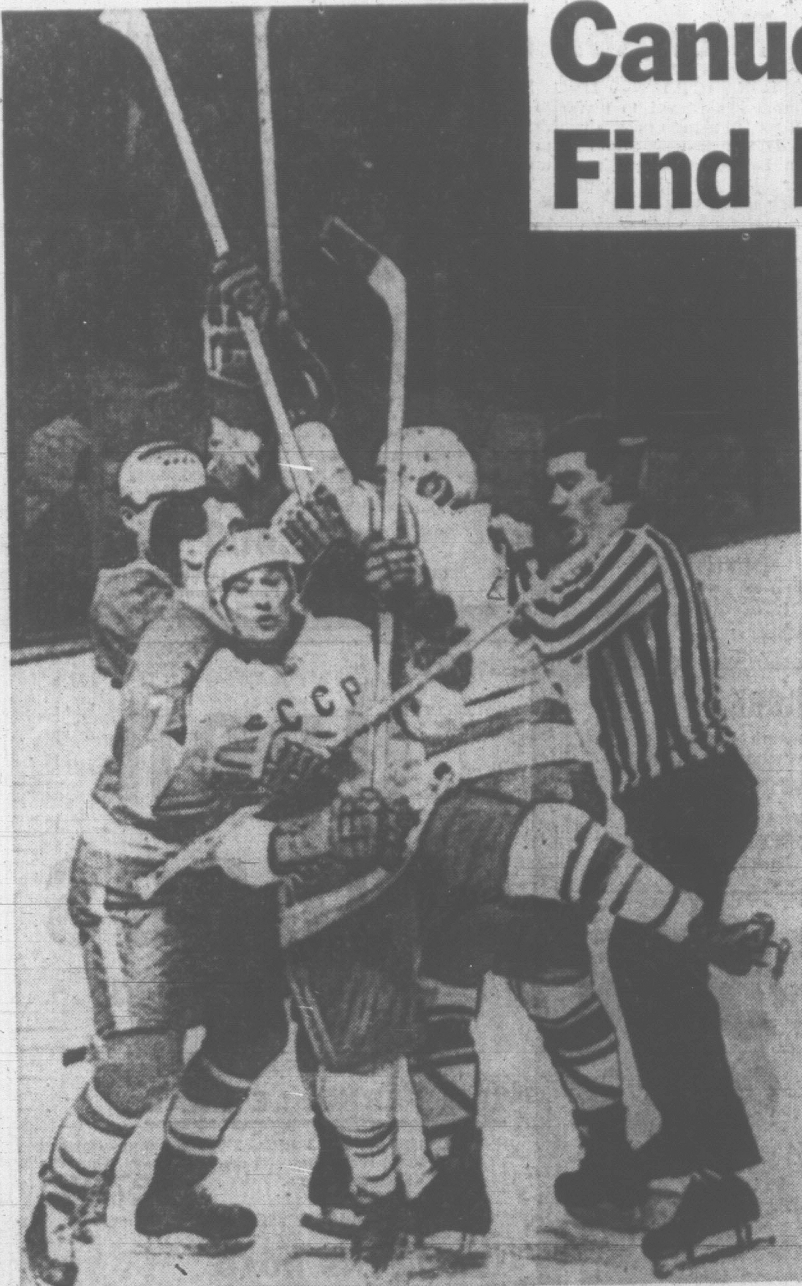

Joining the navy is one way to see the world. Getting a regular job with the Harlem Globetrotters can be even better.

If you don't believe it, ask J. C. Gipson when the Trotters trout their stuff Wednesday, Jan. 25, at Memorial Arena. Although playing basketball only in senior year at high school, Gipson was named "prep player of the year" in Los Angeles. He received several college offers but the need to make money steered him to the late Abe Saperstein, who had already received glowing reports on the whiz kid, who was then six-foot-six.

Saperstein, then coach and manager of the touring court comedians, signed the tall 18-year-old and "Jaycee" has been on the go ever since. Travel may be broadening,

'MY, ISN'T THIS COSY!'

Some scuffles on boards can be pretty nasty ("watch your stick" — "that's my mouth you've got your elbow in") but expression on face of unidentified Russian facing camera indicates this one isn't so bad. It occurred during Canada-Russian game Thursday night at Kit-chener which Russians won 5-3. Among players involved are Canada's Gary Dineen, No. 7, left, the Russian Igor Romishevski, far right.

Hornung Could Emerge As Super-Sunday Hero

LOS ANGELES (AP)—

Speculation on whether Paul Hornung will play heightened interest today in the Super Bowl game as both Green Bay Packers and Kansas City Chiefs went through final workouts in preparation for Sunday's first clash of U.S. professional football champions.

The first major question on the battle between the National and American football league champions developed when the rival coaches pointed to Green Bay's Hornung as player who could make a difference in this rich struggle for supremacy.

Not only will pride be on the line in the long-awaited game, which will be televised by the CBC at 1:05 p.m. PST, but record payoffs of $15,000 to each member of the winning team and $7,500 to each loser.

With that substantial pot of gold up for grabs, the Hornung hunch first cropped up at the Chiefs' Long Beach training camp, where coach Hank Stram said:

"I don't have any particular reason for saying so—it's more like a feeling — but I think Hornung will see a considerable amount of action."

Asked about Stram's speculation at the Packers' Santa Barbara training site, coach Vince Lombardi said:

"I really don't know who will start. 'But I'm a great hunch player. The game will indicate who plays and who doesn't. I'm not going to say who will get in or who won't get in. I probably won't know until Sunday."

"I'll have to say this though. Hornung may be the best pass receiver we have as far as running patterns. He knows when to stay on 'em and when to break them off. He reads defenses better than anyone else I know."

Hornung has not started in eight weeks and has lost his starting job to Elijah Pitts, who gained 333 yards rushing and 460 on 26 passes while joining quarterback Bart Starr, fullback Jim Taylor and flanker Boyd Dowler in the Green Bay backfield.

Forget-About-It Golfers Leading

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP)—

A few weeks ago, Jerry Steel-smith of Santa Barbara, Calif., was ready to quit the professional golf tour.

Not so many years ago, Dan Keefe, of Chatham, Mass., was making a good living as industrial advertising manager with no thoughts of playing golf as a profession.

Today, these two men are toying with the $13,200 first prize in the $66,000 San Diego Open golf tournament, first on the $4,500, 000 tour.

Steel-smith is leading the pack with a seven-under par 64 over the Stardust Country Club course, thanks to a flashy putter, which gave him an eagle and six birdies in the opening round.

One stroke back, at 65, is 25-year-old Randy Glover, who never has won a tour tournament. Then come Keefe, a teaching professional from New England, tied with Bobby Nichols and Gay Brewer at 66.

Hardened touring professionals were still in the thick of the fight with 56 players under par. There was a flock of 68, 69 and 70, including former National Hockey League star Bill Ez-nicki.

If a team loses its first game it goes immediately into consolation play. The tourney is scheduled for tonight and Saturday.

Canucks, Like Old Nap, Find Russians Difficult

Chilly Winter May Lie Ahead For Nationals

KITCHENER (CP) —

Like Napoleon, the Canadian national hockey team has discovered they still face a long, cold winter against the Russians.

Napoleon led his triumphant French forces into Moscow, but the Russian winter and the endurance of its people forced him to vacate the city and the country, losing half his army en route.

The Canadian nationals, who gained two victories and a tie against the touring Soviet Union's national team during the last week, were defeated 5-3 by the Russians here Thursday night.

It was a moral victory for the world champion Soviets, who had played four games in the last five days, and a reminder to the Canadians that they can't count on upsetting the Russians in the world championships at Vienna in March.

It was the final game in Canada for the Russians and their seventh victory in 11 games. They also lost to the Czechoslovakian national team during the Canadian Centennial tournament in Winnipeg last week.

NEED OPPOSITION

And, while the Russians are returning to the U.S.S.R. to resume play in the country's strongest league, the Canadians will be working out against senior clubs for the next eight weeks.

Canada's coach, Jackie McLeod, says his team has nine games scheduled during that time against senior clubs "which unfortunately can't provide us with the kind of opposition we need."

"We should be playing professional clubs actually, but they just aren't available."

McLeod explained that the Canadians will play six games in Europe before the world tournament. "So we should have a chance to get squared away again."

ONLY SECOND LOSS

Thursday's loss was only the second of the season for the Canadian team, which lost to New York Rangers. They also defeated the Rangers twice.

Vladimir Tuzov, Alexander Stringarov, Edward Ivanov, Anatoli Firsov and Viacheslav Starshinov were the Russian marksmen Thursday. Frank Huck, Roger Bourbonnais and Gary Dineen replied for Canada.

The Canadians controlled play in the first period, taking a 1-0 lead, but the Russians came back to outscore their opponents 4-2 in the second period. Stringarov's goal late in the third period gave the Soviet team the victory.

DETROIT (AP) — Joe Schmidt, 34, who led Detroit to the National Football League championship in his playing days, has signed as head coach of a dissension-riddled Lions team that won only four games last season.

When the Blades lost defence-man Howie Young to the National League Detroit Red Wings, they received centre Murray Hall and defenceman Al Lebrun in exchange.

Coach Fern Flaman inserted Hall between wingers Dick Meissner and Tom McVie, and the unit had Flaman humming a happy tune.

HARMONY LINE

It went "HMM" — H for Hall, M for Meissner and M for McVie. Dubbed the "harmony line" the trio had red lights popping at the rate of two per game in the first seven games they were together.

In those seven games, Hall had five goals, Meissner six and McVie three.

The were blanked here Wednesday as the Leafs broke loose in the third period to chalk up a 3-1 victory and climb into a fifth-place tie with the Blades but the harmony boys are ready to give it another try Saturday night, starting at 8:30.

During Wednesday's game, Victoria winger Bruce Carmichael was struck in the face by a stick and suffered an injury to his right eye. Coach Frank Mario moved Rolfe Wilcox into Bruce's spot with Larry Keenan and Lou Jankowski and the line accounted for the last two Maple Leaf goals.

TRIPLE-L PLAY

Dick Lamoureux abandoned his utility role to take over for Wilcox on the third unit and Mario suddenly had another "LLL" line — Lamoureux, Mike Laughton and Mike Labadie.

Laughton, Lamoureux and Labadie worked well together and Mario plans to have them on the same line again Saturday, perhaps as a checking unit to keep watch on Flaman's harmony trio.

Mario hopes the letter business will work out as well as last season, when the line of Lamoureux, Labadie and Ed Litzenberger lacked a lot of punch for the Leafs early in the campaign and was dubbed the "L" of a line.

Mario received good news Thursday when medical reports indicated Carmichael should make a complete recovery from his eye injury.

However, Bruce will remain in hospital for observation for another two or three days and is not expected to return to the club for a week or 10 days.

TO RE-OPEN APPEAL

Cassius' Lawyer Reaching to Top

NEW YORK (AP) — Cassius Clay's lawyer sent telegrams to high selective service officials today asking them to direct a Kentucky draft board to reopen the heavyweight boxing champion's appeal for exemption on grounds he is a black Muslim minister.

Local Board No. 47 of Louisville decided Thursday not to reopen Clay's appeal on the ministerial plea.

Hayden Covington said he sent the telegrams to Lt. Gen. Lewis B. Hershey, national director of the selective service, and to Col. Everett S. Stephenson, Kentucky state director.

Covington said he felt certain that either Hershey or Stephenson would order the local board to reopen the case "because they know I can go into court and demand that it be reopened." He claimed that ministers are exempt from the draft by the selective service law.

He said that Clay, who embraced the Black Muslim faith three years ago under the name Muhammad Ali, devotes about 90 per cent of his time to lecturing and seeking converts to the faith.

Covington said that if the latest move fails, his second step would be a suit in federal court.

J. Allen Sherman, Chairman of the local board, said the board has had information submitted by Covington last August concerning the ministerial appeal, and that the board felt it "unnecessary" to reopen the case.

FLUNKED TWICE

Clay originally was classified 1-Y after he twice flunked army aptitude tests three years ago. But last Feb. 17, he was reclassified 1-A under new, lower qualifications established to make more men eligible for the draft.

The Kentucky board of appeals three days ago rejected Clay's request that he be reclassified as a conscientious objector.

Sherman said he did not know when Clay would be drafted.

The January quota has been filled but February still is open. He added, however, that he did not think Clay would be drafted then since the quota probably would be filled by older men who became eligible when mental standards were lowered.

"They could haul off and send him (Clay) a draft order tomorrow," said Covington, "but if they do, I'm going to scream about it. I'd get an injunction to keep him out."

LONDON (AP) — A world soccer war loomed Thursday with the United States smack in the middle.

The newly formed National Professional Soccer League announced it would offer contracts to players around the world even though the league is not officially recognized by the International Federation of Football Associations.

Officials of the league claim it has waited long enough for recognition.

The North American Soccer League is the official one. It has two Canadian entries, Toronto and Vancouver.

BRITAIN TOP TARGET

So now, NPSL maintains, they'll go it alone in signing players.

The London Daily Mail said: "The NPSL plans to raid the world for players without paying transfer fees."

"Britain will be the No. 1 target and league stars will be offered up to $48 a week to desert to America when their contracts expire."

League officials said in Atlanta, Ga., Wednesday that they would sign any player whose contract has expired.

International practice in the soccer world calls for every national group to be recognized by the international association. If players move to a league not officially recognized then their return to an official club could be barred.

Bill Herman, president of the NPSL, is offering players yearly salaries of about $20,000, or twice the average in England.

Anglers Schedule Annual Meeting

Annual general meeting and awards presentations of the Victoria-Saanich Inlet Anglers' Association will be held Feb. 4 at the Ingraham Hotel, starting at 8 p.m.

Members will also attend a dinner at 6:30 and the annual meeting will be followed by a dance.

Tickets may be obtained from Ben Hill's and Gordon's sporting goods stores. Groups may reserve tables by calling any member of the VSIAA executive.

BOWLER OF WEEK

First winner from Sooke in Times Bowler-of-the-Week contest this season is Martha Schultz, who won women's tenpin award with 559 series at Rainbow Lanes. In second year of bowling, Mrs. Schultz rolled games of 156, 168 and 235 to finish in tie with Barbara Welsh of Mayfair but was declared winner on the strength of best single-game score. Barbara's best single was 206.

Stothard's Dad Dies, Dave Doubtful Starter

There's a possibility Victoria O'Keefe's may be missing veteran fullback Dave Stothard when the team goes hunting for first place in the Pacific Coast Soccer League on Sunday.

Stothard's father passed away on the mainland this week and Dave missed O'Keefe's Thursday night workout.

O'Keefe's are scheduled to play defending champion Firefighters at Vancouver's Callister Park this weekend. A victory for the unbeaten Victorians would push them into sole possession of first place.

SCHEDULE ALTERED

Because of poor field conditions at some parks, the weekend's District League schedule has been revised.

Hourigan Kickers will play Canadian Scottish at Beacon Hill rather than at Central Park in Saturday's only game.

With the cancellation of a Navy-Red Lions game, only two other first-division matches will be played at the weekend—both on Sunday, Luckies and Tally-Ho also will use Beacon Hill while Victoria West plays Gorge Moisons at Heywood Avenue.

Sunday's second-division schedule calls for Colony Inn to play Falcons at Upper Beacon Hill; University Norsemen to meet Gorge on the Gordon Head Campus, and Vic West to visit Sidney.

All matches start at 2 p.m.

DAVE ROLLED AT GIBSON'S

Winner of the men's fivepin award in the 12th week of the annual Times Bowler-of-the-week contest, Dave Stubbs rolled his winning 377 series at Gibson's Recreation, not at Mayfair as reported erroneously in Thursday's Times.

Stubbs hit his big series in the Men's Commercial League, the same league that recently produced another winner, Harry Cool.

Fulford Upsets Harper Quartet

DUNCAN—Former provincial champion Glen Harper was upset 9-7 by Duncan clubmate Ralph Fulford on the opening draw of the 15th annual Duncan bonspiel Thursday.

The 'spiel winds up at the weekend.

First draw—Melvin Smith 11, Lowell Berkey 5; Ralph Fulford 9, Glen Harper 7; Bill Fuller (Vic) 3, Allan Leitch 5; Keith Dewar 3, Lloyd Larson (Vic) 4; Harvey Hodge 10, Mike Smith 2.

Second draw—Bert Wright 11, Sam Rycroft (Vic) 3; Bill Thomas 8, G. A. McIntosh (Vic) 6; Frank Carter (Vic) 5, Joe Leibel (Vic) 7; Bob Lalanne 14, Ken Brownsey 5; Harvey Mosop (Vic) 10, Dick Price 6.

SUNDAY
12:30 p.m.

Division I—Cosmo Royals vs. Oak Bay Optimists at Majestic; Gorge vs. Canadian Scottish at Hampton.

Steelers Sign Oklahoma End

Victoria Steelers aren't set on which league they will play in this year but they may be set at split end.

They signed one today. Al Tully, 23, put his name on the line for general manager Pat Frumento.

Tully, a second-year student at University of Oklahoma, had a look with Ottawa Rough Riders early this year. But he had to forego football for the season when he suffered a torn knee cartilage, since merited after surgery.

Tully played two games with Denver Broncos of the American Football League late in the 1965 season.

Steelers are one of eight west-coast teams being considered as an expanded arm of the Continental Football League.

Last year they made their debut in the Pacific Football League.

ISLAND DIGEST

Funeral Saturday For Angler

Funeral services will be held in Hayward's Chapel, Victoria, Saturday at 1:30 p.m. for Arthur Bray (Tim) Neville, a former resident of Duncan and Nanaimo. Cremation will follow.

Mr. Neville died in St. Joseph's Hospital Wednesday at the age of 46 after being taken ill at his home at 1194 Cloverly Terrace, Victoria.

Well-known in sport fishing circles, Mr. Neville was employed by Wilson and Lenesty Ltd., wholesale sporting goods, 1219 Wharf Street.

BORN IN DERBY
Born at Derby, England, he came to British Columbia in 1957 and lived at Duncan and Nanaimo before taking up residence in Victoria five years ago.

He served with the Royal Air Force during the Second World War and was a member of Harrington Masonic Lodge, Long Eaton, England.

Mr. Neville is survived by the widow, Audrey, a son, John, and a daughter, Lynn Rachael, at home.

Chamber, Lions Clash Over Christmas Ship

GANGES — The local Chamber of Commerce has been criticized for failing to make proper arrangements for Bellingham Jaycees Christmas ship when it arrived here.

Taking the chamber to task was Saltspring Lions Club which delivered the rebuke in the form of a letter.

The Lions Club said space had not been cleared to allow the Christmas ship to dock and no chamber members welcomed the ship.

In reply, Christmas ship committee chairman T. W. Portlock said he was on hand himself to welcome the ship.

He had asked for a space to

CHEMAINUS — An attempt by Chemainus to break away from Ladysmith school district has "no possible chance," School board chairman Beatty Davis said today.

He was referring to a petition asking trustees to find space for senior high school students in the neighboring districts of Cowichan and Nanaimo.

The motion, to be debated Jan. 31, is sponsored by trustee Cyril White of Chemainus.

FEE BASIS
Mr. White said: "I want adequate facilities for Grade 11 and 12 students who now attend high school at Chemainus and Ladysmith."

"We should ask for accommodation, on a fee basis, from Nanaimo and Cowichan."

"The situation on both Ladysmith and Chemainus schools is desperate and something must be done quickly."

"It is unlikely secondary education facilities and equipment can now be provided in time for the next school term."

Mr. Davis replied: "While Mr. White's motion will be placed before the board I do not think there is any possible chance of it going through."

"If we get approved referendum within six weeks, we will be able to provide adequate facilities without going outside our own district."

A referendum for joint senior and elementary school expansion was defeated in November, 1965. A subsequent referendum, dealing only with elementary accommodation, passed easily in May last year.

Asked about the new referendum's chances, Mr. Davis said: "I feel people are much more aware now of the urgent need to be cleared on the dockside but this had not been done."

Twice by letter and once by phone he had tried to contact Bellingham Jaycees to find out their schedule. But it wasn't until after they'd been that he received the information.

Nevertheless, the chamber got a Victoria radio station to broadcast the ship's estimated time of arrival and four chamber members were on hand to dish out goodies to the waiting children.

What's more, chamber voted to pay for the bus which was used to transport Jaycees while they were on the island.

PENSIONER SUFFERS EXPOSURE

COURTENAY — An intensive search ended in the early hours of today when 80-year-old Arthur Freeze was found only a half mile from his Royston home.

The pensioner was discovered sitting on the E & N railway tracks by an RCAF tracker dog.

He apparently got lost after leaving his home at 8 p.m. for a short walk.

His wife reported him missing three hours later. Dressed only in a suit and shirt, he was suffering from exposure.

Both he and his wife had to be taken to hospital after his wife collapsed. They were in satisfactory condition.

They'll Yarn Away Night

DEEP-SEA SHIPS IN PORT

Paul Bunyan stories will flow by the score when more than 900 forest industry veterans gather at a series of reunion dinners on Vancouver Island and the mainland during the next month.

The reunions will involve members of MacMillan Bloedel Ltd.'s 25-Year Club, employees who have completed more than 25 years of service with the company.

The members include loggers, salesmen, papermakers, sawyers and virtually every skill employed in the forest products industry.

The reunions will be held in Powell River, Alberni, Nanaimo, Vancouver and Winnipeg. Because of the large number of employees involved two reunion dinners will be held both at Powell River and Vancouver.

Some 929 employees have completed more than 25 years of service, and this figure will increase to 1,093 when another 164 are initiated into the club this year.

When all categories of employees—including those retired—are taken into account, a grand total of 1,639 have completed 25 years continuous service of more.

Mr. Johnson said the road is a by-the-provincial recreation favorite tourist spot during the summer and the winter.

Meet 'Mr. Everything' ... Government Agent

By DON DINGWALL

DUNCAN — Mention the word "agent" today and most people think of James Bond. Few would bring the name Lyman Sands to mind.

Yet Ian Fleming's talented creation probably could not contend with the variety of tasks which confronted Lyman Sands as government agent at Atlin.

In the isolated settlement 1,000 miles north of Vancouver he was the modern equivalent of Gilbert and Sullivan's Lord High Everything Else.

He was coroner, magistrate, registrar, marriage commissioner, judge of the small debt court ... you name it, he was it.

As government agent, Mr.

Sands held 26 different appointments.

Now a government agent in Duncan, he finds it a complete change of pace.

Almost any of the 42 government agent posts in the province would be a change from Atlin.

Thirty miles from the Yukon border the tiny settlement is still without indoor plumbing and running water.

The entire water supply has to be trucked from Atlin Lake.

As a boy, Mr. Sands remembers an old English remittance man hauling the water by dog team and sleigh in the winter and by horse and wagon in summer.

The water supply is run as a private commercial concern and the cost is $1 per 45-gallon barrel.

A serious disadvantage is the lack of educational facilities. A student can be taken to Grade 8 but after that is left to the more demanding path of correspondence courses.

Mr. Sands finished high school by correspondence, and subsequently at Fairbanks, Alaska.

He sees no prospect of the area being opened up industrially in the near future.

The country is highly mineralized but no specific concentrations have yet been discovered, and when they are there will still be the problem of economic transportation.

Atlin is a beautiful place, and the climate far from being all bad.

Winter starts Nov. 1 and Atlin Lake (largest in B.C.) is frozen over until late May.

But summer temperatures soar to 85 and 90. Referring back to his days as the settlement's general factotum and in particular to being local magistrate at 23 years of age he says: "Most people took it good naturedly."

"I could fine a man in the morning and have a drink with him later."

Despite B.C.'s dynamic growth, government agents in the province are not a dying breed.

Of the 42, though, the man from Atlin has the most unique job.

The majority are more like Duncan where Mr. Sands handles large sums of money from land and school taxes on unorganized territory, motor vehicle and game licences, and is registrar of the supreme and county courts.

They represent almost 41,000 "man-years" of employment with the company.

Schedule of reunion dinners on Vancouver Island is as follows:

Alberni: Jan. 21 — Reunion of 124 club members and wives, in Smith Memorial Hall, with speaker J. H. Lawson, manager, lumber and shingle production, wood products group of MacMillan-Bloedel.

Nanaimo, Jan. 14 — 141 club members and wives, in Shoreline Hotel, with speaker J. R. Forrest, assistant vice-president, manufacturing, wood products group.

10 WEST COAST AREAS
$231,270 Budget for Region

ALBERNI — A preliminary budget of $231,270 has been drafted for Alberni-Clayoquot regional district.

The 10 separate communities must each approve their share and decide how to raise the money.

Let off lightest will be the Tofino-Ucluelet area which is not part of the hospital district. Residents will pay only about half a mill as their share of financing district operations.

Elsewhere the rate will be around three mills. Hospital surveys within the district will take $188,020; regional planning $33,250, and general administration $8,000.

Only $2,000 has been laid aside to combat air pollution—one of the major problems in the area—but this is merely a precautionary sum since costs of pollution control are met by the provincial government.

Helping out with the money will be a $3,000 administration grant from the provincial government, a $5,000 planning grant and around $3,000 which should be realized from sale of building permits.

Part of the money put aside for regional planning will go toward hiring a regional planner.

Port Alberni has seven votes on the 10-member board, Alberni two and the other communities one vote apiece.

The board's next meeting will be Jan. 25.

New Home Recipe Reducing Plan

It's simple how quickly one may lose pounds of unsightly fat right in your own home. Make this home recipe yourself. It's easy, no trouble at all and costs little. Just go to your drug store and ask for four ounces of Naran Concentrate. Pour this into a pint bottle and add enough grapefruit juice to fill the bottle. Take two tablespoons full a day as needed and follow the Naran Plan.

If your first purchase does not show you a simple easy way to lose bulky fat and help regain slender more graceful curves; if reducible pounds and inches of excess fat don't disappear from neck, chin, arms, abdomen, hips, calves and ankles just return the empty bottle for your money back. Follow this easy way endorsed by many who have tried this plan and help bring back alluring curves and graceful slenderness. Note how quickly bloated disappears—how much better you feel. More alive, youthful appearing and active.

FENCE ART RAISES $87

FULFORD — Fence painting has paid off for Saltspring Lions Club.

A dozen fence murals, painted last summer, were auctioned in Fulford Hall and realized a total of $87.

AOTS to Host Island Council

DUNCAN — The AOTS, a United Church men's club here, will be host to Vancouver Island District Council Jan. 21.

At the meeting, new officers will be installed by provincial president Dr. William Hastings of Vancouver.

Incoming Island president will be David Stringer of Ladysmith. Installation of Duncan officers will take place Jan. 26.

The all-new Triumph 1300 with front-wheel drive.

This revolutionary car has 17 important benefits. The first nine are safety features:

1. Telescopic steering column. Steering column collapses upon impact. And it adjusts 2 ways for maximum driving comfort.
2. Safety belts on front seats.
3. Super-strong monocoque body construction of pre-stressed steel actually absorbs impact. (It's the same principle which is used in aircraft design.)
4. Recessed door handles and fold-away window winders. No sharp projections to catch clothing (or injure passengers in an accident!)
5. Childproof safety locks. When locks are set, rear doors can be opened only from the outside.
6. Protective padding on dashboard, armrests, parcel shelf, sun visors and seat backs.
7. Front disc brakes stop on a dime. They're self-adjusting, fade-free and unaffected by weather.

8. Daytime headlight flasher lets you flash your high beams in case of emergency.
9. Patented air-extraction system changes the air in the car every 3 minutes; keeps the rear window fog-free.
10. Front wheel drive eliminates the drive-shaft hump in the floor. It means faster, safer cornering, and gives excellent traction in mud and snow because the engine presses down on the drive wheels. And the 1300 turns completely in only 31 feet—easily the best in its class!

11. 61-hp engine whisks you to 50 mph in only 13 seconds; tops 85 mph where conditions permit.

Body by Michelotti of Italy

12. 4-wheel independent suspension soaks up the roughest bumps.

13. All-synchromesh 4-speed gearbox. Crisp, fingertip control makes shifting a real pleasure!

14. Full instrumentation includes fuel gauge, temperature gauge, ammeter, speedometer, trip meter, plus exclusive "all-systems-go" bank of warning lights.

15. Super-large Canadian-type heater with powerful booster fan.

16. 11-cubic-foot trunk has interior illumination.

Faster, safer cornering

CITIES TURN RED WITH FLAGS

Red Guards Cheer Stalin Line

The youthful Red Guards have become an important factor in China's upheaval. In this article, an Italian journalist, just out of China, gives a rare glimpse of some of the things that motivate the movement.

Written for The AP
By ALESSANDRO CASELLA

China has literally turned red.

In Canton red flags hang from every house. The arcades have been painted red. Quotations from Mao Tse-tung appear in red in every shop window, on every wall, in every sampan; they are glued to the windshield of every car and hang from the handlebars of every bicycle. Some quotations hanging from high buildings are 60 feet high. Others, fixed to people's lapels, measure only an inch.

The streets of Canton were thronged with people, as 500,000 Red Guards, coming from all parts of China, had flooded the city. All had arrived by train and 50,000 of them had gathered around the station. It was closed to all other traffic.

At the bus stops the buses had been supplemented by trucks—Red Guards waited patiently for their turn in queues up to 300 yards long. Although the streets were overcrowded there was no pushing or shouting.

BEHAVE WELL

Any appearance of disorder was due only to the multitude of people in the streets and on closer observation the main impression derived was one of order and surprisingly good manners, especially in people so young.

The main activity of the Red Guards, besides the study of the works of Mao, is the writing of posters and the printing of leaflets from simple wax stencils. The production of posters has reached such a point that the whole city has been transferred into a gigantic bulletin board.

These posters, all dealing with the current "cultural revolution," obviously do not all express the same opinions. I was photographing a poster when a Red Guard approached me to say that I should not take a picture of that particular poster as he did not agree with what it said.

To this another Red Guard replied that if he did not like it he had only to put up one of his own.

Many of the Red Guards came from small towns and were very curious about foreigners. On the whole I found them friendly and easy to talk to. While visiting a new settlement I started a conversation with a Red Guard who happened to be present. He led me to the school where he was quartered. There I met about 20 of his friends and we spent two hours talking.

MOVE BY TRAIN

These guards, 14 to 18 in age, were all high school students. Some were from Canton, others from central China, and two came from Peking. Those from outside Canton had come by train—the Red Guards can travel free. On arrival they had reported to a central reception committee, organized by municipal authorities. It provides town maps and ensures that they are fed and housed, generally in schools and public buildings.

They travelled, they said, in groups of two to 300 and had come to Canton to meet other Red Guards and make "revolutionary connections." Most of them had, in fact, simply boarded a train, arrived in Canton and started to produce posters. They said they were free to put on them whatever they wanted.

Though they were gay and good humored, they seemed to take their task very seriously. Their aim, they said, was to defend the central committee of the Communist party and to oppose the restoration of capitalism. This they were doing through posters.

CRITICIZE ELDERS

Much of their criticism was directed against an unnamed "minority of those in power" and against school authorities, accused of paying too much attention to study and too little to ideology. Hence, students were taught to think only of good jobs and good money and were forgetting about serving the people. As for the Communist party, they would support it only if it followed Chairman Mao.

"What about the army?" I asked.

"We are the probationary forces of the people's army and we must learn from it," they said. "However, there are also some bourgeois elements in the army and we must be on guard."

In their view, the U.S. government was, of course, the No. 1 enemy of the world—you could hear it in the tone of their voices—but the American people as well as the Soviet people were great friends of China. Stalin was a great man and many Russians cried when he died. But no Russian cried when Khrushchev went.

They were very proud of China's atomic achievements and said that the explosion which occurred during the Manila conference had been a great diplomatic victory for China. As for Vietnam, they were ready to volunteer any time.

Indonesia Guarantee

JAKARTA (Reuters)—Indonesian Foreign Minister Adam Malik and the United States charge d'affaires, Jack W. Lyndman, signed an agreement last week under which Indonesia guaranteed U.S. private capital investments here against nationalization, convertibility and domestic upheaval.

OPPOSITION TO MAO PARTLY FICTITIOUS?

TOKYO (AFP)—A growing number of Chinese affairs experts suspect that the opposition constantly stigmatized by Radio Peking and wall posters in the Chinese capital is partly fictitious.

Maoist theory calls for permanent revolution and revolution requires resistance, but genuine resistance is out of the question now, observers feel. So an imaginary opposition was invented.

True, a good number of Communist party cadres really are threatened by the cultural revolution. But for now they are in no position to offer organized resistance.

These experts are convinced organized resistance is out of the question so long as party chairman Mao Tse-tung is alive, unless a sizeable fraction of the army should turn against him.

LOYALISTS CALLED REBELS
IN RED CHINA

TOKYO (AP)—Those loyal to Mao Tse-tung's rule in China's chaotic cultural revolution call themselves "rebels." This derives from the fact that Maoist loyalists have been urged to rebel against those in government, party, production and other fields of activities who are accused of straying from Mao's "thinking."

This is only one of many confusions in terminology that mark the situation. Here are some definitions:

Red Guards: Fanatic student groups supporting Mao. They are carefully screened for family background and political views.

Revolutionary rebel students, or workers: Pro-Mao students and workers.

Wall newspapers: Posters written with ink and brush, often in large characters, and pasted on walls in the streets by Red Guards who support Mao. Some posters may also be the work of Mao's opponents. Wall newspapers have become a main source of news from China, Japanese, Yugoslav, Czech and Soviet reporters base many of their dispatches on these posters.

Revolutionary rebel faction: Mao Tse-tung and Defence Minister Lin Biao's group.

Mainstream faction: Japanese definition of Mao group.

Authority faction: President Liu Shao-chi and party General Secretary Teng Hsiao-ping's group. The Chinese characters for "authority faction" literally mean "real power faction," meaning the men who are in responsible positions in party organizations, the government, factories, press, the arts and so on.

Red Workers Corps: Workers organized by local Communist officials in Shanghai, Nanking and other cities in self-defence against Red Guard rampages. In effect they are anti-Mao. The difference in Chinese between the Maoist Red Guards and anti-Mao Red Corps lies in the character used. The rampaging Maoists use plain "red."

Cultural revolution committee: Formed by Mao in 1966 to push the cultural revolution and the purge it entails. It is headed by Mao's former political secretary, Chen Po-ta, and Mao's wife, Chiang Ching. The purge committee has perhaps the most wide-ranging powers in China.

Executive of the Lin-teng line: A label meaning one is associated with President Liu and Ten Hsiao-ping and opposes Mao.

To bombard the headquarters: Favorite figurative expression frequently used in Red Guard posters, meaning to launch criticism against the leaders of a group under fire.

GULF MASTER CREW PRESUMED DEAD

Sea Search Ends; Inquiry Ordered

of Georgie Wednesday to rescue the crewman of a Vancouver tugboat that sank. The rescued crewman later died in hospital and four of his comrades are presumed dead. — (CP Wirephoto.)

HE PULLED ME DOWN TWICE RECALLS PARA-RESCUE HERO

VANCOUVER (CP) — "It gets pretty scary when a guy grabs hold of you and pulls you under the water," Cpl. B. J. Fitzgerald of an RCAF para-rescue squad said Thursday as he described the rescue of a tugboat crew member from the Strait of Georgia Wednesday.

The man, Rodney E. Seymour, 23, of Mission, died later in hospital. Rescue officials have given up hope for the safety of Seymour's four mates on the tug Gulf Master, which sank mysteriously into 450 feet of water off the Sechart Peninsula, 30 miles northwest of here.

"He (Seymour) pulled me down twice," said Cpl. Fitzgerald who, clad in a skin diver's wet suit, jumped from the helicopter into the water after Seymour, who was clinging to a raft.

"I had a hard time getting him up because of his weight — he must have weighed more than 200 pounds."

UVIC SPEAKER:

'Definite Conspiracy' In Kennedy Slaying

President John F. Kennedy died in a conspiratorial cross-fire, a University of Victoria audience was told Thursday night.

The speaker was Sylvia Meagher, a veteran of 21 years as a senior reports analyst for the United Nations who has turned her talents to an analysis of the report of the Warren Commission on the assassination.

"The evidence is quite overwhelming," she said.

"There was a definite conspiracy."

"And it is undeniable that there was a crossfire from at least two different gunmen."

Lee Harvey Oswald may not have been one of the conspirators, she added.

LACKED MOTIVE, MEANS

He lacked any credible motive.

He lacked the means, "unless he had suddenly become a considerably better shot than the three master riflemen of the National Rifle Association who were invited to duplicate the feat. They were unable to match the accuracy or even the speed with which Oswald is supposed to have shot Kennedy," Miss Meagher said.

And he lacked the opportunity.

"He simply didn't have the time to meet the very closely timed schedule the Warren Commission tried to impose on him."

TOOK COKE AWAY

"When the commission realized he didn't have enough time after shooting the president to get a coke he was holding moments after the assassination, they simply took it away from him."

"He didn't have enough time

"Old Fitz almost bought himself a watery grave," said Flt. Lt. Ed Riley who directed the perilous operation from the helicopter hovering above 15-foot high waves.

Flt. Lt. Riley, whose helicopter was dispatched from the RCAF base at Comox on Vancouver Island, said when they spotted Seymour, he was clinging to a raft partly in and partly out of the water.

"While we were coming into position to lower a man, he (Seymour) let go his hold and fell into the water."

Cpl. Fitzgerald jumped into the water and grabbed hold of Seymour while the helicopter fought gale-force winds to stay in position above them.

"We set down on the water when we could see they were having so much difficulty staying in position."

"We stayed on the water long enough for them to hook up the man. They gave a signal and we lifted him out of the water."

But he never regained consciousness.

Missing and presumed drowned are Capt. Forest Anderson, 31, of nearby Coquitlam; engineer Richard McPhail of North Vancouver; deckhands Robert Ayett, 22, and Eddie Poirier, 43, both of Montreal.

At Sechart, 30 miles northwest of Vancouver, Coroner Eric Patkau and a jury viewed the body of crewman Rodney Seymour, 23, who was plucked from the water shortly after the Gulf Master went down.

Seymour died later in a Sechart hospital. The jury adjourned indefinitely.

The tug went down in 450 feet of water two miles off Sechart.

Missing and presumed drowned were skipper Forrest Anderson, 30, of Coquitlam; B.C.; engineer Richard McPhail, 31, of North Vancouver; Boyle Ayotte, a 22-year-old deckhand, also from North Vancouver; and another deckhand, Edward Poirier of Montreal.

FRAGMENTS FALL NEAR CANADIANS

OTTAWA (CP)—Fragments from anti-aircraft shells falling back to earth punched three holes in the roof of a building occupied by Canadians in North Vietnam, it was learned today.

The damage to the Hanoi Building occupied by Canadian members of the Canada-India-Poland International Control Commission occurred while raiding U.S. aircraft were in the area last Dec. 15. There was no bomb damage to the building and no injuries.

TWO INJURED

Youth In Good Condition

A 15-year-old boy was admitted to St. Joseph's Hospital Thursday night after being hit by a car as he crossed Dallas Road at Howe Street.

Donald McMillan, 61 Howe St., was reported in good condition. He suffered abrasions to his face and legs.

City police said the driver of the car involved was George Bruce Nichols, 18, of 2864 Dean Ave. He was eastbound on Dallas Road at the time of the mishap.

A cyclist was treated for an injured knee at St. Joseph's Hospital this morning and then released after being in collision with a car at Harriet and Lurline shortly after 7 a.m.

Ives Wauthy, 28, of 21 Lurline was taken to hospital by police. Driver of the car, Peter Engbrecht, 20, of 75 Lurline, was northbound on Harriet and making a left turn on to Lurline at the time of the accident, officers said.

"She had a seasoned crew and more safety equipment than was needed," Mr. Cosulich said. "I just don't know what could have happened."

At Sechart, 30 miles northwest of Vancouver, Coroner Eric Patkau and a jury viewed the body of crewman Rodney Seymour, 23, who was plucked from the water shortly after the Gulf Master went down.

Seymour died later in a Sechart hospital. The jury adjourned indefinitely.

The tug went down in 450 feet of water two miles off Sechart.

Missing and presumed drowned were skipper Forrest Anderson, 30, of Coquitlam; B.C.; engineer Richard McPhail, 31, of North Vancouver; Boyle Ayotte, a 22-year-old deckhand, also from North Vancouver; and another deckhand, Edward Poirier of Montreal.

But he never regained consciousness.

Tiny State Experiences Second Coup

From Reuters-AP
COTONOU, Dahomey (CP)—The tiny west-African state of Togo had its second coup in four years today with the army reporting seizure of all civil powers.

The takeover was announced in a broadcast from Lome, the Togolese capital, by the army chief of staff, Lt-Col. Etienne Eyadema. He warned the public to refrain from any political demonstrations and ordered all public offices closed for the day.

Informed sources in neighboring Dahomey said President Nicolas Grunitzky resigned during the night. There were no reports of violence but a blackout of the radio-telephone circuit to Paris prevented any check on the situation.

Eyadema said free elections will be held in about three months. Until then a "committee of national reconciliation" will be set up to run the country.

DISPUTE BUDGET

Eyadema has been carrying on a running dispute with Grunitzky about the budget for his 1,200-man army. The army chief played a key role in the January, 1963, coup when one of his soldiers assassinated Sylvanus Olympio, Togo's first president and a brother-in-law of Grunitzky.

Togo experienced a brief upheaval last Nov. 21, but Eyadema that time sided with Grunitzky and it was put down with no deaths or serious injuries.

Eyadema said the constitution was suspended, the National Assembly dissolved and all political activity forbidden.

Eyadema said the coup was prompted by "the grave situation which has reigned in the country" since Olympio's death four years ago today.

Eyadema said Togo would continue its foreign policy without changes, and he urged foreign residents to stay out of Togolese affairs.

Eyadema also complained of recent changes in the cabinet and the abolition of the office of vice-president, which had been held by Idrissou Meatchi.

He cited a growing deficit in the national budget and a flurry of tracts which had blamed "first one man, then another" for the disorganization.

The broadcasts said all prisoners arrested during the November uprising would be released, that a state of emergency would be declared and that a curfew would be established between 8 p.m. and 5 a.m.

The army will return to the barracks as soon as civil authority is established "in democratic conditions," the broadcast said.

Trailer Found Near Wharf

A 10-foot-long trailer reported stolen near the Ogden Point grain elevator two weeks ago has been found in the water near Fisherman's Wharf.

A caller told city police Wednesday night he had seen a submerged object near the wharf off Erie Street which he thought might be a sunken car.

A check showed it to be the $600 trailer, earlier reported missing by a Vancouver stevedoring firm.

First LSD Conviction

TORONTO (CP)—Patrick Allan Shiven, 19, of Toronto was convicted Wednesday of selling the drug LSD in the first such prosecution in Canada. He was remanded to Jan. 19 for sentence.

Prosecutor John Malone said it is not an offence to possess LSD but sale was banned by legislation in 1962.

Instruments Stolen

Pat Lawson, 1410A Harrison, told city police Thursday his car had been entered overnight and instruments worth $100 taken.

Thieves took a tachometer worth $70 and two oil gauges valued at $30 from the auto which was parked in front of the owner's residence.

700,000 Lost Work Days

The pollution of British Columbia's air and water is a major threat facing the province in the century ahead. The Times assigned reporter Gordon Ritchie to examine the many aspects of the problem in British Columbia and elsewhere. Here is his 10th report.

By GORDON RITCHIE

Every province in Canada and every nation in the world is heavily polluting its air and water.

But is it a problem? What does pollution cost in lives and money?

Water pollution costs Canadians well over $1 billion every year, the Canadian Council of Resources Ministers estimates.

That's more than the total sales of B.C.'s forest products industry—the major source of this province's water pollution problems.

And this $1 billion estimate doesn't even include the obvious major expenditures on such items as sewage treatment and water purification.

Air pollution cost Canadians about 700,000 lost working days in 1965 through chronic bronchitis alone, according to McGill University's professor of experimental medicine, Dr. D. V. Bates.

That's nearly six times as many man-days as were lost during B.C.'s strikes during the same year.

Facts such as these provide a powerful answer to "realists" who argue economic considerations should outweigh the hard-to-prove and hard-to-measure costs of air and water pollution.

Opponents of pollution control argue that unless and until it can be proved beyond question just how much money and how many lives pollution costs, public intervention to reduce pollution is an unwarranted infringement of liberty.

And such proof is by its very nature almost impossible to obtain.

"Many questions remain unanswered," water pollution expert Gunter Schram admitted to the Council of Resource Ministers meeting in Ottawa last year.

Still Unknown

"Many of the complex inter-relationships, interactions, spillovers of costs and benefits, and physical and social consequences of water pollution are still unknown."

Metel Weisburd, assistant director of the American Medical Association's environmental health division concedes:

"We cannot tell you today from our knowledge of the problem with any degree of accuracy the exact extent to which, and the mechanisms by which, air pollution affects health in this country."

But to use our present incomplete knowledge as a justification for inaction is a very dangerous argument indeed.

"A lifetime of exposure to present levels of urban atmospheric pollutants may well be having serious and ultimate effects upon the health of many other persons," warns the head of the University of Maryland school of medicine.

'Too Late'

"And by the time all the research and epidemiologic evidence (evidence linking pollution to disease) is available, it may be too late for millions of people."

Despite the difficulties in planning down the link between pollution and public ill health, a growing body of evidence indicates air pollution, and to a lesser degree water pollution, presents a major health hazard.

Pollution catastrophes have provided some of this evidence.

Water pollution is blamed for a sudden outbreak of 30,000 cases of infectious hepatitis in New Delhi, India, during a six-week period a decade ago.

7,000 Died

London has been the hardest hit by air pollution disasters in recent years:

Over 4,000 Londoners died in five days of smog in Dec. 1952.

Another 1,000 met death four years later.

The following December 700 to 800 died in London's smog.

And a Dec. 1962 incident claimed 700 lives.

Four Londoners died in the past 15 years have claimed over 7,000 lives through air pollution.

More detailed study has revealed that many more people became ill during these disasters and remained ill—some afterward and that most of the victims (over 60 per cent in one case) are elderly people.

The main evidence comes from continuous observation over time of the higher incidence of certain diseases in polluted regions.

Hepatitis Rises

In B.C. for example infectious hepatitis over the last five years has ranked as the third most common disease.

Dr. C. J. G. Mackenzie of the University of B.C.'s department of preventive medicine notes that while most infectious hepatitis is not linked to water pollution, "there are numerous incidents of local outbreaks which indeed seem to be connected with the water and sewer spread of the disease."

The city of Alberni on Vancouver Island for a number of years was the site of an "endemic focus" of infectious hepatitis with eight times as high an attack rate as nearby Port Alberni. The disease was traced to the pollution of the creek from which Alberni drew its water.

Much more carefully documented is the link between air pollution and many forms of respiratory disease.

Former U.S. Surgeon-General Dr. Le Roy Burney claims:

"There is a very definite association between community air pollution and high mortality rates due to cancer of the respiratory tract, cancer of the stomach, esophagus, and arteriosclerotic heart disease."

A 1961 U.S. Public Health Service Report concluded:

"The total evidence on hand doubtless supports the view that general air pollution of industrial and industry-related origin played a definite role in the causation and rise in the frequency of lung cancers during recent decades."

(The health service has declared that air pollution presents a major health hazard in 308 cities with a population of over 43 million.)

Personal air pollution in the form of cigarette smoking is still considered even more important.

But the polluted air over New York has been estimated to be as poisonous as smoking two packs of cigarettes a day and urban pollution generally results in 1.3 to two times more cases of lung cancer than found among people living on clean air.

Even stronger is the evidence linking air pollution to chronic bronchitis—a disease costing Canadians some 3.3 million working days and responsible for nearly 10 per cent of all deaths and 10 per cent of all absences from work in Great Britain.

In this report we have not dealt with pesticide pollution—the problem dramatized in the U.S. by Rachel Carson's Silent Spring.

The problem is not so severe in Canada where less pesticide is used across the country than in the state of California alone.

The first indication that pesticides may in fact present a problem in this country came in 1965 when six per cent of raw food samples from across the nation examined by the Food and Drug Directorate contained excessive concentrations of chemical residues from pesticides.

B.C. was shown to be the hardest hit with 16.3 per cent of its dairy products, meat and vegetables tested containing more chemicals than legally permitted.

Pollution is dangerous to humans. On that ground alone much more extensive control of pollution would seem to be called for.

But pollution is also expensive.

The Canadian Council of Resource Ministers calculated the cost to Canada of water pollution alone is at least $1,172,900,000.

Air pollution costs are harder to measure but U.S. studies have placed the price of air pollution at $65 annually for every American man, woman and child, or over $13 billion for the nation as a whole.

New York City's air pollution consultant estimates it costs a family of four as much as $800 a year to clean up the mess left by air pollution in that city.

$228 Million

A U.S. Senate study group faced with the appalling costs of pollution has recommended that nation spend $228 billion over the next 15 years to clean up air pollution alone.

The Canadian government has contented itself with the position stated by Health Minister Allan MacEachen: "Although authority for control of air pollution rests primarily with the provincial governments, the federal government has an active interest in the problem."

And the provincial governments hand the problem over to municipalities totally unable to combat a problem of this magnitude.

We are faced with a major health and economic problem arising from needless irresponsibility.

We are faced with dramatic evidence in the U.S. and the U.K. of what lies at the end of the path we are following.

And our response is to decline to take more action until more is known about the problem.

By then it may be too late. "Their argument against corrective steps is that we have no assurance of what they will accomplish," one authority pointed out.

What is rather like arguing against transferring from a sinking ship to a lifeboat on the grounds that one doesn't know where the lifeboat is going.

Sweden Hikes Taxes To Bolster Industry

STOCKHOLM (Reuters)—Swedes staggering under the world's highest cost of living are faced with higher taxes and prices as result of the toughest budget for at least 10 years.

The Social-Democrat government is attempting to dampen private spending and bolster industry. Observers saw the budget as a determined government effort to correct a faltering economy and regain prestige in time for the general elections in late 1968.

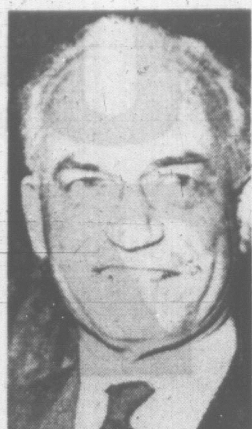

Presenting his budget proposals at the opening of Parliament Wednesday, Finance Minister Gunnar Strang said he intended to correct an estimated budget deficit of 1,471,000,000 crowns (about $280,000,000) and a 1,750,000,000-crown (about $338,000,000) trade deficit.

Methods included raising basic pension contributions to five from four per cent, a 50-per cent increase on the motor vehicle excise tax and the price of cigarettes by 10 per cent.

Other increases directly affecting the household were more expensive telephone calls and a 33-per cent increase in the price of government lottery tickets.

Strang also announced increases in military defence expenditure, foreign aid, education and research, social security, health and social services and children's allowances.

APPEAL COURT IN New York ruled unanimously Thursday against a motion to dismiss a libel suit filed by Barry Goldwater against Fact Magazine. Fact reported, before 1964 presidential election, that 1,185 psychiatrists say Goldwater is psychologically unfit to be president.

Lower court had said Fact editor Ralph Ginzburg could have actual malice in the case. Goldwater is seeking $2 million.

The flyers and their commanders in Southeast Asia are puzzled, for example, at Washington's ban on attacks against MIG airfields, targets they regard entirely as military.

Restrictions generally are imposed for political reasons—to keep from drawing the Soviet Union or China into the war or into bigger supporting roles, to forestall adverse world opinion and to hold civilian casualties to a minimum.

In the so-called "immaculate bombing" of the Communist North, U.S. airmen are forbidden without special permission from Washington—to hit targets within a 30-mile radius of Hanoi and in a 20-mile wide "safety strip" below the Chinese border.

U.S. FLYERS FRUSTRATED BY BOMB RESTRICTIONS

By ROBERT TUCKMAN

SAIGON (AP)—U.S. pilots are flying bombing missions over North Vietnam under a set of ground rules they often find frustrating.

Airmen call this the most restricted bombing offensive in history.

The flyers and their commanders in Southeast Asia are puzzled, for example, at Washington's ban on attacks against MIG airfields, targets they regard entirely as military.

Restrictions generally are imposed for political reasons—to keep from drawing the Soviet Union or China into the war or into bigger supporting roles, to forestall adverse world opinion and to hold civilian casualties to a minimum.

In the so-called "immaculate bombing" of the Communist North, U.S. airmen are forbidden without special permission from Washington—to hit targets within a 30-mile radius of Hanoi and in a 20-mile wide "safety strip" below the Chinese border.

Flights over these areas are permitted, but bombing strikes require approval from President Johnson or the military chiefs in Washington.

Similarly ruled out-of-bounds are major power plants, factories, high-density populated areas, Haiphong's harbor facilities and the MIG airfields in the Hanol-Haiphong area.

U.S. airmen say they could wipe out the small North Vietnamese air force in one night of raids. The air force was estimated at 75 planes before nine MIG-21s were downed by U.S. airmen in the first week of January.

Targets on the unrestricted list—fair game for U.S. bombers almost anywhere except Hanoi and Haiphong—are bridges, roads, rail lines, rail cars, trucks, barges, junks staging areas, storage areas, oil depots, anti-aircraft gun positions and surface-to-air missile sites.

In South Vietnam there are no blanket restrictions on U.S. flyers on types of targets but controls are imposed on bombing or strafing runs against specified areas. These are localities which are thought to be Viet Cong territory but where some doubt exists.

The reasons for this rise and ways it might be halted will be discussed by social worker Mrs. Edith Frankham Tuesday at a meeting of Oakland's PTA.

A film about a seven-year-old foster child called Joey will also be shown.

The meeting at 8 p.m. will be in Oakland's school auditorium, Belmont and Ryan.

Reason For Increase In Care Topic

Eight years ago Victoria's Family and Children's Service took into care 291 children, separated from their families and in need of foster homes.

Last year the number was 574, an increase of 97 per cent since 1959.

The reasons for this rise and ways it might be halted will be discussed by social worker Mrs. Edith Frankham Tuesday at a meeting of Oakland's PTA.

A film about a seven-year-old foster child called Joey will also be shown.

CAR INSURANCE

Compulsory Bid 'Spreads Costs'

Compulsory auto insurance would be like "inviting the government to come into the tent," an insurance agents' association lawyer warned Thursday.

Charles C. Locke, representing the British Columbia Insurance Agents' Association, made the remark in questioning an All-Canada Insurance Federation panel at the royal commission hearing on auto insurance.

The federation's proposal suggested that a limited benefit program with death, weekly indemnity and dismemberment benefits, be made mandatory. Mr. Locke referred to this type of insurance as "social welfare" and asked panel members if the program would be subjected to political pressures.

Panel member Duncan McIntosh, All-Canada vice-president, said there was a possibility of government interference but this possibility existed in many other areas also.

"Is there not an unfortunate tendency in the general public to abuse welfare?" Mr. Locke asked.

Daniel Damov, a director of All-Canada disagreed. He said this type of insurance was not comparable to tax programs since the user received direct benefits.

He also doubted that motorists in any area would be taxed to pay for accidents in another, should this type of coverage be made compulsory.

Mr. Damov said the limited benefit program coverage should be included in regular policies

DOUBLE FARE FOR WIDE TRAILERS

Extra-wide trailers traveling on B.C. Ferries will be charged double fare in future.

General manager Monty Aldous confirmed the increase Thursday night.

He said the increase had been made necessary by trailers which overlap into two lanes.

The change will mean that a 50 by 12-foot trailer with a 15-foot tractor will now be charged $81.20. Any trailer more than eight-feet wide will be subject to the tariff.

It will mean that several major trucking companies will now be paying twice as much to ship produce to Vancouver Island.

Steady Rise Shown In Lumber Shipping

Vancouver Island lumber shipments to the American Atlantic seaboard appear to be picking up after a combination of seasonal lag and the effect of longshore work stoppage and market declines.

A shipping agent said Thursday deep-sea vessels are waiting for berths in all ports and that it would be about a month before loadings get back to normal.

Two ships are waiting to load at Ogden Point, two at Crofton and about six at Port Alberni, he said.

IT'S GREAT HONOR BUT WHO KNOWS?

By GERALD McNEIL

OTTAWA (CP)—Medal: Medal who'll get the Centennial Medal?

Federal employees now are drawing up a list of the 27,000 Canadians to be honored.

"Their names may never be revealed," an informant said Thursday.

One reason involves the physical difficulties of posting a list of 27,000 names. Telephone poles aren't up to the task.

Personal presentations of the mementoes to a century of Confederation also are unlikely.

Such commemorative medals are among the few royally-titled honors Canada allows.

The last was struck in 1953 on the coronation of Queen Elizabeth.

The design of the Centennial Medal has been chosen and must be approved by the Queen.

A formal government announcement is expected in about three weeks. It won't be unveiled until the announcement is made.

Outside of some general categories, those to be decorated probably won't be identified.

One medal in three is expected to go to members of the regular and reserve armed forces.

That means roughly one for every 12 servicemen, with most going to the brass.

The other 18,000 will be distributed among the remaining 20,000 Canadians.

That lengthens the odds to one in more than 1,000.

"They're not shovelled from street corners to every passer-by, the informant said.

Only people who have done something will get them.

"There are a good many uncertainties about the whole thing," said the man who must help decide who's been worthwhile.

Formal presentations will probably be done on "a sort of token basis," which sounds like a mailed scroll.

There may be personal presentations to a select few on a day like July 1—Confederation's 100th birthday—mainly to emphasize the honor.

CITY SHARE $66,305

Regional Budget Hits $191,368

Victoria's share of the Regional District's $191,368 budget will be $66,305.

The city's finance committee agreed Thursday that the costs, based on net taxable assessments, were fair.

Of the $66,305 some $58,065 goes to the acquisition of parkland while $8,240 goes towards general expenses.

The city's share is 34.7 per cent of the total cost as compared with the 27.5 paid by Saanich.

Saanich pays $46,803 towards parkland acquisition and $6,530 towards general expenses for a total annual payment of $53,333.

Oak Bay's total payment will be $24,183 for the year, $20,763 for parks and $3,420 general.

Esquimalt, which does not share in the parkland acquisition program, will contribute only 4.6 of the total cost of the board or $1,092 towards general expenses.

Total contributions for other board members will be: Central Saanich, $4,652; Colwood, $10,821; Langford, $14,080; Metehosin, $2,685; North Saanich, $5,075; Sidney, $3,309; Sooke, $1,518; (Sooke does not share in park acquisition) View Royal, $4,315.

The Colwood, Langford, Metehosin contributions are higher than normal this year because the bulk of their payments will go towards the construction of a swimming pool.

The total amount available for parkland acquisition during the year will be $148,066 are one half mill from the participating municipalities.

Esquimalt Reeve Ray Bryant has stated that his municipality will seek to share in parkland acquisition in future.

In his inaugural address earlier this month he said the reasons for Esquimalt's refusal to join in the plan no longer existed and that he would shortly hold a plebiscite to seek community support for the municipality to pay its share of parkland acquisition costs.

Arthur Mayse

There are in this city as in every other, young people by the score and the hundred who find themselves torn miserably between love for their parents, and contrary emotions which they may shrink from attempting to define.

These are impatience, anger and revulsion; and in the same day, or even hour, a boy or girl can be scorched by all three.

Then, in the aftermath of some blazing family row, love returns, bringing with it some very painful rendings of conscience.

This seesaw of emotions does not make for happiness; a state, by the way, upon which our culture places far too much importance.

There are, of course, those who remain perfectly at ease within the family preserve. But the approximately normal person in the middle and late teens functions more freely, more effectively, and — if you insist — more happily when he has placed distance between himself and his parents.

This is no startling new manifestation of young oneriness. The trouble is, we tend to forget how it was with us at those ages.

They represent the breaking-away years in which the one whom the mother and father must regard as still a child is straining toward his or her image of adulthood.

So you have the boy of 18 who heckles and pesters and finally declares flatly that he means to hitch-hike to Expo or work his way to Australia, and the girl who rakes her mother's heart by proclaiming that on her 19th birthday, she means to move into her very own apartment.

So the lists are set, the gamut cast, and the family that used to be so happy when the children were small is once again embroiled.

Witness the child-turned-stranger, glowering lynch-eyed at bewildered Mom and Dad, who in her eyes actually enjoy thwarting her on every occasion.

Love, battered but durable, will return in due time. But for the moment, it's war.

There are, of course, parents whose young achieve their transitions with no visible stresses and strains. I haven't met or heard about many of these; but they do exist.

I suggest, though, that you accept with reservations the maternal claim that Jack, or Jill, "never" gives us a moment's worry.

More common in my experience are the young hawks who, long before they reach their majority, are straining after a freedom more wide than their anxious elders are willing to allow them.

I believe there would be much less heart-burning on both sides if this failure to agree upon practically anything you care to mention were recognized by both parties for what it is.

This is a phase of growing up — the latest in the series of necessary steps which the child must take away from the parent.

If you are the latter, it is easy to delude yourself into a conviction that the boy growing so fast toward manhood has lost all affection for you. Not so! But it is a different sort of love, and it calls for a different response than that of parent to pre-adolescent child.

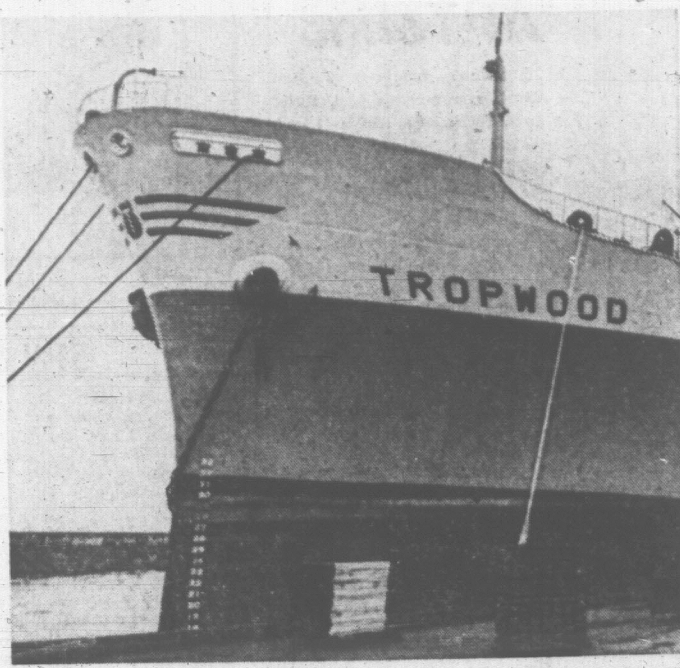

This is the realization — and believe me, it hurts — that you the parents have now been relegated to the background of a daughter's life or a son's.

And there, if your own love is unselfish, you will require yourselves to stay. To cling, to dominate, unreasonably, to insist upon shared confidences, can only damage a relationship which has changed and will keep on changing.

This is a hard doctrine, both to accept and to follow. But parents who refuse to risk the ultimate loss of the very love they yearn to keep.

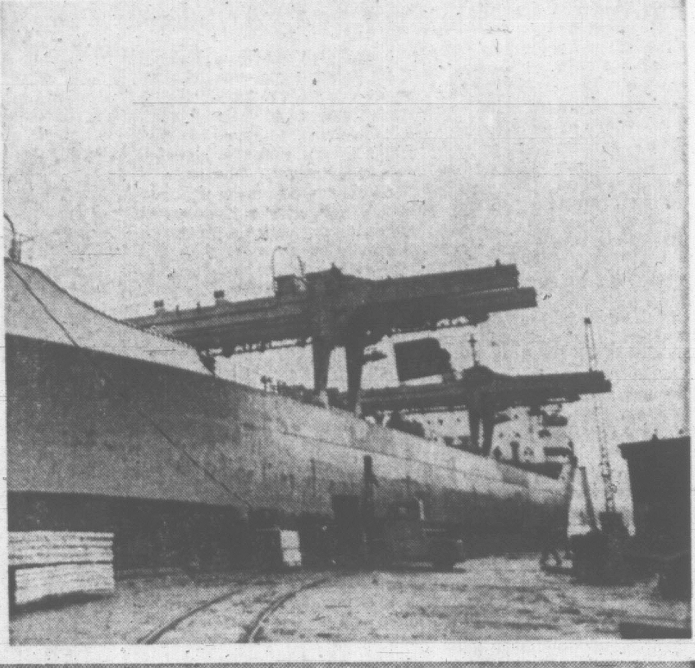

I have a word too for some 17-year-old who an hour ago told her father and mother she hated them, and is now probably in remorseful imagination sprinkling her tears over the coffin in which they lie.

If they are parents worth loving they know you are not a demon-child but merely an adolescent, and you are already forgiven.

Booms Out, Hoists In On Ship-and-a-Half

From the bow it looks like any other ship. But from the stern it's a different story. Unlike most lumber carriers, the 16,239-ton Tropwood has done away with the familiar booms. In their place are two automatic side-loading hoists. The hoists, while looking cumbersome, cut in half the amount of time taken to load the vessel. Just over a year old, the Tropwood tied up at Ogden Point for the first time today to load three million board feet for the eastern U.S. First of her kind in the world, the Liberian-registered freighter does away with the need for the usual number of men on deck to supervise loading. Instead, all they have to do is deposit the lumber on the dockside and the hoist takes over. The giant hoists travel up and down the 600-foot deck along railway tracks. While one lot of lumber is being loaded from the dock, another batch can be lifted from floating barges on the other side. Although a newcomer to Ogden Point, the Tropwood put into local waters once before when she visited Esquimalt for minor repairs. Part of her present cargo was loaded in Squamish and the load will be topped off at other Vancouver Island ports.

BUT BISHOP SERIOUS

'New Direction' Hard to Believe

By DESMOND BILL

Bishop Rem J. De Roo leaned forward in his chair and spoke quietly.

"If I name the steering committee you know what will happen," he told the priests.

"We can talk all we like about a free election but our people will think it is only talk. They'll think I am really keeping control."

One of the priests in the room looked up, slightly startled. He is still not used to hearing a Catholic bishop talk like that.

Nor are a lot of other Catholics on Vancouver Island. They still can't quite believe that Bishop De Roo is really serious about giving the laity a voice in the church.

But the bishop represents the new direction of the Catholic Church towards more involvement of the laity and less direction from high church authority.

HE MEANS IT And his chairing of a meeting of the diocesan senate Thursday afternoon showed he means what he says.

There was a lack of formality for one thing. The Bishop called priests by their first names, not 'Father.' And they called him 'Bishop' not 'Your Excellency,' the traditional way of addressing a bishop.

The meeting was held in the living room of the bishop's home in Gordon Head. It got hot after a while and the priests quickly took off their collars and black vests and sat in their shirtsleeves.

UNPRECEDENTED These surface impressions were indicative of more important things. The senate meeting was unprecedented for two reasons.

It was the first time in Canada, and perhaps in the world, that a senate meeting has been open to the press.

Death In Fire Of Elderly Man Ruled 'Accident'

An elderly recluse found dead in the ashes of his isolated home on New Year's Day died by accident, Coroner Edmond St. Jorre ruled today.

He said an inquiry showed no blame in the fire death of Louis Olsen, about 80, who lived by himself in a frame house he had built on Kangaroo Road.

His official investigation had not uncovered the cause of the fire said the coroner. The house had been reduced to just smouldering embers by the time a passerby spotted it early New Year's Day.

FORMERLY OF SAANICH

Ill-Fated Youngster Drowns in P. Rupert

Four-year-old Brent Bell was plagued from the day he was born.

Since birth he had undergone 14 operations for an ear complaint. But his hearing was still impaired.

Three weeks ago, his parents decided to make a new life for themselves in Prince Rupert. On Wednesday while the family was still settling in their new apartment, Brent drowned not far from home.

The boy's mother, Mrs. Ann Bell, formerly of 374 Davida, Saanich, told today of Brent's ill-fated life.

14 OPERATIONS

"He was plagued from the start," said the former health spa instructor.

Impaired Driver Jailed Six Weeks

Frank Charles Woods, 48, of 1256 Oliver St., was jailed for six weeks today when he pleaded guilty in traffic court to impaired driving.

Magistrate Byers imposed the jail term even though prosecutor John Macintyre suggested it was not necessary.

The Crown alleged but did not present evidence proving it was Mr. Wood's second conviction for impaired driving.

The charge arose from an accident in the 2000 block Central Avenue Dec. 10 when Mr. Wood's car went out of control, ran across the sidewalk, over a small tree and into a flower bed.

Roger Cyr, 20, of HMCS Yukon, was fined $400 when he appeared in criminal court and pleaded guilty to impaired driving.

He was arrested Thursday night after his auto clipped an oncoming car on the Old Island Highway, causing about $600 damage.

Police said they had four witnesses who reported Cyr was on the wrong side of the road at the time. There was no injuries in the crash.

"This is how people get killed, you know," Magistrate Oster told Cyr in fining him and suspending his driving privileges.

Combos Take On League Leaders

Armed Forces Combos and Tudor Monarchs, deadlocked for second place in the Esquimalt and District Hockey League standings, pick on different rivals in an effort to move up the ladder tonight.

Combos' route seems toughest. They play first-place University Vikings at 7:45 while Tudors tackle last-place Stockers at 9:15 p.m.

Princess Alexandra Coming Here After Opening Big Trade Fair

Princess Alexandra of Kent and her husband, Angus Ogilvy, will visit Victoria between May 18 and 21, it was learned today.

They have accepted an invitation from Lieutenant-Governor and Mrs. George Pearkes to stay at Government House, a spokesman said.

A state dinner is planned and a program of local appearances is being drawn up by the provincial centennial committee.

The princess will open the British Columbia International

Trade Fair at Vancouver on Thursday, May 18.

The couple will arrive in Toronto May 16 for a three-week visit to Canada, the government announced in Ottawa today.

They will stay in Toronto until May 18, when they leave by plane for Vancouver and then Victoria.

FLY NORTH

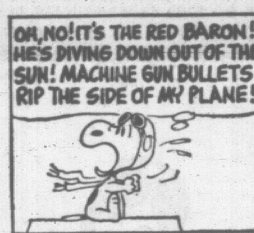

On May 21 they leave Vancouver by train for Banff and remain there until May 24. After visits to Calgary and Edmonton, they will take a flying trip to the Yukon and Northwest Territories, with stops at Whitehorse, Yellowknife, Hay River and Alexandra Falls.

Next stop is Jasper, Alta., where they stay until June 3. They go to Regina June 4 and will be in Winnipeg June 5 and 6.

On June 7 they will fly to Ottawa for brief visits with Governor-General Georges Vanier and Prime Minister Lester Pearson.

This will be followed by a tour of Expo 67 in Montreal. They are due to return to England by ship from Montreal on June 8.

ARMED GUARDS EVERYWHERE WHEN CITY BANK MAKES MOVE

Tight security arrangements including armed guards, police, commissioners and bank staff will shroud a February move by one of Victoria's busiest bank branches.

The Royal Bank at Fort and Cook shifts to temporary quarters on Fort just west of Cook in the early part of the month, where it will stay during construction of a new building on the old site.

A $250,000 two-storey building will rise where the existing branch stands, for which tenders will be called early next month.

New Safety Rule For All Ski Lifts

Employees of the province's two rightseeing cable cars and 37 ski lifts will have to take the first run each day from now on to make sure they're safe for passengers.

B.C. became the first province to adopt a proposed uniform code for ensuring safety on aerial tramways through a provincial cabinet order this morning. The code is expected to be adopted by all provinces and the federal government.

TWO-YEAR STUDY

It was drafted by a two-year, 45-man study involving government representatives, industry and designers headed by the B.C. commercial transport department's chief engineer, Robert Swanson.

Deputy minister A. J. Bowering said the province moved quickly in making the draft code a part of the B.C. Railway Act regulations, because it wants to be sure the new safety specifications are included in the current ski-lift construction boom.

CO-OPERATION

"Industry also is co-operating in updating their existing equipment to meet these specifications," he said.

Five of the ski lifts and tow ropes are on Vancouver Island — one T-bar lift and one tow rope at Green Mountain Ski Club near Ladysmith and two T-bar lifts and one tow rope at Mt. Becher Ski Club near Courtenay.

PASSENGER SAFETY

Under the new regulations, the operators are made entirely responsible for meeting specifications and the safety of passengers.

The operators must make daily inspections and keep a log, paying particular attention to ropes, wires, chair attachments, brakes and platforms.

"At the beginning of each working day, or after repairs have been made, an employee of the company shall be required to ride over the entire aerial tramway to make an inspection and to see that it is in safe and proper working condition before any passengers are carried," the regulations demand.

The regulations also require that each tramway have on hand stretchers, blankets and first-aid equipment as well as a stretcher-carrier that can be used to transport injured.

The new regulations come into effect only a week after the Grouse Mountain ski lift went back into operation — using its specifications — following an enquiry and re-equipping forced by an accident last spring.

A cable car plunged wildly March 21, injuring 10 persons, when a brake failed.

Ask The Times

Q. What is the Victoria Dart Club?—F.D.

A. Dart Club is a Chinese men's service club, affiliated with Chinese Freemasons.

Q. What are the differences between field lacrosse and the game played indoors?—E.F.

A. Field lacrosse is played on a ground 110 yards long by 60 yards wide, has teams of 10 players each and uses longer sticks than those used in "box" lacrosse.

In "box" lacrosse which can be played outdoors in hockey rinks of the appropriate size, as well as in arenas, there are only six players to a team.

Phoney Gun Recognized By Victim

Two brothers who tried to hold up a middle-aged man at a bus stop Thursday night were nabbed by Esquimalt police within minutes.

The robbery bid failed when their victim ignored the hammer handle they brandished as a pistol and fled yelling.

Mervin Deyotte, 25, and his brother, Ronald, 29, both of 701 Connahugh St., pleaded guilty to attempted robbery when they appeared in central court this morning. They were to be sentenced later in the day.

WAITING FOR BUS

City police said they approached Adam Schulz of 1077 Davie St. about 11:30 p.m. as he was waiting for a bus on Craigflower Road near Raynor.

The pair walked past Schulz and then returned to ask him when his bus would be along.

When he told them "very soon," Mervin hauled a black-handled hammer from his belt and pointing the hammer as though it were a pistol tried to hold him up.

Mr. Schulz fled to the nearby Victoria West Bakery at 413 Craigflower where staff phoned the police.

Esquimalt and city police converged on the area and the brothers were picked up by constable Herbert Weatherall about two blocks from the scene.

ADMISSION

Questioned by city police later, they admitted intending to taking any money Mr. Schulz had.

Mervin has a previous conviction for a break-in and theft, court was told this morning.

Ronald's criminal record includes convictions for theft, offences under the Unemployment Insurance Act, causing a disturbance by fighting and assault.

Driver Located After Puppy Killed by Car

Saanich police Thursday night interviewed the driver of a car involved in an accident Wednesday morning which resulted in a puppy bleeding to death.

The six-month old spaniel, "Bob," lay on the front lawn of the Williams family at 4487 Majestic Drive with its chest sliced open for almost an hour before its injury was spotted.

It died in Mr. Williams' car as he was rushing to a veterinarian. The animal doctor said immediate attention would have saved Bob's life.

Two children told police the puppy was mortally injured when a hubcap flew off a car and hit him. The youngsters said the driver stopped long enough to retrieve the hubcap and then drove off.

Officers said today the case is still under investigation.

Pedestrian Hurt In Car Mishap

A woman was treated for abrasions to her knee at St. Joseph's Hospital this morning after a car-pedestrian accident at Belleville and Government Streets.

City police said Lilly Johnny, 38, of 849 North Park, was injured when hit as she crossed Government Street at the intersection.

Driver of the car was identified as Adelard Gervais but his address was not immediately available.

A GOLDEN lion for a golden anniversary as Education Minister Leslie Peterson is presented with a golden book end by Jack Tang, right, past zone chairman, District 19, International Association of Lions Clubs. Mr. Peterson signed a proclamation this morning honoring the more than 4,000 Lions representing

WHY GROW OLD?

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

You May Inherit Family's Eating Habits So Watch It!

This Friday I am using my usual question box to answer some of the questions those readers ask who are following my Eight Week Beauty Improvement Plan, for a loss of 20 pounds in the next eight weeks.

Q. All in my mother's family are fat. Will I inherit this? I am only 25 and have a tendency to gain weight. Is my fate already set and hopeless?

A. Not at all! In some rare instances this could be true. However, the chances are that you have inherited your family's eating habits. Watch it.

Q. Can I save an item or two from my usual diet for in-between meal snacks?

A. Surely you can! In fact this is a very good idea, just so long as you count it as a part of your daily calorie intake. Save a piece of fruit or a glass of milk or juice or any other item, which was on your menu for the day.

Q. I like sugar in my coffee. In fact I do not like coffee without sugar. Is it impossible for me to reduce and have sugar in my coffee?

A. This depends on how much sugar you put into a cup of coffee, and how many cups of coffee you drink. If you put two teaspoons of sugar in a cup of coffee and drink eight cups a day, that counts up to a total of about 240 calories a day, which is too much for one item, when the item gives you no value in nutrition.

I am glad that you brought this question up, because so many would-be reducers say, "I can't understand why I can't lose weight. I have not put sugar in my coffee or eaten a potato for years." The truth is that there is no reason why you should not enjoy a teaspoon of sugar in your coffee or even two cups a day. There are about 15 calories in a teaspoon of sugar.

A baked potato is one of the best items on a reducing diet. It has a health value and a medium potato has only about 90 calories. It got its bad reputation because there are so many luscious ways to prepare it which do zoom the calorie count. When reducing, season your baked potato with parsley or onion salt or a very small amount of butter.

Q. Can I break over from my reducing diet once in a while when I go to a dinner party?

A. If this doesn't happen very often and isn't too extreme, you can break over some and still not eat all of everything which is offered you. You can avoid second servings. After a day like this, cut your calories a bit lower the next day to make up for it.

If you would like to join thousands of other women in my Eight Week Beauty Improvement Plan for a loss of 20 pounds in eight weeks you may want my BIP Kit. If so, send 25 cents, plus 15 cents for postage and handling, and your printed name and address. Address to Josephine Lowman in care of this newspaper.

Of stark black and white patterned Ban-Lon, the caftan evening lounging ensemble, at left, sweeps to the floor from smooth slope of shoulder, its towers making jagged rows that turn and encircle the wide sleeves. The effective play of black and white, reversed at centre and at the sleeves, is in the boat-neck shift, centre. At the right, the two-piece lounging pyjamas reverse black and white for a sophisticated and dramatic look for evenings at home.

Fashion Press Meets Miss America at Party

Times' fashion editor is presently in New York, having made the trip to cover the showings of the New York 'Winter' group. Here, she gives another glimpse of fashions that will make the headlines in the seasons to come.

NEW YORK — It is stimulating each time we attend the New York Couture Group fashion showings to be able to anticipate a new fashion, meeting new people and seeing new places. It is also exciting to revisit favorite spots.

The Pierre Roof Garden on the 41st floor of the hotel, one of my favorites, is a lovely two-level room with a winding circular staircase. This year the marketing division of Bancroft held a gay cocktail party in this setting to introduce the fashion press to Jane Anne Jayroe, Miss America 1967.

Her reign is now four months old and she has learned what it takes to be a jet-setter. While in New York

Miss America received her new Ban-Lon spring wardrobe and we were privileged to see her model it for the first time. The same company also flew Ken Scott out from Italy to present his marvellously brilliant collection, all fashioned in globe-trotting Ban-Lon.

Ken Scott, a native of Indiana, finds in his adopted city of Milan all the inspiration for his love of color. His collection was the epitome of the color explosion which is so much a part of this year's fashion news. Filmy coats floated over slithering dresses, brightly toned stockings appeared with short shifts and his mini bikini was about the briefest of the week.

Harvey, Berin showed his interpretation of the new fashion silhouette, the Jubah. This is a version of the Caftan which was so much in the scene last season. The sides of the tunic-like overshirt are split to reveal a narrow undershirt or slender pants. A costume of coat in ripple jersey over a solid jersey sleeveless dress was shown in the soft shade which in this collection is called Berin blue.

Beautiful four-ply silk crepes appear throughout the show. Chantilly lace is for the elegant, late-day dresses designed for Karen Stark of Harvey Berin.

Cameo is a couture house which has always been known for its realistically beautiful clothes. Gala evening and late-day clothes are the specialty of this house and the designer is well aware that many women who are out of their 20s still love to dress beautifully for the after-dark hours. Smaller prints in fine silks are for the mature woman who has tired of the basic dark shades so often chosen for her.

In a long history of beautiful clothes, this spring Hannah Troy manages to establish new highs with the "glider" collection. Black and white was used most effectively in two identical dresses. Sleeveless wool with a dropped belt, the white edged in black and vice versa. Black and white again was used to illustrate the new coat dress, one in white silk, one in black silk, and one in giant black and white houndstooth check. An elegant head-turning dress in smoke-grey chiffon had sparkling bands of glitter at throat, sleeve edge and hemline.

Snow came down in big fat flakes one morning and we were sure we were in for a real tie-up but there was just enough to give Central Park a whole new look. The street vendors who sell hot roasted chestnuts do a big business these cold days and, as usual, all the little dogs which live in nearby hotels and apartments are wearing their little fur coats and earmuffs. There are as many men wearing fur hats along Fifth Avenue as there are fashionable women.

Holiday Season At Tofino

Traffic to and from the up-Island communities of Ucluelet and Tofino has been heavy during the last few weeks as residents and visitors shared the holiday season with their friends and relatives.

Former Ucluelet residents, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Larsen have returned to their home at Combs, B.C., following a holiday in Ucluelet.

Spending the holidays on the mainland were Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Greene, Long Beach. They visited with Mr. Greene's mother in Nelson and his brother in Grand Forks.

Young Danny Singleton has returned to his studies at University School, Victoria, following a holiday visit with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Dennis Singleton of Tofino.

Spending the holiday season with relatives and friends in Ucluelet was Miss Erica Barr. A former Ucluelet resident, Miss Barr makes her home in Burnaby with her brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Blair Druet.

Several farewell parties have been held in Tofino and Ucluelet for Mr. and Mrs. Francis Cousineau and their children, Joey and Nina. The family who have been residents of the up-Island communities for the past 12 years will not be making their home at Gold River.

Guest Speaker

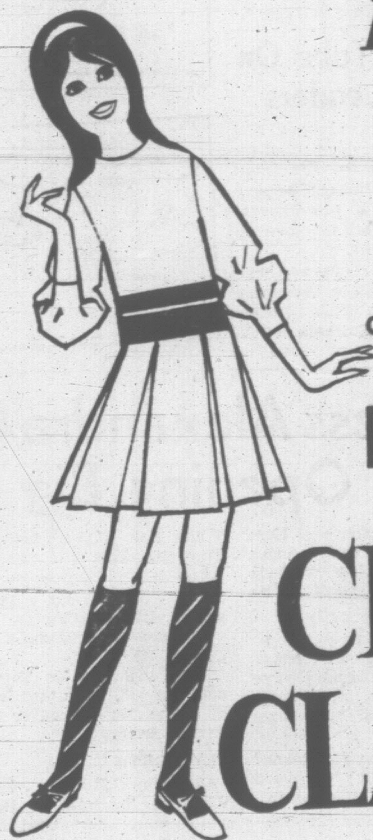

David D. Stupich, MLA for Nanaimo, will speak on "Legislation Pertaining to Car Insurance" when he addresses the Victoria Business and Professional Women's Club Monday evening. The dinner meeting begins at 6:15 p.m. in the War Amputations Hall and Mr. Stupich will speak at 8 p.m. His talk is open to the public. Arranging the program is Mrs. R. Webster.

SEW SIMPLE

Dear Mrs. Farmer: Please tell me how a tent dress is made. I have seen this dress discussed in the newspaper and yet I can't find a pattern that is actually called a tent dress.

Mrs. R. M. R.

Dear Mrs. R. M. R.: A tent dress is actually a new shape that has appeared. It is really an exaggerated A-line shape. It usually just hangs in loose folds from the shoulder and extends in a triangular line at the hem. You gals who are on the short side better avoid this look. It can actually be very effective if done in a soft crepe which would make the extra width hang in lovely folds and have a very graceful look.

If done in heavier fabrics, it would tend to make one look much shorter and wider. Be sure to experiment with this look before cutting into expensive fabric.

Fight Bulge Battle With These Weapons

By Penny Saver

January seems to be the month for the diet-minded. After a brief lull in the "battle of the bulge," during the holiday season, whittling away a few extra pounds is on almost everybody's mind. Weapons in the fight against extra pounds range from barbells and reducing equipment, a refrigerator full of diet foods and drinks, to the extremist who insists on starving off those unwanted pounds. I don't know about you, but diets and I just don't get along well together. As soon as the thought of dieting enters my mind, eating almost becomes an obsession!

Two foods that I'm wild about every time I attempt to diet are salads served with delicious Italian dressing, and peanut butter. In one shop, I discovered that I can eat these two foods to my heart's content without the least worry about adding extra pounds.

The Italian dressing transforms greens into a salad fit for a gourmet. Priced at 45 cents the six-ounce bottle, this dressing contains only one calorie per teaspoon. Pick up a bottle today, and have a salad if your diet leaves you simply famished.

The ideal snack idea is low-calorie peanut butter spread lavishly on a cracker. This peanut butter contains no salt or sugar, and each 100 grams is only about 30 calories. It comes in a one-pound jar for 55 cents.

Every household should stock up on "meal-in-a-minute" foods. On extra-busy days, these easy-to-prepare meals are the answer to every housewife's prayers.

The easiest meals to serve are those that come in handy hot bags. There's no fuss or mess as all you need is one pot. One shop carries a corned beef hash in these hot bags. Stock up for busy Saturdays. Price is 39 cents the seven-ounce package.

Remember my number is 382-3131. Give me a call if you want to know where to find these foods.

A New You by Emily Wilkens

MEMO TO YOU:
You feel your best when you look your best. This simple truth explains the eternal quest for beauty.

From all over the country, girls and women of all ages have sent me thousands of letters seeking beauty advice.

These letters were from readers who had followed the serialization of my latest book, "A New You."

Each writer sought the answer to some personal beauty problem, believing it to be something special and unique. However, I found that there was much in common about these worrisome inquiries.

The idea for a regular column originated in this correspondence and in the belief that so many others with similar problems never got around to writing about them.

Three times a week — on Monday, Wednesdays and Fridays — I will make available the newest and best beauty information. One column each week will be devoted to answering specific questions.

Remember one thing: There is nothing top-secret, hidden, remote or inaccessible about the so-called beauty secrets. They can be yours to your great gain, well-being and immense satisfaction.

Beauty, like any other art, depends upon detail — that precise, fitting touch that can make all the difference in the world between the kind of look you are striving for and that ordinary look you may be trying to overcome.

This calls for knowledge and know-how. There are, of course, beauty basics, but it is the use of the basics-plus that will enable you to become creative in assessing your own special needs and to attain your goal.

How to style your hair, how to edge on lipstick with a firm hand, how to choose foundation — these are indispensable first steps, but after you've mastered them there are still the hundred and one beauty secrets that can do so much for you.

Are you also troubled by some of the things that bothered many of my readers — for example:

How to achieve the straight gleaming hair greatly desired by girls in their teens.

How to keep lipstick from discoloring.

How to keep Bushman-type eyebrows under control.

How to give limp hair a set that lasts.

How to make teeth look whiter.

How to have long, absolutely non-chippable nails.

Why you should apply cream rouge with a sponge.

What products to avoid for skins that tend to break out.

Well, I'll be providing the answers. Let me know your own special problem. I may be able to give you the right answer that will mean so much to you.

And finally, watch for the beauty hints at the end of each column. They are JUST FOR YOU from

EMILY WILKENS

BRIDE'S RESPONSIBILITY

Clean Bill of Health Should Precede Vows

By KARIN MOSER
MONTREAL (CP)—A bride-to-be should have all minor medical problems attended to before she marries, says Lissa Taylor, an expert in the practical side of preparing for marriage.

The prospective bride should have her teeth fixed, her appendix or tonsils removed if they are causing trouble, and she should obtain eyeglasses if she needs them.

Mrs. Taylor, fashion bureau director for Dupont of Canada Ltd., explains that a girl should launch her married life so that there will be a minimum of expenses during the first year. And that includes clothing.

At one time the hope chest was the big thing in the life of a young girl hoping to marry.

At 12 or 13 she began to prepare by making quilts, embroidering sheets and pillowcases and acquiring a variety of items needed for setting up a home.

The feeling seemed to be that the larger and more complete a young woman's hope chest was, the more chance she had of making her marriage a successful one.

As the years passed the dowry had too many financial connotations, especially in North America, to meet with the approval of enterprising young couples and the hope chest became almost extinct.

SHOWERS HELP OUT
Today, aided by kitchen, linen, crystal and china showers, the new couple sets up housekeeping in a moderate degree of luxury compared with those of 50 years ago.

What is left as the main concern of the bride-to-be is the acquisition of a trousseau.

Contrary to popular belief, a trousseau is not limited to pretty lingerie and sleepwear but includes all outfits the bride intends to wear during the honeymoon period such as a travelling suit, day dresses, cocktail dresses, shoes, hats, gloves and other accessories.

"In other words, she should have enough clothes to last for at least one full year of marriage and she is supposed to have all medical problems attended to so that she is absolutely no financial burden to her husband during their first year of marriage."

Mrs. Taylor says girls should take the opportunity prior to marriage of buying the "loveliest, frilliest, most devastatingly feminine" lingerie.

Once you are married, she reasons, the many expenses—children, mortgage, car, rent and food bills—make it difficult for the housewife to splurge on luxurious lingerie.

To Live Here
Mr. and Mrs. L. T. Willoughby arrived in Victoria recently from Lansing, Michigan. The couple, who plans to make their new home here, are visiting with Mrs. Willoughby's mother, Mrs. Edwin Tomlin, in her Henderson Road home.

DEAR ABBY... Confusing Perhaps —But Here Goes By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: This may sound dumb coming from a 24-year-old man, but I have to have the answers, so here goes. What is the correct procedure for getting engaged? Does the man ask the girl first and then ask her father? What if the girl says yes and her father says no? And if he asks the father first, what if the father says yes and the girl says no?

Now, let's say the girl says yes and her father says yes. Does the man pick out the ring and give it to the girl? Or should he have the ring in his pocket when he asks the girl? What if he has the ring in his pocket and the girl says no?

"IN LOVE"

DEAR "IN": Ask the girl first, and if she says no, don't bother her father. If she says yes, ask her father. If he says yes, ask the girl to help you pick out the ring. Makes sense, no?

DEAR ABBY: The other day a friend of mine (I will call her Josephine) told me how cool she thought my brother was and that she would give anything to go out with him.

Well, I told my brother about Josephine and what she said and he didn't think the same about her. In fact he thought she was a creep. I even offered him money to take her out just once, but he wouldn't do it. I know Josephine is going to ask me about my brother again. What shall I tell her?

ON THE SPOT:

If Josephine inquires about your "cool" brother again, tell her that he freezes at the suggestion of dating a friend of yours, and unless she can attract him on her own, it's not tonight, Josephine — or any other night.

DEAR ABBY: I read your column and usually concur with your advice, but I believe you could have done more for "out of ideas" whose wife was hooked in cigarettes, tried everything and couldn't quit. There are thousands of people who are "hooked" and try as they may, seem unable to quit smoking. There is a solution, however, and it is more than just a doctor.

Seventh-day Adventists the world over have been helping hundreds of thousands of people break the tobacco habit. They have devised a five-day stop-smoking clinic which provides the free counselling services of a medical physician for the physical side of the problem, plus the pastoral counselling on will-power from a minister.

In five short days people who never thought they could stop smoking have done so and are on the road to better health. Tell "Out of Ideas" to telephone his nearest Seventh-day Adventist minister and find out when the next free five-day stop-smoking clinic will be put on in his area.

J.G.G., LINCOLN

CONFIDENTIAL TO "JUST ME": A fine artist knows when his painting is finished. A wise woman knows when the affair is over. Accept it with grace.

How has the world been treating you? Unload your problems on Dear Abby, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Calif. 90069. For a personal, unpublished reply, enclose a self-addressed, stamped envelope.

KHARTOUM
Victoria Premiere
Coronet Theatre

Charlton Heston gives the performance of his career as General Gordon, the white man's burden bearer in 19th-century Sudan. And Sir Laurence Olivier is magnificent as his adversary, the holy-warring black Mahdi.

The film is at its best when the two are confronting each other, but it is notable also for a remarkable impersonation of Prime Minister Gladstone by Sir Ralph Richardson.

The sweeping color photography gives grandeur and breadth to an epic piece of history, effectively dramatized by screen writer Richard Arden.

Under British director Basil Dearden, Heston surpasses his previous historical roles (including that of Moses in The Ten Commandments) by interpreting General Gordon as a compound of saintliness, stubbornness and pride. It is no pious portrait, for Heston's Gordon has considerable vanity as well as a liking for drink and public adulation.

He is a leader born whose manner suggests that he and no other should be entrusted by officialdom to protect the Egyptian city of Khartoum from the Mahdi's fanatic warriors.

As the Mahdi, Sir Laurence Olivier has the difficult task of sinking his British identity as native leader of another race. Sometimes, in fitful flashes, the British identity shows through: most of the time the true personality is concealed under a fierce dusky visage and Othello-like voice.

The story opens in dramatic style with a British general and his 10,000 untrained Egyptian troops pursuing the Mahdi and his legions. The pursuers are led into a trap and massacred, after which the Mahdi plans an expansion of his religious war with a triumphal march and ammunition.

Prime Minister Gladstone (Sir Ralph Richardson) seeks a face-saving solution without actually sending troops to the Sudan, and calls on General Gordon for help.

Gordon is given the unofficial task of evacuating thousands of Egyptians from Khartoum. He approaches the Mahdi who reveals that he is well informed of the general's plans.

The Mahdi promises that all in Khartoum will die when his legions capture it, so that other cities along his line of conquest will surrender more easily.

General Gordon prepares for a long siege and the story is launched on its most highly dramatic phase.

3,280 Treatments Given by C.A.R.S.

A total of 3,280 treatments were given by Canadian Arthritis and Rheumatism Society physiotherapists last year in Victoria. Nearly 3,000 were given in the new CARS clinic at Gorge Road Rehabilitation Centre, the rest in patients' homes.

The figures were released Tuesday in a year-end report by past-president of CARS' Victoria branch, Joseph Hopkinson, at the annual meeting at Gorge Road Hospital.

Mrs. E. S. Jones was elected new president of the board of directors for 1967.

Eighty follow-up visits were made last year by CARS physiotherapists, and a team of 17 volunteer drivers made more than 2,500 trips, transporting patients to and from the clinic. Thirty-eight diagnostic clinics were also held in 1966.

Two campaigns run by local radio stations and the Douglas Rotary Club netted CARS a $10,000 donation and a $1,000 whirlpool bath for the Gorge Road clinic.

Also elected to the executive were Fred White, first vice-president; E. S. Jones, second vice-president; Mrs. Leta Row.

LONDON (AP)—Albert Finney and Irene Worth Wednesday won the best actor and best actress honors in the London Evening Standard drama awards for 1966. Finney won his award for his performance at the National Theatre, particularly in A Flea in Your Ear, and Miss Worth was honored for her performance in Noel Coward's trilogy of plays.

SINGAPORE (Reuters)—British Wednesday pulled its last troops out of Malaysia Borneo five months after Malaysia and Indonesia signed a peace pact and ended their three-year jungle war.

Cartoonist Sued For Joanie Phoeanie

TOKYO (UPI)—American folk-singer Joan Baez, calling herself a "human being first and a pacifist second," said Thursday there was nothing personal in her threat to sue cartoonist Al Capp over his new comic strip character Joanie Phoeanie.

"I am interested in helping to end the confusion and social violence that hurt all of us," she said. "Al Capp has contributed to this confusion and violence by introducing Joanie Phoeanie into his strip."

Miss Baez said in Honolulu earlier that, unless she can obtain a retraction from Capp she might go to court to get Joanie deleted from the Li'l Abner strip. She claimed the character was a caricature of herself and constituted a "stupid, vulgar satire" of the anti-war movement.

Capp has denied the character was patterned after Miss Baez.

The long-haired singer said she is "not interested in suing" Capp for money — she is only "interested in the newspapers making a public retraction."

She did not elaborate.

Asked for her appraisal of her beliefs, she said:

"I am a non-violent soldier."

"I'm a human being first, a pacifist second."

"I would like to be very clear."

"I am not attacking Al Capp. I am not attacking his comic strip."

"He has not hurt my feelings."

As the Mahdi, Sir Laurence Olivier has the difficult task of sinking his British identity as native leader of another race.

Sometimes, in fitful flashes, the British identity shows through:

most of the time the true personality is concealed under a fierce dusky visage and Othello-like voice.

The story opens in dramatic style with a British general and his 10,000 untrained Egyptian troops pursuing the Mahdi and his legions.

The pursuers are led into a trap and massacred, after which the Mahdi plans an expansion of his religious war with a triumphal march and ammunition.

Prime Minister Gladstone (Sir Ralph Richardson) seeks a face-saving solution without actually sending troops to the Sudan, and calls on General Gordon for help.

Gordon is given the unofficial task of evacuating thousands of Egyptians from Khartoum. He approaches the Mahdi who reveals that he is well informed of the general's plans.

The Mahdi promises that all in Khartoum will die when his legions capture it, so that other cities along his line of conquest will surrender more easily.

General Gordon prepares for a long siege and the story is launched on its most highly dramatic phase.

GUN ACTED AS ROLL BAR

Stars of TV's Rat Patrol Cheat Death in Accident

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—"By all rights, we should be dead," said Christopher George, star of the desert war television series, The Rat Patrol.

"It's a miracle we aren't," agrees co-star Gaby Raymond. They and another actor in the series, Justin Tarr, are survivors of a jeep accident that might well have been the end of their careers, as well as Rat Patrol.

It happened last week on a dry lake bed at Rosamond, Calif. The company was shooting a scene in which Tarr drove a jeep around a wrecked German half-track during a battle.

George was seated beside Tarr, and Raymond stood on the rear with a mounted gun.

"The whole thing happened as if in slow motion," recalled George. "I could feel the right side of the jeep lifting, and I began to think we were going to roll over."

"I thought Gary could probably leap clear, since he was on the back. I looked over at Justin and guessed he would get killed, and probably I would, too."

"The jeep flipped up and over and then started to come down on us. I said to myself, 'This is it.' But the jeep didn't come all the way down. The gun mount on the back had acted as a roll bar."

Raymond, the British member of the cast, had jumped as the jeep started to roll. He lay on the ground with a broken ankle. Crew members rushed over to lift the jeep from the other two actors, who were pinned under it. George seemed to be the most seriously hurt;

my neck and may have a hair-line fracture of the vertebra," said George at Cedars of Lebanon Hospital in Hollywood. "I also had abrasions all over my body."

The future plans of Rat Patrol depend on his recovery. Something will have to be done within a month or so. The series has enough backlog to extend only into March.

George was in hospital.

Tarr had escaped with only an injured arm.

All were taken to a desert hospital, and it was feared that George might have suffered a fractured skull and broken vertebra.

"Now it appears that I had a concussion, tore something in my neck and may have a hair-line fracture of the vertebra," said George at Cedars of Lebanon Hospital in Hollywood. "I also had abrasions all over my body."

FOUR ACQUITTED

A Topless World Faces New Yorkers This Week

NEW YORK (UPI)—Four topless waitresses and the nightclub that employed them were acquitted Thursday of all charges against them in an action expected to open the largest U.S. city to the fad already so widespread on the west coast.

A three-judge city court found the defendants not guilty of indecent exposure or putting on a display offensive to public decency after testimony that the girls, a blonde, redhead and two brunettes, did nothing more than serve drinks in costumes which left them completely nude above the waist except for "pasties."

VULGAR

Judge Herman Weinkrantz said the conduct of the defendants was vulgar and not in keeping with public decency but ruled city district attorney Gino Galiana had not proved his charges.

Defence attorney Melvin Thaler argued the female breast had never been found to be a "private part" as defined in the New York statute dealing with indecent exposure. He pointed out as much and more of the female body was displayed in public by girls wearing bikinis on beaches.

NO PERFORMANCE

Thaler also pointed out the evidence had shown the girls staged no performances, did not sing, dance or move their bodies in any manner except to serve food and drink. He said there was no evidence they had entered into any assignments with male customers.

The nightclub is The Crystal Room on New York's fashionable East Side owned by Dolores Di Salvo, an ash blonde prettier than any of her topless waitresses.

Inspector David Eallek, head of the morals squad of the New York police in the midtown area, had predicted before the verdict an acquittal would mean New York would be blossoming with topless cabarets by the weekend.

The four girls acquitted were Ruby Diamond, Mary Rooney, Anita Ventura, who according to testimony wore Batman pasties and a mask, and Florence Mayer, who previously worked as a topless waitress in California and prides herself on having dropped out of three colleges.

Galliana, in his final argument, said the judges should use the standards of common sense.

SWIFT ACTION

"The appearance of a woman with pasties on her breasts walking down Fifth Avenue would certainly bring about swift action by the police and the people would want that action taken," he said.

Galliana said the "hanging" of breasts within six to eight inches of the face of customers certainly fell in the category of indecent exposure.

He said it was a clear intent of Miss Di Salvo and her two management colleagues, Chester Van Savage and James James, to flout the law and see if they could get away with topless waitresses.

"In a city of this size we cannot permit this and we will not permit it," he said.

Galliana failed to bring out the fact that each of the girls holds a cabaret licence as a performer. Had he done so, the verdict might have been different and it appeared the district attorney's office might take the matter to court again.

But for the time being it appeared the lid is off topless waitresses in New York.

AREA FIRM HAS 10 BOOKS IN EXPO '67

A Saanich Peninsula publishing company will have 10 books on display in the library of the Canadian Pavilion at Expo 67.

The books were chosen from Gray Campbell Publishing Co. by two Expo representatives.

They are No Man Stands Alone by Amy Wilson, Cariboo Cowboy by Harry Marriott, Dangerous River and Far Pastures by R. M. Patterson, Ottawa Editor by Charles Bowman, My Borrowed Life by James Audain, Pacific Gardener by A. R. Willis, Dookhobor Daze by Hazel O'Neal, Blind Date by John Windsor, and Behind the Pallisades by the late George S. McTavish.

Vancouver Island's West Coast, by George Nicholson, published privately in 1962, was also selected.

Another Female Invasion

TORONTO (CP)—It was another victory for womanhood Thursday as five female students at the University of Toronto walked into Hart House, a men's recreation centre since the First World War, and refused to leave.

Irate male students threw paper bags and cups at the five co-eds, but they remained at their seats for about an hour in the cafeteria.

Hart House, built on campus more than 60 years ago, admits women only at certain times for certain functions, and upon invitation. The women have complained about it for years.

The assistant warden of Hart House said that although the five "may be misguided," they must still be extended courtesy.

The women said their campaign will continue.

Arbutus Bottle Drive
Victoria West Fourth Arbutus cub pack will hold a bottle drive Saturday morning in the Vic West area.

Proceeds will help send boys to cub-camp in the summer.

They Dig Hootenanny

Many senior citizens dig hootenanny music.

That was evident in the Silver Threads Centre Wednesday afternoon when Mount Douglas High School Band put on a lively session of hootenanny.

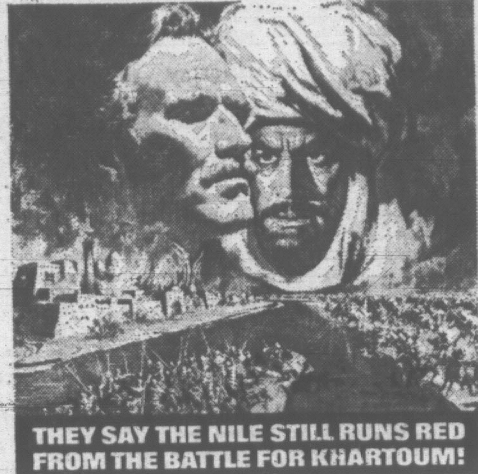

The audience responded with enthusiastic applause and called for more. But the program was by no means restricted to hootenanny. The 49 instrumentalists proved their versatility by playing lively march tunes extracts from symphonic works and popular songs.

30 CHILDREN

Church Seeks First Licence
For Day-Care

Victoria's Centennial United Church, 649 Gorge Road, has applied for permission to open the first group day-care centre in the city.

The application to open a centre capable of handling 30 pre-school children was forwarded to the Family and Children's Service on Thursday.

If approved the centre will be established in various church rooms and operate in conjunction with a long-established kindergarten which has an enrolment of between 50 and 70.

DIFFERENT

Mr. R. H. Pearce, a member of the church committee working for the day-care centre, said though closely allied with the kindergarten the centre would provide an entirely different type of care.

"A day-care centre provides a home away from home for the children of mothers who have to work to make a living," he said. "The children are fed hot meals at lunch time, take afternoon naps and are provided with the affection and attention they require."

The naps have presented the centre organizers with their first major problem.

"We are hoping that the Lion's Club will be able to help us through they already have a 'nappy' program," Mrs. Pearce said. "I am sure that one way or another we shall get the beds we require."

Garth Homer of the Community Welfare Council said he is delighted with the proposed church program.

'WONDERFUL'

"We are charged by the provincial government to co-ordinate the day-care program for Victoria," he said. "It is wonderful to see a church offering to provide the physical facilities while the Family and Children's Service will provide the program. This is the way it should be."

The centre will handle children between the ages of three and five years and be open from 8 a.m. to 6 p.m. "But the hours will be flexible," Mrs. Pearce said. "If a mother has to be at work by eight o'clock then we shall have someone there at a quarter to eight to take care of the child."

It is estimated a staff of four professionally trained day-care specialists will be required to look after the 30 children the centre can accommodate.

SMALLER CENTRES

Asked what happened to mothers with children under three years of age, Mrs. Pearce said smaller home day-care centres would be able to provide such service.

Thursday morning the Victoria Health and Welfare Committee approved the first licence for such a centre at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Lionel Macdonald, 169 Beechwood.

Care will be provided for four or five young children. With the opening of the first home day-care centre and the proposed opening of the group centre at Centennial United, officials of Children's Service say a great need will be filled in the community.

'CAN'T UNWIND CLOCK'

Mrs. Janet Gurr, day-care counsellor with the Children's Service, said the time has come for Victoria to face the problem of the working mother with children.

"We cannot unwind the clock," she said. "More and more mothers are finding their jobs and leaving their children with other people. The time has come for us to stop wringing our hands and see if there is anything we can do for these children."

Mrs. Gurr added that with well-trained day-care mothers the community is bound to reap long-term benefits in addition to freeing the father and mother from the anxieties created when they have to leave their children at home while they work.

Regular fees will be charged for the services provided with those able to afford it paying the full fee while the unmarried mother may be assisted to make payments.

Fees for day-care services have not yet been established.

Some Yule Presents Can Be Dangerous

By DR. WALTER C. ALVAREZ

It always worries me a bit to see small children given as presents, excellent replicas of machine guns. Many a time when sitting in the home of a friend, I have come his boy of eight or so, with what looked like a revolver. He poked it at my face and pulled the trigger — with me wondering if it was a real revolver. I think of this experience of mine every time I read in the paper that a revolver pointed by the child was his father's loaded gun, which the youngster had found in a drawer. In that case the guest had his head blown off.

Recently, I read that a mother gave her son a revolver, and with it he shot and killed her. In another case the parents gave their boy a rifle. With it he shot and killed a boy. One day a man came into my office with one eye gone. He explained that his nephew of eight, when given a bow and arrows for Christmas, promptly shot out my patient's eye.

Alvarez

Often the relatives of the patient are at their wits' end — wondering where they can find help, and wise help.

As Samra says, there is much need for more study to show what schizophrenia is, and what can be done to bring the sufferers back to health. What is disturbing is that today there is so much disagreement among psychiatrists. Many psychiatrists feel sure that the disease is produced in an adult, simply by the evil behavior of a mother or a wife. Many of the older psychiatrists accept the work of Professor Franz Kallmann and others, who spent their lives proving up to the hilt that the cause of the disease is heredity, and that the patients are born with a strong tendency to get mentally upset.

Now there is the growing society of biologic psychiatrists, made up of men who are studying the many peculiarities in the body chemistry of persons who are much disturbed with an attack of schizophrenia. Naturally the biologists expect to cure schizophrenia with some drug which will control and destroy the chemicals that seem to be hurting the patient's brain, much as a dose of LSD would hurt it.

Kahlil Samra, has founded an American Schizophrenia Foundation, the membership of which is growing rapidly. He feels that the foundation can do (1) to help and give comfort to those thousands of people who have, or have had, schizophrenia, and (2) to give help and comfort to those many greatly distressed people who have a loved one suffering from the disease.

Bodo Now Shooting For a Full Volume

Chess is one of the favorite pastimes of a 14-year-old Central Junior Secondary School pupil who won a World Book Atlas today for a question submitted to Ask Andy.

The question is answered in the column below.

Bodo Jacksteit, 1316 Thurlow, for his age is regarded a skillful chess player, quite capable of looking after himself in games with senior players.

His father, also an ardent chess player, taught him the game. Now he is looking forward to the day when he can join the city chess club. He has to be 16.

He reads a lot and is interested in the world about him.

He likes to submit questions to Ask Andy because some of the things he wants to know are difficult to find in books. "I was surprised to win a prize," he said, "I plan to continue to write questions. I would like to win a set of World Book Encyclopedia."

At school is favorite subjects are social history and woodworking. He is keen on hockey and likes camping.

BODO

... all about dyes

One of his hobbies is stamp collecting. He has now nearly 2,000 stamps.

Bodo would like to become a mechanic when he grows up.

Is there something you want to know? Do you want to win a set of valuable books or other instructive prizes? Then ask Andy. Andy will answer questions submitted by child readers and those who submit the questions he selects to answer will receive worthwhile prizes. The youngster who asks the first question answered each day receives a 25-volume set of the World Book Encyclopedia and of the second question a 25-volume Atlas or Globe.

Andy sends a World Atlas to Bodo Jacksteit, aged 14, of Victoria, for his question:

What are vegetable dyes?

In the past, dyes for coloring fabrics were squeezed from various plants. Leather was tanned brown with the tannic acid from various tree barks. Ink was made from dark juices of certain galls. Weavers used the juice of the madder weed to dye their tweedy textiles almost any shade of brown from dusty pink to rich chocolate. Hundreds of these dyes were found in the vegetable kingdom and expert cloth makers knew thousands of recipes for using them.

Every plant species manufactures certain unique chemicals of its own. The vegetable dyes used in the past were plant chemicals and modern chemists can copy many of nature's chemicals. They have copied most of the old plant dyes and even improved some of nature's recipes. Vegetable dyes are hard to come by, costly and they tend to vary. Modern textile mills use synthetic dye chemicals — which are cheaper and more dependable.

Andy sends a complete, 20-volume set of the World Book Encyclopedia to Maurice Bray, age 10, of Hearst, Ontario, for his question:

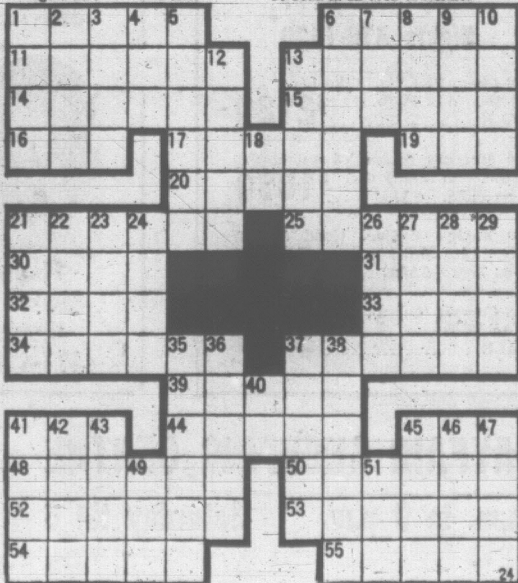

Where are the worst earthquake regions?

Pacific Belt Most Restless

The most restless earthquake belt follows the edges of the Pacific Ocean. It is the longest and the worst of the three. The restless region reaches from the tip of South America, all along the western coastline up to Alaska. It turns westward with the Aleutians, keeping these bleak islands in a constant upheaval. It follows the shores of Asia through Japan and China and reaches out to shake many chains of Pacific islands. This huge, restless region is called the Circum-Pacific earthquake belt. It is also a region where other upheavals are going on in the rocky crust of the earth. There are dozens of volcanoes along its path. Some of them are active and ready to erupt at any time. Some are quietly dormant — either asleep forever or just waiting to burst forth again. This is why the Circum-Pacific belt is called the Ring of Fire. The restless path through the earth's crust follows the Andes, the Rockies and other long chains of high mountains.

AGAINST GREEK STEAMSHIP

Court Backs VMD Claim

A claim for $6,994 by Victoria Machinery Depot was upheld in an Admiralty Court judgment Wednesday.

Mr. Justice F. A. Sheppard, deputy district judge of Admiralty, ruled that VMD was entitled to recover this amount from the owners of the Greek steamship Mimina of Greece.

VMD claimed $6,634 for performing repairs and supplying materials to the steamship while she was docked at Chemainus, Vancouver Island, in November 1964.

The claim included interest at the rate of 5 per cent per annum from Nov. 3, 1964, until date of payment.

The owners of the Mimina — Motorvanes de Panama of Piraeus, Greece — held that the cost of the work and materials should not have exceeded $5,000. However, they said they were prepared to pay $5,500.

Upholding VMD's claim, Mr. Justice Sheppard said the steamship Mimina arrived at Chemainus on Oct. 28, 1964.

Two days later the inspector of gear and tackle for the department of transport condemned the ship's cargo gear and tackle and called for a complete quadrennial survey before she could load cargo.

To raise the cargo gear to the standard of the survey, Mr. Justice Sheppard said, every shackle and every boom had to be striped, checked and stamped.

The contract called for completion of the repairs by 8 a.m. on Monday, Nov. 2, 1964, so that the ship could take on cargo.

Mr. Justice Sheppard found that the work was completed on schedule and that the staff of VMD had to put in considerable overtime to obtain this result.

He awarded the costs of the action to VMD.

Burned Out Family Needs More Clothes

The six-member Arthur Thrift family, burned out of their home in a New Year's Day fire, still needs clothing and shelter.

Captain Gareth Douglas of the Esquimalt Salvation Army said today clothes for a 12-year-old boy, for young men aged 18 and 19 (size 40 jacket), and for Mr. and Mrs. Thrift are needed.

Elizabeth Thrift, 11, burned in the fire in which her 16-month-old nephew died, is "improving" in St. Joseph's Hospital and will be needing clothing on her release.

The family has as yet been unable to find a suitable home in Esquimalt. The Thrifts are presently staying with friends. A fund administered by the Bank of Montreal stands at $616.

Plastic Pipes Not Safe Ground

Saanich municipal engineer Neville Life has warned that the waterworks system can no longer be safely used to ground electricity.

Many residents now use the water system to ground the electricity system in their homes.

But Mr. Life said the traditional iron and copper water pipes are being replaced in some places with plastic piping which is not a conductor of electricity.

He said the use of the plastic means that residents should use ground rods and not the water system.

'THROW-AWAY' REFUND INTERESTS KIERNAN

Recreation and Conservation Minister Kenneth Kiernan Wednesday said he will watch with keen interest the outcome of a Washington State bill to require refunds for all "throw-away" beverage bottles.

The cheap new bottles have gone into use for both soft drinks and beer in some areas and Mr. Kiernan last summer appealed to the industry to continue offering a refund so they don't become a litter problem at public beaches and parks.

A bill requiring such a refund has been introduced in the Washington State legislature and Mr. Kiernan plans to observe its results if it becomes law.

Quality Higher In Canary Show

More than 100 entries were received in the eighth Vancouver Island Roller Canary Club show, held in the Fraser Street Hall, Esquimalt.

"Entries were lower than in previous years," said club secretary John Corlett, "but the quality was higher."

William Potter of Vancouver, who judged the entries, said he could not find "one faulty bird."

Mayor Not Worried By Delay of Letter

Mayor Hugh Stephen said Thursday he was not particularly perturbed by the provincial government's delay in making a firm commitment on the proposed Road-Blanchard Urban Renewal Scheme.

Mayor Stephen made the statement in response to a question from Ald. Geoffrey Edgelow at a meeting of the city's finance committee.

"What we are asking from the provincial government is a letter of intent," the mayor said. "Mr. Brown the deputy minister of municipal affairs is away on holiday at present but I am sure the letter will be forthcoming as soon as he returns."

Ald. Edgelow said he asked the question on the government's delay because it seemed to be taking a long time to get official approval for the scheme.

"I am sure the government is all for the scheme," said Mayor Stephen.

"Then there is nothing to worry about?" asked Ald. Edgelow.

Inquiry Rejected

OTTAWA (CP) — The federal government plans no royal commission to study the collapse late last year of the North American General Insurance Co., but will meet insurance officials Jan. 18 to discuss ways to protect the public better. Finance Minister Sharp ruled out the possibility of a commission study in reply to a Commons question Tuesday by David Lewis (NDP—York South).

FIRM FACES CHARGES OVER BRIDGE COLLAPSE

OTTAWA (CP) — Two charges by the city of Ottawa were sworn today against O. J. Gaffney Ltd. of Stratford, Ont., in connection with the Heron Road bridge collapse that took nine lives. Charges were: Failing to brace the structure in a safe manner to withstand all loads likely to be applied to it; and not supplying sufficient bracing and supports to ensure that the project or any part would safely support all loads.

Workers Flock to Peking, Bring Fear of New Clashes

Posters Hail Return of Mao

TOKYO (AP) — A Japanese correspondent reported from Peking today that Chinese workers, including both supporters and opponents of Mao Tse-tung, are pouring into the capital, raising the possibility of violence there.

ARMY SPLIT INDICATED BY ARRESTS

PEKING (AFP) — A number of Chinese army officers—regarded as supporters of the "reactionary bourgeois line"—have been arrested and publicly paraded through the streets with their heads bowed, reliable sources said here today.

These reports, coupled with the official reshuffle of the committee set up to conduct the cultural revolution within the army, indicates that the army is seriously divided at the top.

A correspondent for the newspaper Yomiuri telephoned his paper that more than 1,000,000 workers already had arrived in Peking and more are coming in daily.

"The situation in Peking is fluid and the centre of the storm appears to have shifted from the militant Red Guards to these workers," he said.

"It is certain that the situation in Peking required Mao's return. There is a possibility that the violence which hit Shanghai and other cities will spread to Peking and other cities throughout mainland China."

Japanese newspaper men reported that wall posters in Peking said Mao has returned to Peking to take personal command in his struggle against the faction headed by President Liu Shao-chi.

STRENGTHEN POLICE

The Peking correspondent for the Kyodo news agency said one poster announced that the central committee of the Chinese Communist party had decided to strengthen the powers of the security police.

This report said new measures included arrest for anyone hindering Mao's continuing purge or of hampering production, and the arrest of anyone ridiculing Mao or Defence Minister Lin Biao, Mao's heir apparent and chief associate in the purge.

A correspondent for the newspaper Asahi said he saw angry workers demonstrating in front of the security ministry and calling for the ouster of Security Minister Hsieh Fu-chih. Obviously Liu's followers were arousing the labor movement, which had been his stronghold. An editorial in People's Daily and the party theoretical journal Red Flag denounced "economism"—the search for higher wages and better working conditions—as "a new aspect of the big counter-attack launched by the bourgeois reactionary line on the proletarian revolutionary line."

It added that reactionary elements were inciting workers to stop work.

Fire Destroys 20 N.Y. Homes

NEW YORK (AP) — A 10-alarm fire punctuated by gas explosions roared through an eight-block residential area of Jamaica, Queens, today, destroying 20 homes and lighting the pre-dawn sky with brilliant yellow and orange flames for miles around.

Authorities at the scene said there were no reports of injuries.

Quick precautionary action by firemen and police, who responded to reports of a gas odor in the area and evacuated residents before the fire roared out of control, apparently saved many lives.

Two pieces of fire equipment—a ladder truck and an engine—were reported destroyed in homes.

Nationalist Chinese Claim Two Red Fighters Shot Down

TAIPEI, Formosa (Reuters) — The Nationalist Chinese Air Force today claimed to have shot down two Chinese Communist MIG-19s in a dogfight off Quemoy Island in the Formosa Strait.

The defence ministry said four Nationalist aircraft were on routine patrol in the Formosa Strait northeast of the Nationalist-held island of Quemoy when they were attacked by 12 MIG-19s.

In the ensuing battle, the out-

downed two of the Communist MIGs and the remaining 10 MIGs fled towards the mainland, it said.

The defence ministry's announcement did not disclose the type of Nationalist planes involved in the battle.

Since the Nationalists fled from the mainland in 1949 sporadic air and sea clashes have been reported in the Formosa Strait.

CONTROL COMMISSION PLANS TALKS

NEW DELHI (AFP) — An Indian government spokesman said today the three members of the International Control Commission have agreed to hold talks and diplomatic sources said these might lead to a new peace initiative on Vietnam.

The spokesman said the ICC members—Canada, India, and Poland—agreed to meet "at an appropriate level and suitable place" at a "mutually acceptable and convenient time."

Reliable unofficial sources said the talks would be held here.

WINNIPEG (CP) — Two veterans of the Dieppe raid are in favor of permitting German war veterans to participate in a 25th anniversary ceremony.

It was reported today that the Canadian government has been asked to give its opinion whether 100 German veterans should be permitted to take part in the Aug. 19 ceremony. (See earlier story Page 3.)

It will take place in the Canadian cemetery at Dieppe and will include hundreds of Canadian veterans of the assault by 5,000 men of the Canadian 2nd Division.

Alec Graham, pipe major of the Queens Own Cameron Highlanders, said in an interview he thought the hatchets had been buried long ago.

"All that happened during the old order of Hitler and the Nazis. I thought we got rid of them... we should act accordingly."

Hugh Comack, who was a signaller for the highlanders at Dieppe, said it is time past differences were forgotten.

"We should be big enough to look back and forget. They have people buried there too," he said.

OFFICER'S VIEW ON UNITY TO DETERMINE PROMOTION

By DAVE MCINTOSH

OTTAWA (CP) — Canadian Forces headquarters has issued orders which indicate that an officer's views on service unification may play a part in his appointments and promotions.

Confidential reports are made annually on each officer in the services by a superior officer. This has long been a standard practice, as in the business world.

These "performance evaluation reports" are written on a standard form known as CF255. Last September an order went out from headquarters amending CF255. Part of this order reads:

"You will appreciate the need to assess the tri-service potential of all officers. Accordingly a sub-para C has been added to para 18 entitled employment—suitability for employment outside of their normal service environment in which the assessor will record his opinion of the assessee's potential for employment in integrated position."

FAST PROMOTION COVERED

Another order dealt with the new provision for fast promotion of officers of exceptional ability.

The order says in part:

"All recommendations in this category must be accompanied by a covering letter setting out in complete detail the reasons why the individual is considered to deserve such rapid and extraordinary promotion and why it is in the interest of the unified force to do so."

A bill to unify the armed forces into a single service has not yet cleared second reading approval in principle—in the Commons.

The latter order also says: "Because officers promoted in this category must have truly exceptional qualities, the most extreme care possible will be taken in selection procedures. The unit commander, base commander, area or formation commander, chief of personnel, and finally the chief of defence staff must all agree and the chief of the defence staff personally will be the final approving authority."

"This policy will apply only to those officers who have clearly demonstrated truly exceptional intelligence, ability and potential."

"Statistical evidence indicates that personnel in this exceptional category constitute less than one per cent of any group."

CHAIRMAN STALKS OUT OF COMMISSION MEETING

Campbell Refused Police Report

VANCOUVER (CP) — Mayor Tom Campbell walked out of a Vancouver police commission meeting Thursday when he was refused a copy of a controversial police report covering alleged criminal activities by members of the police department.

The report was made in June, 1965, by Vancouver lawyer George Murray at the request of former mayor William Rathie. It followed a $1,200,000 money robbery at a downtown warehouse and a string of bank robberies in which police officers were believed to have been involved.

One constable thought to have been involved in the criminal activities, Leonard Hogue, died in an apparent murder-suicide that also claimed the lives of his wife and six children.

Mayor Campbell's actions Thursday were the latest development in his 18-month fight to have Mr. Murray's report released to the public.

As an alderman on city council last year, he urged Mayor Rathie and Attorney-General Bonner to make the report a part of the public record.

Mr. Murray urged him not to, and claimed the report could be damaging to police force morale and possibly libellous to some members of the force. The lawyer said he did not prepare the report for public consumption.

'Bombing Must Stop'

ROME (Reuters) — Three West German clergymen who returned here from Hanoi said today that President Ho Chi Minh of North Vietnam continued to insist that U.S. bombing of North Vietnam must stop before peace talks could begin.

The mission, which flew to Rome Thursday night from Hong Kong, included Pastor Martin Niemoller, First World War U-boat commander who became world famous for his opposition to Hitler.

As things get straightened out in China the situation'll just be confused, instead of hopelessly muddled.

Arthur Mayse

There are in this city as in every other, young people by the score and the hundred who find themselves torn miserably between love for their parents, and contrary emotions which they may shrink from attempting to define.

These are impatience, anger and revulsion; and in the same day, or even hour, a boy or girl can be scorched by all three.

Then, in the aftermath of some blazing family row, love returns, bringing with it some very painful rendings of conscience.

This seesaw of emotions does not make for happiness; a state, by the way, upon which our culture places far too much importance.

There are, of course, those who remain perfectly at ease within the family preserve. But the approximately normal person in the middle and late teens functions more freely, more effectively, and — if you insist — more happily when he has placed distance between himself and his parents.

★ This is no startling new manifestation of young orpiness. The trouble is, we tend to forget how it was with us at these ages.

They represent the breaking-away years in which the one whom the mother and father must regard as still a child is straining toward his or her image of adulthood.

So you have the boy of 18 who heckles and pesters and finally declares flatly that he means to hitch-hike to Expo or work his way to Australia, and the girl who rakes her mother's heart by proclaiming that on her 19th birthday, she means to move into her very own apartment.

So the lists are set, the gauntlet cast, and the family that used to be so happy when the children were small is once again embroiled.

Witness the child-turned-stranger, glowering lynx-eyed at bewildered Mom and Dad, who in her eyes actually enjoy thwarting her on every occasion.

Love, battered but durable, will return in due time. But for the moment, it's war.

There are, of course, parents whose young achieve their transitions with no visible stresses and strains. I haven't met or heard about many of these; but they do exist.

I suggest, though, that you accept with reservations the maternal claim that Jack, or Jill, "never gives us a moment's worry."

More common in my experience are the young hawks who, long before they reach their majority, are straining after a freedom more wide than their anxious elders are willing to allow them.

★ I believe there would be much less heart-burning on both sides if this failure to agree upon practically anything you care to mention were recognized by both parties for what it is.

This is a phase of growing up — the latest in the series of necessary steps which the child must take away from the parent.

If you are the latter, it is easy to delude yourself into a conviction that the boy growing so fast toward manhood has lost all affection for you. Not so! But it is a different sort of love, and it calls for a different response than that of parent to pre-adolescent child.

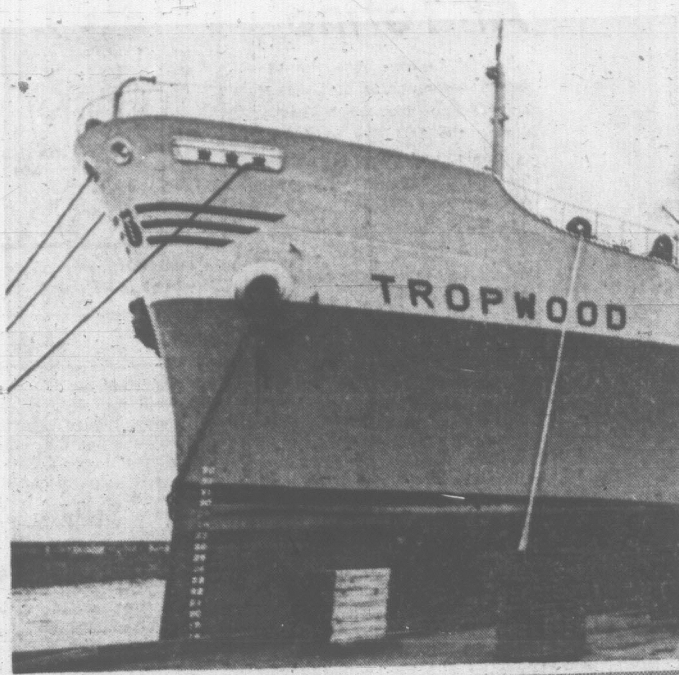

This is the realization — and believe me, it hurts — that you the parents have now been relegated to the background of a daughter's life or a son's.

And there, if your own love is unselfish, you will require yourselves to stay. To cling, to dominate unreasonably, to insist upon shared confidences can only damage a relationship which has changed and will keep on changing.

This is a hard doctrine, both to accept and to follow. But parents who refuse to risk the ultimate loss of the very love they yearn to keep.

I have a word too for some 17-year-old who an hour ago told her father and mother she hated them, and is now probably in remorseful imagination sprinkling her tears over the coffins in which they lie toes-up.

If they are parents worth loving they know you are not a demon-child but merely an adolescent, and you are already forgiven.

Booms Out, Hoists In On Ship-and-a-Half

From the bow it looks like any other ship. But from the stern it's a different story. Unlike most lumber carriers, the 16,239-ton Tropwood has done away with the familiar booms.

In their place are two automatic side-loading hoists. The hoists, while looking cumbersome, cut in half the amount of time taken to load the vessel.

Just over a year old, the Tropwood tied up at Ogden Point for the first time today to load three million board feet for the eastern U.S.

First of her kind in the world, the Liberian-registered freighter does away with the need for the usual number of men on deck to supervise loading.

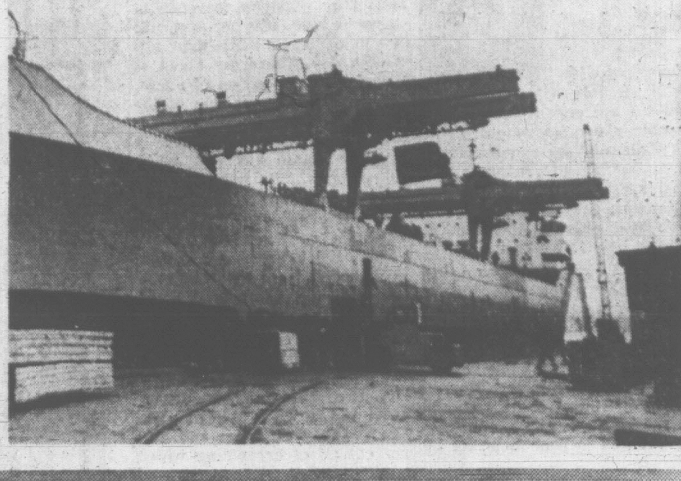

Instead, all they have to do is deposit the lumber on the docks and the hoist takes over.

The giant hoists travel up and down the 600-foot deck along railway tracks.

While one lot of lumber is being loaded from the dock, another batch can be lifted from floating barges on the other side.

Although a newcomer to Ogden Point, the Tropwood put into local waters once before when she visited Esquimalt for minor repairs.

Part of her present cargo was loaded in Squamish and the load will be topped off at other Vancouver Island ports.

BUT BISHOP SERIOUS

'New Direction' Hard to Believe

By DESMOND BILL

Bishop Remi J. De Roo leaned forward in his chair and spoke quietly.

"If I name the steering committee you know what will happen," he told the priests.

"We can talk all we like about a free election but our people will think it is only talk. They'll think I am really keeping control."

One of the priests in the room looked up, slightly startled. He is still not used to hearing a Catholic bishop talk like that.

Nor are a lot of other Catholics on Vancouver Island. They still can't quite believe that Bishop De Roo is really serious about giving the laity a voice in the church.

But the bishop represents the new direction of the Catholic Church towards more involvement of the laity and less direction from high church authority.

HE MEANS IT

And his chairing of a meeting of the diocesan senate Thursday afternoon showed he means what he says.

There was a lack of formality for one thing. The bishop called priests by their first names, not "Father." And they called him "Bishop" not "Your Excellency," the traditional way of addressing a bishop.

The meeting was held in the living room of the bishop's home in Gordon Head. It got hot after a while and the priests quickly took off their collars and black vests and sat in their shirtsleeves.

UNPRECEDENTED

These surface impressions were indicative of more important things. The senate meeting was unprecedented for two reasons.

It was the first time in Canada, and perhaps in the world, that a senate meeting has been open to the press.

Death In Fire Of Elderly Man Ruled 'Accident'

An elderly recluse found dead in the ashes of his isolated home New Year's Day died by accident, Coroner Edmund St. John ruled today.

He said an inquiry showed no blame in the fire death of Louis Olsen, about 80, who lived by himself in a frame house he had built on Kangaroo Road.

His official investigation had not uncovered the cause of the fire, said the coroner. The house had been reduced to just smouldering embers by the time a passerby spotted it early New Year's Day.

FORMERLY OF SAANICH

Ill-Fated Youngster Drowns in P. Rupert

Four-year-old Brent Bell was plagued from the day he was born.

Since birth he had undergone 14 operations for an ear complaint. But his hearing was still impaired.

Three weeks ago, his parents decided to make a new life for themselves in Prince Rupert.

On Wednesday while the family was still settling in their new apartment, Brent drowned not far from home.

The boy's mother, Mrs. Ann Bell, formerly of 374 Davida, Saanich, told today of Brent's ill-fated life.

14 OPERATIONS

"He was plagued from the start," said the former health spa instructor.

And the senate itself has more influence than any other diocesan senate in North America. Bishop De Roo has promised his priest that from now on he will govern "by consensus" of the senate rather than by directives of his own making.

LAY COUNCIL

Most of the senate discussion Thursday was taken up with the formation of a diocesan council of lay persons. The council will be freely elected by Catholics on Vancouver Island to advise the bishop on all pastoral matters.

Its constitution has been drafted by laymen but has to be finally adopted before elections take place.

The bishop did not want to name a committee to do this job, and to organize elections, in case it looked as if he was trying to control both matters.

But he finally agreed to set up a committee to work on the constitution provided it is clear that this group is not to be a "steering committee" or anything like it.

Other matters on the agenda were applications from parishes for approval of developments and buildings and plans for a liturgical conference to be held later this year.

In a previous session the senate discussed relations between the Roman Catholic Church and the Council of Churches.

Ganges Man Voted Chief By Surveyors

A. W. Wolfe-Milner of Ganges, Saltspring Island, today was elected president of the Corporation of B.C. Land Surveyors at its annual convention in the Empress Hotel.

D. G. Whyte of Kamloops was elected vice-president. E. R. (Ernie) McMillan, Victoria; Adam A. Burhoe and William Robinson of Vancouver were elected to the board of management.

Ex-officio members of the board are B.C. Surveyor-General Gerald S. Andrews and past-president A. T. Holmes of Vancouver.

Rex Hughes of Victoria was re-elected secretary-treasurer and registrar.

More than 120 surveyors and their wives from many parts of the province are attending the annual convention, which is held every second year in Victoria.

The convention concludes with a dinner-dance in the Empress ballroom tonight. Guests will include representatives of the attorney-general's department and the lands and highways department.

Impaired Driver Jailed Six Weeks

Frank Charles Woods, 48, of 1256 Oliver St., was jailed for six weeks today when he pleaded guilty in traffic court to impaired driving.

Magistrate Byers imposed the jail term even though prosecutor John MacIntyre suggested it was not necessary.

The Crown alleged but did not present evidence proving it was Mr. Wood's second conviction for impaired driving.

The charge arose from an accident in the 2000 block Central Avenue Dec. 10 when Mr. Wood's car went out of control, ran across the sidewalk, over a small tree and into a flower bed.

Roger Cyr, 20, of HMCS Yukon, was fined $400 when he appeared in criminal court and pleaded guilty to impaired driving.

He was arrested Thursday night after his auto clipped an oncoming car on the Old Island Highway, causing about $600 damage.

Police said they had four witnesses who reported Cyr was on the wrong side of the road at the time. There was no injuries in the crash.

"This is how people get killed, you know," Magistrate Oster told Cyr in fining him and suspending his driving privileges.

Combos Take On League Leaders

Armed Forces Combos and Tudor Monarchs, deadlocked for second place in the Esquimalt and District Hockey League standings, pick on different rivals in an effort to move up the ladder tonight.

Combos' route seems toughest. They play first-place University Vikings at 7:45 while Tudors tackle last-place Stockers at 9:15 p.m.

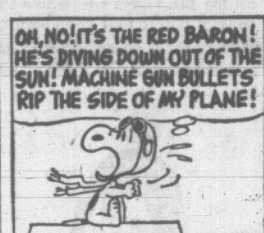

Princess Alexandra Coming Here After Opening Big Trade Fair

Princess Alexandra of Kent and her husband, Angus Ogilvy, will visit Victoria between May 18 and 21, it was learned today.

They have accepted an invitation from Lieutenant Governor and Mrs. George Pearkes to stay at Government House, a spokesman said.

A state dinner is planned and a program of local appearances is being drawn up by the provincial centennial committee.

The princess will open the British Columbia International

ARMED GUARDS EVERYWHERE WHEN CITY BANK MAKES MOVE

Tight security arrangements including armed guards, police, commissionaires and bank staff will shroud a February move by one of Victoria's busiest bank branches.

The Royal Bank at Fort and Cook shifts to temporary quarters on Fort just west of Cook in the early part of the month, where it will stay during construction of a new building on the old site.

A $250,000 two-storey building will rise where the existing branch stands, for which tenders will be called early next month.

New Safety Rule For Ski Lifts

Employees of the province's two sightseeing cable cars and 37 ski lifts will have to take the first run each day from now on to make sure they're safe for passengers.

B.C. became the first province to adopt a proposed uniform code for ensuring safety on aerial tramways through a provincial cabinet order this morning. The code is expected to be adopted by all provinces and the federal government.

TWO-YEAR STUDY

It was drafted by a two-year, 45-man study involving government representatives, industry and designers headed by the B.C. commercial transport department's chief engineer, Robert Swanson.

Deputy minister A. J. Bowering said the province moved quickly in making the draft code a part of the B.C. Railway Act regulations, because it wants to be sure the new safety specifications are included in the current ski-lift construction boom.

CO-OPERATION

"Industry also is co-operating in updating their existing equipment to meet these specifications," he said.

Five of the ski lifts and tow ropes are on Vancouver Island — one T-bar lift and one tow rope at Green Mountain Ski Club near Ladysmith and two T-bar lifts and one tow rope at Mt. Becher Ski Club near Courtenay.

PASSENGER SAFETY

Under the new regulations, the operators are made entirely responsible for meeting specifications and the safety of passengers.

The operators must make daily inspections and keep a log, paying particular attention to ropes, wires, chair attachments, brakes and platforms.

"At the beginning of each working day, or after repairs have been made, an employee of the company shall be required to ride over the entire aerial tramway to make an inspection and to see that it is in safe and proper working condition, before any passengers are carried," the regulations demand.

The regulations also require that each tramway have on hand stretchers, blankets and first-aid equipment as well as a stretcher-carrier that can be used to transport injured.

The new regulations come into effect only a week after the Grouse Mountain ski lift went back into operation — using its specifications — following an enquiry and re-equipping forced by an accident last spring.

A cable car plumed wildly March 21, injuring 10 persons, when a brake failed.

Ask The Times

Q. What is the Victoria Dart Club?—F.D.

A. Dart Club is a Chinese men's service club, affiliated with Chinese Freemasons.

Q. What are the differences between field lacrosse and the game played indoors?—E.F.

A. Field lacrosse is played on a ground 110 yards long by 60 yards wide, has teams of 10 players each and uses longer sticks than those used in "box" lacrosse.

In "box" lacrosse which can be played outdoors in hockey rinks of the appropriate size, as well as in arenas, there are only six players to a team.

Phoney Gun Recognized By Victim

Two brothers who tried hold up a middle-aged man at a bus stop Thursday night were nabbed by Esquimalt police within minutes.

The robbery bid failed when their victim ignored the hammer handle they brandished as a pistol and fled yelling.

Mervin Deyotte, 25, and his brother, Ronald, 29, both of 701 Connah's St., pleaded guilty to attempted robbery when they appeared in central court this morning. They were to be sentenced later in the day.

WAITING FOR BUS

City police said they approached Adam Schulz of 1077 Davie St. about 11:30 p.m. as he was waiting for a bus on Craigflower Road near Raynor.

The pair walked past Schulz and then returned to ask him when his bus would be along.

When he told them "very soon," Mervin hauled a black-handle hammer from his belt and pointing the hammer as though it were a pistol tried to hold him up.

Mr. Schulz fled to the nearby Victoria West Bakery at 413 Craigflower where staff phoned the police.

Esquimalt and city police converged on the area and the brothers were picked by constable Herbert Weatherall about two blocks from the scene.

ADMISSION

Questioned by city police later, they admitted intending to taking any money Mr. Schulz had.

Mervin has a previous conviction for a break-in and theft, court was told this morning.

Ronald's criminal record includes convictions for theft, offences under the Unemployment Insurance Act, causing a disturbance by fighting and assault.

Driver Located After Puppy Killed by Car

Saanich police Thursday night interviewed the driver of a car involved in an accident Wednesday morning which resulted in a puppy bleeding to death.

The six-month-old spaniel, "Bob," lay on the front lawn of the Williams family at 4487 Majestic Drive with its chest sliced open for almost an hour before its injury was spotted.

It died in Mr. Williams' car as he was rushing to a veterinarian. The animal doctor said immediate attention would have saved Bob's life.

Two children told police the puppy was mortally injured when a hubcap flew off a car and hit him. The youngsters said the driver stopped long enough to retrieve the hubcap and then drove off.

Officers said today the case is still under investigation.

Pedestrian Hurt In Car Mishap

A woman was treated for abrasions to her knee at St. Joseph's Hospital this morning after a car-pedestrian accident at Belleville and Government Streets.

City police said Lilly Johnny 38, of 849 North Park, was injured when hit as she crossed Government Street at the intersection.

Driver of the car was identified as Adelard Gervais but his address was not immediately available.

A GOLDEN lion for a golden anniversary as Education Minister Leslie Peterson is presented with a golden book end by Jack Tang, right, past zone chairman, District 19, International Association of Lions Clubs. Mr. Peterson signed a proclamation this morning honoring the more-than 4,000 Lions representing

FIRM FACES CHARGES OVER BRIDGE COLLAPSE

OTTAWA (CP) — Two charges by the city of Ottawa were sworn today against O. J. Gaffney Ltd. of Stratford, Ont., in connection with the Heron Road bridge collapse that took nine lives. Workers Flock to Peking, Bring Fear of New Clashes

Posters Hail Return of Mao

TOKYO (AP) — A Japanese correspondent reported from Peking today that Chinese workers, including both supporters and opponents of Mao Tse-tung, are pouring into the capital, raising the possibility of violence there.

ARMY SPLIT INDICATED BY ARRESTS

PEKING (AP) — A number of Chinese army officers—regarded as supporters of the "reactionary bourgeois line"—have been arrested and publicly paraded through the streets with their heads bowed, reliable sources said here today.

These reports, coupled with the official reshuffle of the committee set up to conduct the cultural revolution within the army, indicates that the army is seriously divided at the top.

A correspondent for the newspaper Yomiuri telephoned his paper that more than 1,000,000 workers already had arrived in Peking and more are coming in daily.

"The situation in Peking is fluid and the centre of the storm appears to have shifted from the militant Red Guards to these workers," he said.

"It is certain that the situation in Peking required Mao's return. There is a possibility that the violence which hit Shanghai and other cities will spread to Peking and other cities throughout mainland China."

Japanese newspaper men reported that wall posters in Peking said Mao has returned to Peking to take personal command in his struggle against the faction headed by President Liu Shao-chi.

Three Killed, One Survives Plane Crash

DRYDEN, Ont. (CP) — A Canadian National Railways construction crew today found three men dead and a fourth injured in the wreckage of a plane on a northwestern Ontario spur line.

The Cessna 180 aircraft had been reported overdue Thursday on a 175-mile flight from Wabigoon Lake to Winnipeg.

Police identified the dead as pilot Emmett C. Hopfner, 43, of St. James; Gary Kleysen of Charleswood, and Nelson Cloutier of Transcona, all communists in Greater Winnipeg.

Lloyd Hostland of Winnipeg was reported in satisfactory condition in hospital with broken ribs and frostbite.

Dam Pact 'Helps Everyone'

Announcement that the U.S. will quadruple the Grand Coulee Dam today was cited as further proof the Columbia River treaty was a good deal for everyone by Resources Minister Ray Wiliston.

He was commenting on U.S. Interior Secretary Stewart Udall's statement in Washington this morning that the capacity of the dam is to be raised from 2 million kilowatts to 9.2 million over the next 20 years to make it the biggest in the world.

He said the boost would be made to take advantage of water storage in B.C. created by the international treaty.

The extra hydro power will be used to meet peak load periods in the Pacific Northwest as nuclear and thermal-generation plants gradually take over the job of providing the basic power needs, he said.

This hydro power will be produced at slightly more than half a mill — 32 mills — according to Bonneville power administrator David Black. (B.C. took cash in lieu of power — on a formula equivalent to five mills — as its share of the downstream benefits under the Columbia treaty.)

CONTROL COMMISSION PLANS TALKS

NEW DELHI (AFP) — An Indian government spokesman said today the three members of the International Control Commission have agreed to hold talks and diplomatic sources said these might lead to a new peace initiative on Vietnam.

The spokesman said the ICC members—Canada, India and Poland—agreed to meet "at an appropriate level and suitable place" at a "mutually acceptable and convenient time."

Reliable unofficial sources said the talks would be held here.

WINNIPEG (CP) — Two veterans of the the Dieppe raid are in favor of permitting German war veterans to participate in a 25th anniversary ceremony.

It was reported today that the Canadian government has been asked to give its opinion whether 100 German veterans should be permitted to take part in the Aug. 19 ceremony. (See earlier story Page 3.)

It will take place in the Canadian cemetery at Dieppe and will include hundreds of Canadian veterans of the assault by 5,000 men of the Canadian 2nd Division.

Alec Graham, pipe major of the Queens Own Cameron Highlanders, said in an interview he thought the hatchets had been buried long ago.

"All that happened during the old order of Hitler and the Nazis. I thought we got rid of them... we should act accordingly."

Hugh Comack, who was a signaller for the highlanders at Dieppe, said it is time past differences were forgotten.

"We should be big enough to look back and forget. They have people buried there too," he said.

OFFICER'S VIEW ON UNITY TO DETERMINE PROMOTION

By DAVE MCINTOSH

OTTAWA (CP) — Canadian Forces headquarters has issued orders which indicate that an officer's views on service unity may play a part in his appointments and promotions.

Confidential reports are made annually on each officer in the services by a superior officer. This has long been a standard practice, as in the business world.

These "performance evaluation reports" are written on a standard form known as CF255. Last September an order went out from headquarters amending CF255. Part of this order reads:

"You will appreciate the need to assess the tri-service potential of all officers. Accordingly a sub-para C has been added to para 18 entitled employment—suitability for employment outside of their normal service environment—in which the assessor will record his opinion of the assessee's potential for employment in integrated position."

FAST PROMOTION COVERED
Another order dealt with the new provision for fast promotion of officers of exceptional ability.

The order says in part: "All recommendations in this category must be accompanied by a covering letter setting out in complete detail the reasons why the individual is considered to deserve such rapid and extraordinary promotion and why it is in the interest of the unified force to do so."

A bill to unify the armed forces into a single service has not yet cleared second reading—approval in principle—in the Commons.

The latter order also says: "Because officers promoted in this category must have truly exceptional qualities, the most extreme care possible will be taken in selection procedures. The unit commander, base commander, area or formation commander, chief of personnel, and finally the chief of defence staff must all agree and the chief of the defence staff personally will be the final approving authority."

"This policy will apply only to those officers who have clearly demonstrated truly exceptional intelligence, ability and potential."

"Statistical evidence indicates that personnel in this exceptional category constitute less than one per cent of any group."

CHAIRMAN STALKS OUT OF COMMISSION MEETING

Campbell Refused Police Report

VANCOUVER (CP) — Mayor Tom Campbell walked out of a Vancouver police commission meeting Thursday when he was refused a copy of a controversial police report covering alleged criminal activities by members of the police department.

The report was made in June, 1965, by Vancouver lawyer George Murray at the request of former mayor William Rathie. It followed a $1,200,000 robbery at a downtown warehouse and a string of bank robberies in which police officers were believed to have been involved.

One constable thought to have been involved in the criminal activities, Leonard Hogue, died in an apparent murder-suicide that also claimed the lives of his wife and six children.

Mayor Campbell's actions Thursday were the latest development in his 18-month fight to have Mr. Murray's report released to the public.

As an alderman on city council last year, he urged Mayor Rathie and Attorney General Bonner to make the report a part of the public record.

Mr. Murray urged him not to and claimed the report could be damaging to police force morale and possibly libellous to some members of the force. The lawyer said he did not prepare the report for public consumption.

When Mr. Campbell left the police commission meeting, he

'Bombing Must Stop'

ROME (Reuters) — Three West German clergymen who returned here from Hanoi said today that President Ho Chi Minh of North Vietnam continued to insist that U.S. bombing of North Vietnam must stop before peace talks could begin.

The mission, which flew from Hong Kong, included Pastor Martin Niemöller, First World War U-boat commander who became world famous for his opposition to Hitler.

Fire Destroys 20 N.Y. Homes

NEW YORK (AP) — A 10-alarm fire punctuated by gas explosions roared through an eight-block residential area of Jamaica, Queens, today, destroying 20 homes and lighting the pre-dawn sky with brilliant yellow and orange flames for miles around.

Authorities at the scene said there were no reports of injuries.

Quick precautionary action by firemen and police, who responded to reports of a gas odor in the area and evacuated residents before the fire roared out of control, apparently saved many lives.

Two pieces of fire equipment—a ladder truck and an engine—were reported destroyed in the fire when they stalled and firemen had to abandon them.

The destroyed buildings were mainly one and two-family wooden frame homes.

By 8 a.m., the dense, black smoke that had shot hundreds of feet into the air was gone. Flames spurring out of the gas main shot about 200 feet into the air.

"If we did extinguish the flames now we would have free flowing gas in the area," said Fire Commissioner Robert O. Lowery. "We're just wetting buildings down to prevent the spread of the fire."

Police estimated that they got 100 persons safely out of their homes.

Nationalist Chinese Claim Two Red Fighters Shot Down

TAIPEI, Formosa (Reuters)

—The Nationalist Chinese Air Force today claimed to have shot down two Chinese Communist MIG-19s in a dogfight off Quemoy Island in the Formosa Strait.

The defence ministry said Nationalist jet fighters involved in a dogfight with 12 MIG-19s suffered no loss and returned to base safely.

The air battle was the first reported clash between Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek's forces on Formosa and the Communists since the current leadership struggle in Peking began.

The defence ministry said four Nationalist aircraft were on routine patrol in the Formosa Strait northeast of the Nationalist-held island of Quemoy when they were attacked by 12 MIG-19s.

'No Possible Chance' For Breakaway Move

ISLAND DIGEST

Funeral Saturday For Angler

Funeral services will be held in Hayward's Chapel, Victoria, Saturday at 1:30 p.m. for Arthur Bray (Tim) Neville, a former resident of Duncan and Nanaimo. Cremation will follow. Mr. Neville died in St. Joseph's Hospital Wednesday at the age of 46 after being taken ill at his home at 1194 Cloverly Terrace, Victoria.

Well-known in sport fishing circles, Mr. Neville was employed by Wilson and Lenfesty, Ltd., wholesale sporting goods, 1219 Wharf Street.

BORN IN DERBY
"Born at Derby, England, he came to British Columbia in 1937 and lived at Duncan and Nanaimo before taking up residence in Victoria five years ago."

He served with the Royal Air Force during the Second World War and was a member of Harrington Masonic Lodge, Long Eaton, England.

Mr. Neville is survived by the widow, Audrey, a son, John, and a daughter, Lynn Rachael, at home.

Chamber, Lions Clash Over Christmas Ship

GANGES — The local Chamber of Commerce has been criticized for failing to make proper arrangements for Bellingham Jaycees Christmas ship when it arrived here.

Taking the chamber to task was Salt Spring Lions Club which delivered the rebuke in the form of a letter.

The Lions Club said space had not been cleared to allow the Christmas ship to dock and no chamber members welcomed the ship.

In reply, Christmas ship committee chairman T. W. Portlock said he was on hand himself to welcome the ship.

He had asked for a space to

CHEMAINUS — An attempt by Chemainus to break away from Ladysmith school district has "no possible chance," school board chairman Beatty Davis said today.

He was referring to a motion asking trustees to find space for senior high school students in the neighboring districts of Cowichan and Nanaimo.

FEE BASIS

Mr. White said: "I want adequate facilities for Grade 11 and 12 students who now attend high school at Chemainus and Ladysmith."

"We should ask for accommodation, on a fee basis, from Nanaimo and Cowichan. The situation on both Ladysmith and Chemainus schools is desperate and something must be done quickly."

"It is unlikely secondary education facilities and equipment can now be provided in time for the next school term."

Mr. Davis replied: "While Mr. White's motion will be placed before the board I do not think there is any possible chance of it going through."

"If we get approved referendum which will be forthcoming within six weeks, we will be able to provide adequate facilities without going outside our own district."

A referendum for joint senior and elementary school expansion was defeated in November, 1965. A subsequent referendum, dealing only with elementary accommodation, passed easily in May last year.

Asked about the new referendum chances, Mr. Davis said: "I feel people are much more aware now of the urgent need and the referendum has a better chance of succeeding."

He admitted the situation at both senior high schools is serious from an overcrowding and academic point of view because of lack of accommodation and facilities.

CONSOLIDATION

Mr. White said Thursday: "It is apparent to me the operation of a small district is extremely expensive and there is a good case for consolidation of part of this district with Cowichan and part with Nanaimo to give the best possible education to all students and reduce the financial burden on the taxpayers."

He was supported by Stafford Andrews, president of Chemainus Chamber of Commerce.

Mr. Andrews said: "Chemainus would be better served by transferring to the Cowichan district. It would be a more logical way to use our taxes."

"Under the present method $1 goes to the south for municipal purposes (Chemainus is in North Cowichan) and $2 goes north for school purposes."

The November, 1965, referendum was defeated in Chemainus, "The Islands and Saltair because it proposed the consolidation of senior secondary students at Ladysmith, Chemainus continuing only as a junior high."

A subsequent brief compiled by Chemainus Ratepayers' Association suggested both senior high schools be developed.

The brief stated: "It will be at least five to eight years before it would be practical to centralize the senior high classes of this district."

Mr. White said an official of the department of education has said costs for both senior secondary schools would be shareable.

However, the school board "threw out" the idea of joint development.

Quick Start On New Hall

COMOX — Work will begin immediately on construction of this community's centennial project. Tenders for the single-story recreation hall have been let to Guran Construction Ltd., New Westminster. Cost will be $47,742.

The building, situated between Robb Road and Noel Avenue, should be completed by May.

PENSIONER SUFFERS EXPOSURE

COURTENAY — An intensive search ended in the early hours of today when 80-year-old Arthur Freeze was found only a half mile from his Royston home.

The pensioner was discovered sitting on the E & N railway tracks by an RCAF tracker dog.

He apparently got lost after leaving his home at 8 p.m. for a short walk.

His wife reported him missing three hours later. Dressed only in a suit and shirt, he was suffering from exposure. Both he and his wife had to be taken to hospital after his wife collapsed. They were in satisfactory condition.

SANDS
... the Man from Atlin.

Meet 'Mr. Everything' ... Government Agent

By DON DINGWALL

DUNCAN — Mention the word "agent" today and most people think of James Bond. Few would bring the name Lyman Sands to mind.

Yet Ian Fleming's talented creation probably could not contend with the variety of tasks which confronted Lyman Sands as government agent at Atlin.

In the isolated settlement 1,000 miles north of Vancouver he was the modern equivalent of Gilbert and Sullivan's Lord High Everything Else.

He was coroner, magistrate, registrar, marriage commissioner, judge of the small debt court ... you name it, he was it.

As government agent, Mr.

Sands held 26 different appointments.

Now a government agent in Duncan, he finds it a complete change of pace.

Almost any of the 42 government agent posts in the province would be a change from Atlin.

Thirty miles from the Yukon border the tiny settlement is still without indoor plumbing and running water.

The entire water supply has to be trucked from Atlin Lake.

As a boy, Mr. Sands remembers an old English remittance man hauling the water by dog team and sleigh in the winter and by horse and wagon in summer.

The water supply is run as a private commercial concern and the cost is $1 per 45-gallon barrel.

A serious disadvantage is the lack of educational facilities. A student can be taken to Grade 8 but after that is left to the more demanding path of correspondence courses.

Mr. Sands finished high school by correspondence, and subsequently at Fairbanks, Alaska.

He sees no prospect of the area being opened up industrially in the near future.

The country is highly mineralized but, no specific concentrations have yet been discovered, and when they are there will still be the problem of economic transportation.

Atlin is a beautiful place, and the climate, far from being all bad.

Winter starts Nov. 1 and Atlin Lake (largest in B.C.) is frozen over until late May. But summer temperatures soar to 85 and 90.

Referring back to his days as the settlement's general factotum and in particular to being local magistrate at 22 years of age he says: "Most people took it good naturedly."

"I could fine a man in the morning and have a drink with him later."

Despite B.C.'s dynamic growth, government agents in the province are not a dying breed.

Of the 42, though, the man from Atlin has the most unique job.

The majority are more like Duncan where Mr. Sands handles large sums of money from land and school taxes on unorganized territory, motor vehicle and game licences, and is registrar of the supreme and county courts.

Field Trip to Park

The younger section of the Junior branch of the Victoria Natural History Society will meet on Saturday, at 1:00 p.m., at Douglas-Hillside for a field trip to Goldstream Park campsite.

Paul Bunyan stories will flow by the score when more than 900 forest industry veterans gather at a series of reunion dinners on Vancouver Island and the mainland during the next month.

The reunions will involve members of MacMillan Bloedel Ltd.'s 25-Year Club, employees who have completed more than 25 years of service with the company.

The members include loggers, salesmen, papermakers, sawyers and virtually every skill employed in the forest products industry.

The reunions will be held in Powell River, Alberni, Nanaimo, Vancouver and Winnipeg. Because of the large number of employees involved two reunion dinners will be held both at Powell River and Vancouver.

OVER 1,000

Some 929 employees have completed more than 25 years of service, and this figure will increase to 1,093 when another 164 are initiated into the club this year.

When all categories of employees—including those retired—are taken into account, a grand total of 1,639 have completed 25 years continuous service of more.

ALBERNI — A preliminary budget of $231,270 has been drafted for Alberni-Clayoquot regional district.

The 10 separate communities must each approve their share and decide how to raise the money.

Let off lightest will be the Tofino-Ucluelet area which is not part of the hospital district.

Residents will pay only about half a mill as their share of financing district operations.

Elsewhere the rate will be around three mills.

Hospital surveys within the district will take $188,020.

10 WEST COAST AREAS

$231,270 Budget for Region

ALBERNI — A preliminary regional planning $33,250, and general administration $8,000.

Only $2,000 has been laid aside to combat air pollution, one of the major problems in the area—but this is merely a precautionary sum since costs of pollution control are met by the provincial government.

Helping out with the money will be a $3,000 administration grant from the provincial government, a $5,000 planning grant and around $3,000 which should be realized from sale of building permits.

Part of the money put aside for regional planning will go toward hiring a regional planner.

Port Alberni has seven votes on the 10-member board, Alberni two and the other communities one vote apiece.

The board's next meeting will be Jan. 25.

New Home Recipe Reducing Plan

It's simple how quickly one may lose pounds of unsightly fat right in your own home. Make this home recipe yourself. It's easy, no trouble at all and costs little. Just go to your drug store and ask for four ounces of Naran Concentrate. Pour this into a pint bottle and add enough grapefruit juice to fill the bottle. Take two tablespoons full a day as needed and follow the Naran Plan.

If your first purchase does not show you a simple easy way to lose bulky fat and help regain slender more graceful curves; if reducible pounds and inches of excess fat don't disappear from neck, chin, arms, abdomen, hips, calves and ankles just return the empty bottle for your money back. Follow this easy way endorsed by many who have tried this plan and help bring back alluring curves and graceful slenderness. Note how quickly bloat disappears—how much better you feel. More alive, youthful appearing and active.

Wider Mountain Road Asked

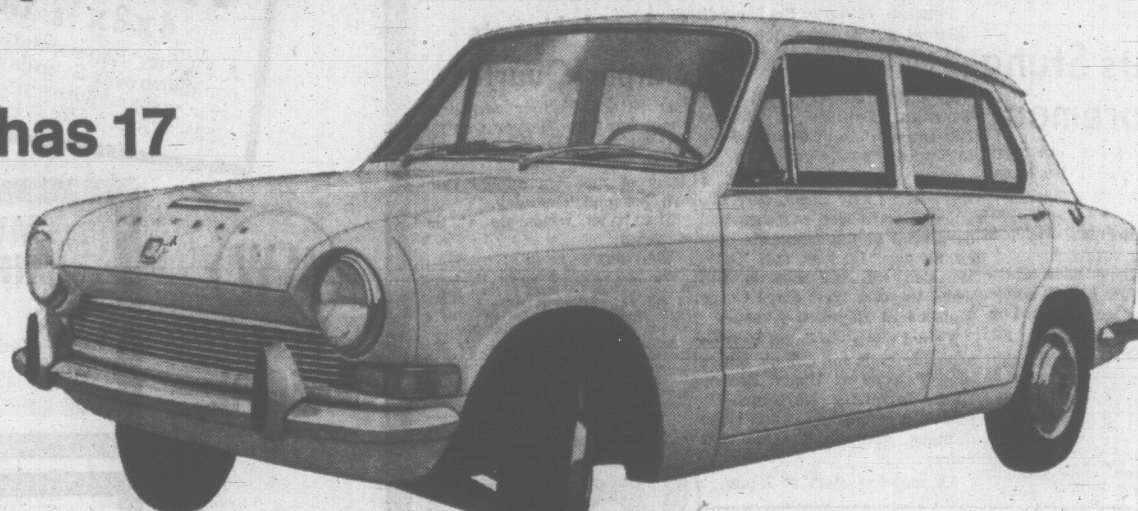

GANGES — Garageman Andy Johnson has asked the local Chamber of Commerce to investigate the chances of widening the road to Mount Maxwell.

Mr. Johnson said the road is a favorite tourist spot during the summer and the winter. The improvement, from Ganges Hill to Maxwell Mountain Park should be carried out by the provincial recreation department said Mr. Johnson. "It's a job for them," he said. "We can't expect the road men here to do it out of their allotment."

The all-new Triumph 1300 with front-wheel drive.

This revolutionary car has 17 important benefits. The first nine are safety features:

1. Telescopic steering column. Steering column collapses upon impact. And it adjusts 2 ways for maximum driving comfort.
2. Safety belts on front seats.
3. Super-strong monocoque body construction of pre-stressed steel actually absorbs impact. (It's the same principle which is used in aircraft design.)
4. Recessed door handles and fold-away window winders. No sharp projections to catch clothing (or injure passengers in an accident!)
5. Childproof safety locks. When locks are set, rear doors can be opened only from the outside.
6. Protective padding on dashboard, armrests, parcel shelf, sun visors and seat backs.
7. Front disc brakes stop on a dime. They're self-adjusting, fade-free and unaffected by weather.

8. Daytime headlight flasher lets you flash your high beams in case of emergency.
9. Patented air-extraction system changes the air in the car every 3 minutes; keeps the rear window fog-free.
10. Front wheel drive eliminates the drive-shaft hump in the floor. It means faster, safer cornering, and gives excellent traction in mud and snow because the engine presses down on the drive wheels. And the 1300 turns completely in only 31 feet—easily the best in its class!

11. 61-hp engine whisks you to 50 mph in only 13 seconds; tops 85 mph where conditions permit.

Body by Michelotti of Italy

12. 4-wheel independent suspension soaks up the roughest bumps.

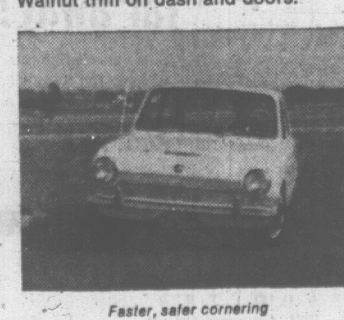

13. All-synchromesh 4-speed gearbox. Crisp, fingertip control makes shifting a real pleasure!

14. Full instrumentation includes fuel gauge, temperature gauge, ammeter, speedometer, trip meter, plus exclusive "all-systems-go" bank of warning lights.

15. Super-large Canadian-type heater with powerful booster fan.

16. 11-cubic-foot trunk has interior illumination.

17. Luxury throughout! Contoured front bucket seats in soft, breathable, 2-way stretch Ambia. Back seat with centre pull-down armrest. Armrests on all 4 doors. Wall-to-wall carpeting. Walnut trim on dash and doors.

Faster, safer cornering

Arthur Mayse

There are in this city as in every other, young people by the score and the hundred who find themselves torn miserably between love for their parents, and contrary emotions which they may shrink from attempting to define.

These are impatience, anger and revulsion; and in the same day, or even hour, a boy or girl can be scorched by all three.

Then, in the aftermath of some blinding family row, love returns, bringing with it some very painful rendings of conscience.

This seesaw of emotions does not make for happiness; a state, by the way, upon which our culture places far too much importance.

There are, of course, those who remain perfectly at ease within the family preserve. But the approximately normal person in the middle and late teens functions more freely, more effectively, and — if you insist — more happily when he has placed distance between himself and his parents.

★ This is no startling new manifestation of young-oneriness. The trouble is, we tend to forget how it was with us at those ages.

They represent the breaking-away years in which the one whom the mother and father must regard as still a child is straining toward his or her image of adulthood.

So you have the boy of 13 who heckles and pesters and finally declares flatly that he means to hitch-hike to Expo or work his way to Australia, and the girl who rakes her mother's heart by proclaiming that on her 19th birthday, she means to move into her very own apartment.

So the lists are set, the gauntlet cast, and the family that used to be so happy when the children were small is once again embroiled.

Witness the child-turned-stranger, glowering lynx-eyed at bewildered Mom and Dad, who in her eyes actually enjoy thwarting her on every occasion.

Love, battered but durable, will return in due time. But for the moment, it's war.

There are, of course, parents whose young achieve their transitions with no visible stresses and strains. I haven't met or heard about many of these; but they do exist.

I suggest, though, that you accept with reservations the maternal claim that Jack, or Jill, "never gives us a moment's worry."

More common in my experience are the young hawks who, long before they reach their majority, are straining after a freedom more wide than their anxious elders are willing to allow them.

★ I believe there would be much less heart-burning on both sides if this failure to agree upon practically anything you care to mention were recognized by both parties for what it is.

This is a phase of growing up — at the latest in the series of necessary steps which the child must take away from the parent.

If you are the latter, it is easy to delude yourself into a conviction that the boy growing so fast toward manhood has lost all affection for you.

Not so! But it is a different sort of love, and it calls for a different response than that of parent to pre-adolescent child.

This is the realization — and believe me, it hurts — that you the parents have now been relegated to the background of a daughter's life or a son's.

And there, if your own love is unselfish, you will require yourselves to stay. To cling, to dominate unreasonably, to insist upon shared confidences can only damage a relationship which has changed and will keep on changing.

This is a hard doctrine, both to accept and to follow. But parents who refuse to risk the ultimate loss of the very love they yearn to keep.

I have a word too for some 17-year-old who an hour ago told her father and mother she hated them, and is now probably in remorseful imagination sprinkling her tears over the coffins in which they lie.

If they are parents worth loving they know you are not a demon-child but merely an adolescent, and you are already forgiven.

Booms Out, Hoists In On Ship-and-a-Half

From the bow it looks like any other ship. But from the stern it's a different story. Unlike most lumber carriers, the 16,239-ton Tropwood has done away with the familiar booms.

In their place are two automatic side-loading hoists. The hoists, while looking cumbersome, cut in half the amount of time taken to load the vessel.

Just over a year old, the Tropwood tied up at Ogden Point for the first time today to load three million board feet for the eastern U.S.

First of her kind in the world, the Liberian-registered freighter does away with the need for the usual number of men on deck to supervise loading.

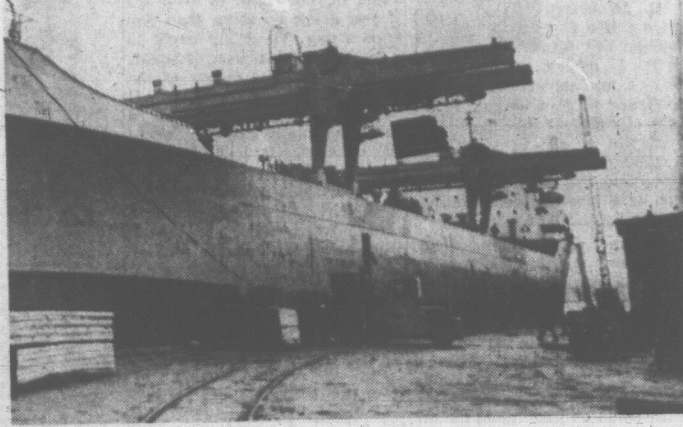

Instead, all they have to do is deposit the lumber on the docks and the hoist takes over.

The giant hoists travel up and down the 600-foot deck along railway tracks.

While one lot of lumber is being loaded from the dock, another batch can be lifted from floating barges on the other side.

Although a newcomer to Ogden Point, the Tropwood put into local waters once before when she visited Esquimalt for minor repairs.

Part of her present cargo was loaded in Squamish and the load will be topped off at other Vancouver Island ports.

BUT BISHOP SERIOUS

'New Direction' Hard to Believe

By DESMOND BILL

Bishop Remi J. De Roo leaned forward in his chair and spoke quietly.

"If I name the steering committee you know what will happen," he told the priests.

"We can talk all we like about a free election but our people will think it is only talk. They'll think I am really keeping control."

One of the priests in the room looked up, slightly startled. He is still not used to hearing a Catholic bishop talk like that.

Nor are a lot of other Catholics on Vancouver Island. They still can't quite believe that Bishop De Roo is really serious about giving the laity a voice in the church.

But the bishop represents the new direction of the Catholic Church towards more involvement of the laity and less direction from high church authority.

HE MEANS IT And his chairing of a meeting of the diocesan senate Thursday afternoon showed he means what he says.

There was a lack of formality for one thing. The Bishop called priests by their first names, not 'Father.' And they called him 'Bishop' not 'Your Excellency,' the traditional way of addressing a bishop.

The meeting was held in the living room of the bishop's home in Gordon Head. It got hot after a while and the priests quickly took off their collars and black vests and sat in their shirtsleeves.

UNPRECEDENTED These surface impressions were indicative of more important things. The senate meeting was unprecedented for two reasons.

It was the first time in Canada, and perhaps in the world, that a senate meeting has been open to the press.

Death In Fire Of Elderly Man Ruled 'Accident'

An elderly recluse found dead in the ashes of his isolated home New Year's Day died by accident, Coroner Edmond St. Jorre ruled today.

He said an inquiry showed no blame in the fire death of Louis Olsen, about 80, who lived by himself in a frame house he had built on Kangaroo Road.

His official investigation had not uncovered the cause of the fire said the coroner. The house had been reduced to just smouldering embers by the time a passerby spotted it early New Year's Day.

FORMERLY OF SAANICH

Ill-Fated Youngster Drowns in P. Rupert

Four-year-old Brent Bell was plagued from the day he was born. Since birth he had undergone 14 operations for an ear complaint. But his hearing was still impaired.

Three weeks ago, his parents decided to make a new life for themselves in Prince Rupert. On Wednesday while the family was still settling in their new apartment, Brent drowned not far from home.

The boy's mother, Mrs. Ann Bell, formerly of 374 Davida, Saanich, told today of Brent's ill-fated life.

14 OPERATIONS "He was plagued from the start," said the former health spa instructor.

Impaired Driver Jailed Six Weeks

Frank Charles Woods, 48, of 1256 Oliver St., was jailed for six weeks today when he pleaded guilty in traffic court to impaired driving.

Magistrate Byers imposed the jail term even though prosecutor John MacIntyre suggested it was not necessary.

The Crown alleged but did not present evidence proving it was Mr. Wood's second conviction for impaired driving.

The charge arose from an accident in the 2000 block Central Avenue Dec. 10 when Mr. Wood's car went out of control, ran across the sidewalk, over a small tree and into a flower bed. Roger Cyr, 20, of HMCS Yukon, was fined $400 when he appeared in criminal court and pleaded guilty to impaired driving.

He was arrested Thursday night after his auto clipped an oncoming car on the Old Island Highway, causing about $600 damage.

Police said they had four witnesses who reported Cyr was on the wrong side of the road at the time. There was no injuries in the crash.

"This is how people get killed, you know," Magistrate Ostler told Cyr in fining him and suspending his driving privileges.

Combos Take On League Leaders

Armed Forces Combos and Tudor Monarchs, deadlocked for second place in the Esquimalt and District Hockey League standings, pick on different rivals in an effort to move up the ladder tonight.

Combos' route seems toughest. They play first-place University Vikings at 7:45 while Tudors tackle last-place Stockers at 9:15 p.m.

ARMED GUARDS EVERYWHERE WHEN CITY BANK MAKES MOVE

Tight security arrangements including armed guards, police, commissioners and bank staff will shroud a February move by one of Victoria's busiest bank branches.

The Royal Bank at Fort and Cook shifts to temporary quarters on Fort just west of Cook in the early part of the month, where it will stay during construction of a new building on the old site.

A $250,000 two-storey building will rise where the existing branch stands, for which tenders will be called early next month.

New Safety Rule For All Ski Lifts

Employees of the province's two sightseeing cable cars and 37 ski lifts will have to take the first run each day from now on to make sure they're safe for passengers.

B.C. became the first province to adopt a proposed uniform code for ensuring safety on aerial tramways through a provincial cabinet order this morning. The code is expected to be adopted by all provinces and the federal government.

TWO-YEAR STUDY It was drafted by a two-year, 45-man study involving government representatives, industry and designers headed by the B.C. commercial transport department's chief engineer, Robert Swanson.

Deputy minister A. J. Bowering said the province moved quickly in making the draft code a part of the B.C. Railway Act.

Under the new regulations, the operators are made entirely responsible for meeting specifications and the safety of passengers. The operators must make daily inspections and keep a log, paying particular attention to ropes, wires, chair attachments, brakes and platforms.

"At the beginning of each working day, or after repairs have been made, an employee of the company shall be required to ride over the entire aerial tramway to make an inspection and to see that it is in safe and proper working condition before any passengers are carried," the regulations demand.

The regulations also require that each tramway have on hand stretchers, blankets and first-aid equipment as well as a stretcher-carrier that can be used to transport injured.

The new regulations come into effect only a week after the Grouse Mountain ski lift went back into operation—using its specifications—following an enquiry and re-equipping forced by an accident last spring.

A cable car plunged wildly March 21, injuring 10 persons, when a brake failed.

Phoney Gun Recognized By Victim

Two brothers who tried to hold up a middle-aged man at a bus stop Thursday night were nabbed by Esquimalt police within minutes.

The robbery bid failed when their victim ignored the hammer handle they brandished as a pistol and fled yelling.

Mervin Deyotte, 25, and his brother, Ronald, 29, both of 701 Connaught St., pleaded guilty to attempted robbery when they appeared in central court this morning. They were to be sentenced later in the day.

WAITING FOR BUS

City police said they approached Adam Schulz of 1077 Davie St. about 11:30 p.m. as he was waiting for a bus on Craigflower Road near Raynor.

The pair walked past Schulz and then returned to ask him when his bus would be along.

When he told them "very soon," Mervin hauled a black-handle hammer from his belt and pointing the hammer as though it were a pistol tried to hold him up.

Mr. Schulz fled to the nearby Victoria West Bakery at 418 Craigflower where staff phoned the police.

Esquimalt and city police converged on the area and the brothers were picked up by constable Herbert Weatherall about two blocks from the scene.

Questioned by city police later, they admitted intending to taking any money Mr. Schulz had.

Mervin has a previous conviction for a break-in and theft, court was told this morning.

Ronald's criminal record includes convictions for theft, offences under the Unemployment Insurance Act, causing a disturbance by fighting and assault.

Driver Located After Puppy Killed by Car

Saanich police Thursday night interviewed the driver of a car involved in an accident Wednesday morning which resulted in a puppy bleeding to death.

The six-month old spaniel, "Bob," lay on the front lawn of the Williams family at 4487 Majestic Drive with its chest sliced open for almost an hour before its injury was spotted.

It died in Mr. Williams' car as he was rushing to a veterinarian. The animal doctor said immediate attention would have saved Bob's life.

Two children told police the puppy was mortally injured when a hubcap flew off a car and hit him. The youngsters said the driver stopped long enough to retrieve the hubcap and then drove off.

Officers said today the case is still under investigation.

Pedestrian Hurt In Car Mishap

A woman was treated for abrasions to her knee at St. Joseph's Hospital this morning after a car-pedestrian accident at Belleville and Government Streets.

City police said Lily Johnny, 38, of 849 North Park, was injured when hit as she crossed Government Street at the intersection.

Driver of the car was identified as Adelard Gervais but his address was not immediately available.

They have accepted an invitation from Lieutenant-Governor and Mrs. George Pearkes to stay at Government House, a spokesman said.

A state dinner is planned and a program of local appearances is being drawn up by the provincial centennial committee.

The princess will open the British Columbia International

Trade Fair at Vancouver on Thursday, May 18.

The couple will arrive in Toronto May 16 for a three-week visit to Canada, the government announced in Ottawa today.

They will stay in Toronto until May 18, when they leave by plane for Vancouver and then Victoria.

On May 21 they leave Vancouver by train for Banff and remain there until May 24. After visits to Calgary and Edmonton, they will take a flying trip to the Yukon and

Q. What is the Victoria Dart Club?—F.D.

A. Dart Club is a Chinese men's service club, affiliated with Chinese Freemasons.

Q. What are the differences between field lacrosse and the game played indoors?—E.F.

A. Field lacrosse is played on a ground 110 yards long by 60 yards wide, has teams of 10 players each and uses longer sticks than those used in "box" lacrosse.

In "box" lacrosse which can be played outdoors in hockey rinks of the appropriate size, as well as in arenas, there are only six players to a team.

Million Workers Defy Mao

Peking-Bound For Showdown

Times News Services

HONG KONG — More than one million were reported today to have left jobs and homes throughout China to pour into Peking for a possible showdown over forced wage cuts under Mao Tse-tung's cultural revolution.

Japanese news dispatches said workers already had scuffled with Mao's Red Guards and major clashes were feared in the restless capital.

Premier Chou En-Lai was reported to have called on the workers to return home, saying they were damaging the nation's economy by not working and by using China's congested and strike-disrupted railways.

But the appeal apparently fell on deaf ears. The Japanese reports said the influx of workers had so swollen the capital that accommodations were exhausted and people had to wait up to two hours for seats in restaurants.

The Japanese reports said Mao's recent decision to dissolve the all China federation of trade unions, followed by reductions in salaries, already had touched off strikes and riots in Nanking, Shanghai, Canton, Fochow and other cities.

Japanese newspaper men reported that wall posters in Peking said Mao has returned to Peking to take personal command in his struggle against the faction headed by President Liu Shao-chi who appeared to have the support of the workers.

STRENGTHEN POLICE
The Peking correspondent for the Kyodo news agency said one poster announced that the central committee of the Chinese Communist party had decided to strengthen the powers of the security police.

This report said new measures included arrest for anyone hindering Mao's continuing purge or of hampering production, and the arrest of anyone ridiculing Mao or Defence Minister Lin Biao, Mao's heir apparent and chief associate in the purge.

A correspondent for the newspaper Asahi said he saw angry workers demonstrating in front of the security ministry and calling for the ouster of Security Minister Hsieh Fu-chih. Obviously Liu's followers were arousing the labor movement, which had been his stronghold. An editorial in People's Daily and the party theoretical journal Red Flag denounced "economism" — the search for higher wages and better working conditions — as "a new aspect of the big counter-attack launched by the bourgeois reactionary line on the proletarian revolutionary line."

It added that reactionary elements were inciting workers to stop work.

The Yugoslav news agency Tanjug reported from Peking that Tao Chu has been removed as propaganda chief, according to a list of new leaders of the Communist central committee's Continued on Page 2

'Bombing Must Stop'
ROME (Reuters)—Three West German clergymen who returned here from Hanoi said today that President Ho Chi Minh of North Vietnam continued to insist that U.S. bombing of North Vietnam must stop before peace talks could begin.

The mission, which flew to Rome Thursday night from Hong Kong, included Pastor Martin Niemoller, First World War U-boat commander who became world famous for his opposition to Hitler.

ARMY SPLIT INDICATED BY ARRESTS

PEKING (AFP)—A number of Chinese army officers—regarded as supporters of the "reactionary bourgeois line"—have been arrested and publicly paraded through the streets with their heads bowed, reliable sources said here today.

These reports, coupled with the official repudiation of the committee set up to conduct the cultural revolution within the army, indicates that the army is seriously divided at the top.

Three Killed,
One Survives
Plane Crash

DRYDEN, Ont. (CP) — A Canadian National Railways construction crew today found three men dead and a fourth injured in the wreckage of a plane on a northwestern Ontario spur line.

The Cessna 180 aircraft had been reported overdue Thursday on a 175-mile flight from Wabigoon Lake to Winnipeg.

Police identified the dead as pilot Emmett C. Hopfner, 43, of St. James; Gary Kleysen of Charleswood, and Nelson Cloutier of Transcona, all community lies in Greater Winnipeg.

Lloyd Hostland of Winnipeg was reported in satisfactory condition in hospital with broken ribs and frostbite.

Dam Pact
'Helps
Everyone'

Announcement that the U.S. will quadruple the Grand Coulee Dam today was cited as further proof the Columbia River treaty was a good deal for everyone by Resources Minister Ray Wiliston.

He was commenting on U.S. Interior Secretary Stewart Udall's statement in Washington this morning that the capacity of the dam is to be raised from 2 million kilowatts to 9.2 million over the next 20 years to make it the biggest in the world.

He said the boost would be made to take advantage of water storage in B.C. created by the international treaty.

The extra hydro power will be used to meet peak load periods in the Pacific Northwest as nuclear and thermal-generation plants gradually take over the job of providing the basic power needs, he said.

This hydro power will be produced at slightly more than half a mill — 52 mills — according to Bonneville power administrator David Black.

(B.C. took cash in lieu of power — on a formula equivalent to five mills — as its share of the downstream benefits under the Columbia treaty.)

VANCOUVER (CP) — Dick Fouts, 32, former defensive end of the British Columbia Lions of the Western Football Conference, was fined $300 today in magistrate's court for impaired driving. Magistrate Gerald Levey also prohibited Fouts from driving anywhere in Canada for four months.

Neo-Nazi Interview Attacked

OTTAWA (CP) — Conservative Leader Diefenbaker and the Canadian Labor Congress today added their voices to protests over the scheduled Canadian television appearance of a German neo-Nazi. Mr. Diefenbaker said in the Commons the CBC shows "an inexcusable disregard of Canadian sensibilities" with its invitation to Adolf von Thadden to appear on the program, "Sunday."

Press Control Plans Backed

BRASILIA (UPI) — A government spokesman said today President Humberto Castello Branco's majority party had no intention of either killing Brazil's proposed new press control bill or revising it drastically.

Fire Destroys
20 N.Y. Homes

NEW YORK (AP) — A 10-alarm fire punctuated by gas explosions roared through an eight-block residential area of Jamaica, Queens, today, destroying 20 homes and lighting the pre-dawn sky with brilliant yellow and orange flames for miles around.

Authorities at the scene said there were no reports of injuries.

Quick precautionary action by firemen and police, who responded to reports of a gas odor in the area and evacuated residents before the fire roared out of control, apparently saved many lives.

Two pieces of fire equipment — a ladder truck and an engine — were reported destroyed in the fire when they stalled and firemen had to abandon them.

The destroyed buildings were mainly one and two-family wooden frame homes.

SMOKE ENDS
By 8 a.m., the dense, black smoke that had shot hundreds of feet into the air was gone. Flames spurring out of the gas main shot about 200 feet into the air.

"If we did extinguish the flames now we would have free flowing gas in the area," said Fire Commissioner Robert O. Lowery. "We're just wetting buildings down to prevent the spread of the fire."

Police estimated that they got 100 persons safely out of their homes.

The report was made in June, 1965, by Vancouver lawyer George Murray at the request of former mayor William Rathie. It followed a $1,200,000 money robbery at a downtown

OTTAWA (CP) — Two charges by the city of Ottawa were sworn today against O. J. Gaffney Ltd. of Stratford, Ont., in connection with the Heron Road bridge collapse that took nine lives. Charges were: Failing to brace the structure in a safe manner to withstand all loads likely to be applied to it; and not supplying sufficient bracing and supports to ensure that the project or any part would safely support all loads.

Little Pete's Game Popular
With Law

SEATTLE (AP)—Police Chief Rank C. Ramon began an extensive inquiry today into reports that a number of on-duty policemen had been leaving their downtown beats to play poker in a locked tavern on Sunday nights.

Ramon said he found enough in a preliminary check to confirm the reports, and added: "There is going to be disciplinary action."

The inquiry was prompted by information supplied by two Seattle reporters who have had police under surveillance for several weeks.

Ramon said he had found that on-duty patrolmen had been going to the Pacific Tavern on First Avenue and entering the padlocked door on Sunday nights with their own keys.

The chief said he had learned further that a poker game known as "Little Pete's game" had been going on at the tavern for at least five years and both on-duty and off-duty policemen had played in it.

"The on-duty officers are derelict of their duties," Ramon said. "The off-duty officers are guilty of real bad judgment, but they weren't doing anything illegal."

"If we did extinguish the flames now we would have free flowing gas in the area," said Fire Commissioner Robert O. Lowery. "We're just wetting buildings down to prevent the spread of the fire."

Police estimated that they got 100 persons safely out of their homes.

The report was made in June, 1965, by Vancouver lawyer George Murray at the request of former mayor William Rathie. It followed a $1,200,000 money robbery at a downtown warehouse and a string of bank robberies in which police officers were believed to have been involved.

One constable thought to have been involved in the criminal activities, Leonard Hogue, died in an apparent murder-suicide that also claimed the lives of his wife and six children.

Mayor Campbell's actions Thursday were the latest development in his 18-month fight to have Mr. Murray's report released to the public.

OFFICER'S VIEW ON UNITY
TO DETERMINE PROMOTION

By DAVE MCINTOSH

OTTAWA (CP) — Canadian Forces headquarters has issued orders which indicate that an officer's views on service unification may play a part in his appointments and promotions.

Confidential reports are made annually on each officer in the services by a superior officer. This has long been a standard practice, as in the business world.

These "performance evaluation reports" are written on a standard form known as CF255. Last September an order went out from headquarters amending CF255. Part of this order reads:

"You will appreciate the need to assess the tri-service potential of all officers. Accordingly a sub-para C has been added to para 18 entitled employment—suitability for employment outside of their normal service environment—in which the assessor will record his opinion of the assessee's potential for employment in integrated position."

Another order dealt with the new provision for fast promotion of officers of exceptional ability.

The latter order also says: "Because officers promoted in this category must have truly exceptional qualities, the most extreme care possible will be taken in selection procedures. The unit commander, base commander, area or formation commander, chief of personnel, and finally the chief of defence staff must all agree and the chief of the defence staff personally will be the final approving authority."

"This policy will apply only to those officers who have clearly demonstrated truly exceptional intelligence, ability and potential."

"Statistical evidence indicates that personnel in this exceptional category constitute less than one per cent of any group."

Nationalist Chinese Claim
Two Red Fighters Shot Down

TAIPEI, Formosa (Reuters)—The Nationalist Chinese Air Force today claimed to have shot down two Chinese Communist MIG-19s in a dogfight off Quemoy Island in the Formosa Strait.

The defence ministry said Nationalist jet fighters involved in a dogfight with 12 MIG-19s suffered no loss and returned to base safely.

The air battle was the first downed two of the Communist MIGs and the remaining 10 MIGs fled towards the mainland, it said.

The defence ministry's announcement did not disclose the type of Nationalist planes involved in the battle.

Since the Nationalists fled from the mainland in 1949 sporadic air and sea clashes have been reported in the Formosa Strait.

BUSINESS VIEWS

World Demand for Pulp Continues to Stay Firm

By AB KENT
Business Editor

B.C. pulp producers are still concerned about the possibility of oversupply in world markets. But though this fear was first expressed many months ago it has failed to materialize, even with mills producing pulp at 95 per cent of their rated capacity.

Latest figures from the Canadian Pulp and Paper Association and Dominion Bureau of Statistics show pulp sales in the first nine months of 1966 are up 16 per cent over the previous comparable period.

tons, which is 12 per cent less.

Canada continues to bolster her position as a supplier of molybdenum to the metal-hungry world.

The country stands second to the U.S. as top world producer and seems destined to take over first place as more molybdenum prospects become developed.

According to Brenda Mines Ltd., vice-presidents M. M. Menzies and M. Davis, independent studies show an average annual increase in demand for molybdenum of 8 per cent.

They say there will be continuous excess of demand over supply, even taking new production into consideration.

A price increase in molybdenum concentrates corroborates the shortage. Noranda Sales Corp. Ltd. announced Thursday a rise from $1.55 to $1.62 per pound for molybdenum concentrate, for metal contained.

And for molybdenum oxide the price goes from $1.75 to $1.82 per pound for metal contained. Both prices are in U.S. terms, f.o.b. mine.

The association declares that world demand for pulp continues strong.

The local apprehension was based in part on new pulp producing capacity coming on line—five mills added to the 17 operating plants—which it was felt would glut the market.

On a long-run basis the expansion of pulp-producing capacity was likely justified by the projected growth studies made by the industry.

But what appears to be happening is an accelerated rate of international demand, and even if there should be some oversupply it can be no more than a few months' duration.

The fact is that most of the B.C. pulp production is raw product rather than manufactured in the secondary process of paper-making.

And the reason is that a cheap, high quality bulk pulp is available on the world market, a good deal going to the U.S.

Statistics show an estimated 12-month production in the B.C. industry last year at 3.625 million tons of chemical and groundwood pulp.

This compares with an actual 1965 production of 3.248 million tons, which is 12 per cent less.

But the major coal producer in B.C. showed increased production of 6,299 tons for the month.

Figures show a total coal production in November, 1966, of 77,166 tons, of which 77,104 was from the Michel pits of Crow's Nest Pass Coal Co.

A year before the total output was 86,943 tons, 70,815 tons of it from Michel.

Meanwhile, collieries being worked in other parts of the province have cut back production or closed down, among them the Teale River operation of Comox Coal.

Rothmans of Pall Mall Canada Ltd. are confident of an increase in snobbish smoking, perhaps to keep pace with the rise in value of their own shares in six years—from $10 to just over $25.

The company has just distributed a premium-priced cigarette with the impressive name Rembrandt, about three eighths of an inch longer than regular king size, and packed in green and gilt paper.

It takes its place in a stable already occupied by the exotic Dunhill and St. Moritz. But don't expect to buy any at the corner store.

President John H. Devlin said the new tag will be "available through a limited number of selected outlets across Canada"—like the Empress Hotel and Union Club.

Thomson Wins Union Battle

LONDON (C.P.)—Lord Thomson has agreed to revive his $6,000,000 plan to publish two new daily newspapers in suburban London after winning a major battle with Britain's printing unions.

His organization has disclosed plans to restore the Hemel Hempstead project in the north London outskirts which will publish The Evening Post in the Bedfordshire and northern Hertfordshire area and The Evening Echo to circulate in southwest Hertfordshire.

An official said that because of the long management-union dispute now ended, it will take more time to get the two web-offset newspapers ready. The original spring target date likely will be changed to later in the year.

However, steps will be taken to revive a personnel recruiting drive and to train those hired to produce the newspaper with the utmost economy.

The Thomson Organization decision followed agreement by two trade unions to reduce their manning demands so that only 19 of their union men will be required for the two Hemel Hempstead presses instead of 35 originally proposed.
